Why Borrow?
High Speed in France.
Pity This Husband.
James, All Alone.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THIS COUNTRY wisely proposes to spend three thousand millions to relieve unemployment. Will the government borrow the money from lenders, paying four per cent interest, which would add $120,000,000 a year to the taxpayers' burdens?

Why must the government BORROW that money, slowly retiring the bonds, when it could print perfectly good money, as good as its own bonds, with the same guarantee, and retire the CURRENCY as it would retire THE BONDS?

At the end of twenty years, if bonds were issued at four per cent for three thousand million dollars, taxpayers would have to pay in interest, compounded every six months, a total sum of more than six billions, twice the sum borrowed.

Could you imagine any better saving than paying for three billion dollars' worth of work with nice new money, retiring the money, and saving in interest for taxpayers the gigantic sum of SIX THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS?

FRANCE, on a government-owned railway, has successfully tested a double-decked rail car at 125 miles an hour. Its 800-horsepower engine using "benzol or alcohol" carries 80 passengers one mile on a third of a gallon.

W. A. Harriman, of the Union Pacific, is building a "caterpillar streamlined" that, it is hoped, will do as well.

The day of the car weighing 180,000 pounds, and carrying 4,000 pounds of passengers, at 40 or 50 miles an hour, will soon be over. And railroads, thanks to their immensely valuable rights of way, will be more profitable than they ever were.

VIOLENTLY interesting is the queer, deep-sea fish-husband that spends its life clinging to its huge mate. If it lets go, the practical wife eats it, and lives a widow until another husband attaches itself to her, when she is not looking.

This deep-sea fish, called photocorynus spiniceps, is more pathetic than the husband of the deep-sea parasite crab, fifty times smaller than its wife, living under one of her flippers.

THE WIFE of spiniceps, possessing a phosphorescent glow, attracts many would-be husbands, and devours nine out of ten as they approach. When one slips by the wife's wide mouth, it fastens, with its sharp teeth, on to some part of the body, lives on her blood, which she does not miss, and they begin housekeeping.

Mother Nature, determined to perpetuate every species, manages it somehow. The female spider, many times as big as her mate, devours him, when he approaches with the best of intentions, unless he is very cautious.

Nimble, jumping backward and forward, as Fabre tells you, he studies the fat creature that awaits him. Woe to him, if he comes too close, when her mind is on luncheon, not on matrimony.

"ALL ALONE," James Mattern, of Texas, continuing his flight around the world, reached Omsk in Siberia at half past six yesterday morning, eastern daylight saving time, having flown from Moscow, 1,400 miles, in 12 hours 21 minutes, without stopping.

This record he made in spite of strong head winds. It has taken him 73 hours and 15 minutes to fly from Long Island, across the Atlantic Ocean, over Europe and Russia, and on to Omsk, Siberia. Alone at the controls he has beaten all records, thus far. When does he sleep?

KIND-HEARTED Belgian nuns, establishing a Catholic home for native girls at Kongolo, in the Belgian Congo, as told in the June issue of "Catholic Missions," find that they are maintaining a home for young girls that run away from polygamy.

Monsignor Lempereur, in "Catholic Missions," says:

"Frequently a young girl is sold against her will to an old polygamist, for the reason that he is able to pay a higher sum for her."

Six hundred such cases have recently been handled. The good sisters pay the old polygamist the price of the young bride that does not like him, and later arrange a match for her as the only wife of some young man who repays her price, sometimes as much as $80, in instalments.

YESTERDAY, at Boulder Dam, Uncle Sam, proving that he can do big things in a big way, if "best minds" and Congress will let him, poured the first cubic yard in the concrete arched wall that will be 730 feet high, 1,180 feet wide, and will hold back and control the waters of the Colorado.

It will take two years to pour the five million five hundred thousand barrels of concrete. Back of that wall, surface waters from six states will be held back.

The great task will be finished in August, 1935, and cost $165,000,000. Pray that, unlike the Muscle Shoals project, this new power plant will be used from the start for the benefit and profit of the people that built and paid for it.

'DRY' INDIANA FOR REPEAL BY 2-1

Loss of State Blow To Champions of Prohibition

INDIANAPOLIS, June 7.—(AP.)—Indiana, hope of prohibitionists to stop a steady march of states toward repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, today had joined the wet parade.

In a special election yesterday it became the tenth consecutive state to decide that prohibition has no part in the Federal Constitution and should be removed through ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment.

The popular state-wide vote on the question was two to one in favor of repeal. The unofficial tabulation was 517,544 to 284,806 in 3,378 of the state's 3,691 precincts.

Of the 329 delegates named in yesterday's election to the convention that will meet here June 26 formally to register the will of the people, 250 will be pledged to vote for the new amendment.

The anti-repealists will have 79 delegates.

RURAL VOTE SURPRISES

Surprising strength came from a number of rural counties—heretofore looked upon as strongholds of the dry forces—to boost the vote the repealists had been given in the large cities.

Every thickly populated county in the state pledged its large delegation to vote for repeal.

Fifty-seven of the 92 counties in Indiana voted for repeal. Each county was apportioned one delegate for each 10,000 population.

Forces opposed to any change in the Constitution won delegates from 35 counties.

Believing Indiana was the first state where they had a chance to defeat the proposal to remove prohibition from the federal Constitution, workers opposed to the change made a vigorous campaign.

States other than Indiana that have voted to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment are Illinois,

HOTTEST DAY STRIKES CITY

Torrid Wave Killing 6 In West Sweeps On, Mercury Rising

Pittsburgh today sweltered in the hottest weather of the year.

Before 3 o'clock the mercury had mounted to 89, with indications that it would closely approach the all time record of 94, established here in 1885.

Today's torrid weather was regarded as only a forerunner of what is in store tomorrow, as the Midwest today was in the throes of a heat wave which had claimed six lives. St. Louis had four heat fatalities and Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich., reported one each.

One heat prostration was reported here yesterday, when the mercury reached 86, then the high mark of the year.

The hardest hit of the Midwest was the Chicago area, where 95 was expected after the mercury had made a steady climb this morning. Through Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Iowa the thermometer was almost as relentless as yesterday when it shot above 100 degrees in some sections. In Kansas City yesterday the mercury reached 99.4 degrees. Council Bluffs, Ia., reported 106, Clarinda 105 and Des Moines 103, breaking all June heat records.

Close to Pittsburgh, Columbus recorded 86 at 9 o'clock this morning, 15 degrees above normal and mounted rapidly. Louisville was expecting yesterday's high of 94 to be passed. One sun stroke victim there was in a serious condition.

The torrid wave sweeping from the West for several days already had reached the eastern seaboard. Harrisburg and Philadelphia both reported mounting temperatures.

Action on Miller Delayed in Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which was to have considered today the nomination of Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, deferred its meeting until tomorrow.

JOB AID BILL DEBATE ON IN SENATE

Reed Leading Fight For Sales Tax to Finance Measure

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The administration's industrial recovery-public works bill—last of the major measures to come before the extra session—began its journey through the Senate today with Democrats confident they could prevent drastic revisions to be proposed by Republicans and some members on their own side.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, principal author of the bill, opened debate after Republican regulars in party conference had decided to press for a sales tax of 1½ per cent to finance the $3,300,000,000 federal, state and local construction program.

The Republicans also decided to propose elimination of the section authorizing the President to license industries to force their adherence to fair trade agreements adhered to by a majority in an industry.

Democratic leaders predicted this as well as the sales tax would fail.

EMPLOYMENT AID

Describing the bill as an "employment" proposal, Wagner told Senate that while there had been some "slight improvement" in economic conditions in the last three months, if nothing is done to speed revival "we shall not only lose such gains as have been made but shall relapse into a chaos the consequences of which are too alarming to contemplate."

Wagner asserted the suspension of anti-trust laws contemplated to permit trade agreements under the bill was directly intended to carry out the objectives which those laws failed to achieve. He said:

"The anti-trust laws have not checked in the slightest degree the constant growth in the size of business units, and the intensifying concentration of a relatively few enormous enter-

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—(INS.)—Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who began life as a poor newspaper boy in Portland, Me., and became one of the nation's foremost publishers and philanthropists, died early today at his estate, "Lyndon," in Wyncote. He would have been 83 on June 18.

He had been ill for more than a year with heart disease and suffered a sudden relapse last Friday.

At the bedside when the end came were Mrs. Mary Louise Curtis Bok, his only child; Mrs. John C. Martin, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Pearson Wells, of Detroit, stepdaughters; John C. Martin and two personal physicians, Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Freeman Brown, of Rockland, Me.

Curtis was head of the Curtis Publishing Company, which publishes the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Journal and the Country Gentleman. He also was head of the Curtis-Martin Newspapers, Inc., publishers of Public Ledger, Evening Ledger and the

NEW SESSION IF BUDGET IS UPSET

Accept Cuts or Vote New Taxes, His Defi; Promises Fight

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt went into conference today with the House Democratic steering committee in an effort to adjust the controversy over veterans' allowances.

At the same time Speaker Rainey told newspapermen that if Congress accepted the Connolly amendment, increasing veterans' outlays, without raising taxes and adjourned, President Roosevelt would immediately call another extra session. Rainey said:

"The budget has got to be balanced. If the Congress adjourns after accepting the Connally amendment to the independent offices bill, throwing the budget $170,000,000 out of balance, the President would be justified in calling an extra session."

READY TO FIGHT

Rainey said that thus far the compromise offered by President Roosevelt had not been accepted by proponents of the amendment.

He added that President Roosevelt was ready "to fight it out with Congress," saying the country would "back him up in his efforts to maintain a balanced budget." Rainey contended:

"He will call a special session and keep us here all summer if necessary."

The President pointed out to the committee that of more importance than the dollars and cents involved in the dispute is the principal of providing government care for veterans whose injuries are not traceable to war service.

He feels that the Senate proposal violates in this respect the principal laid down in the Democratic platform and in the economy bill passed early this session.

WOMAN DENIES CHILD ABUSE

Alleged to have caused a 3-year-old Juvenile Court ward to be chained because she couldn't say her prayers properly, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, of West View, voluntarily appeared to answer a warrant for her arrest at the County Detective Bureau today.

She was arraigned before Alderman T. A. Flanigan and released on her own recognizance for a hearing next Monday.

Her attorney, Bresci Leonard, said:

"Mrs. McCarthy denies all charges against her, because there is no case against her. I don't believe the county detectives think they have a case against her."

The warrant, signed by Alderman Flanigan yesterday, charged her with assault and battery and abuse of a minor child.

Van Swearingen Bares Income Tax Loophole

Holding Companies Organized for Purpose

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—One of the secrets of "big business" to legally escape federal taxation was disclosed today by the Senate Banking Committee's investigation of the railroad holdings of the J. P. Morgan & Co.

The Van Sweringen brothers, whose 18,000-mile railroad empire was finally acquired by J. P. Morgan & Co., created a chain of holding companies to merge and consolidate their rail holdings.

In each instance stock was exchanged for stock so that no cash passed, O. P. Van Sweringen admitted after persistent questioning.

This method cost the government huge sums in taxes, because no profits were recorded on the books of any company, even though the value of the holdings increased enormously.

MATTERN SEEN OVER SIBERIA

MOSCOW, June 7.—(AP.)—Fifteen hours after he had passed Novosibirsk, Jimmy Mattern, American round-the-world flier, was unreported today so far as Moscow knew, but unless he had encountered difficulties with his plane he should have reached Chita, Siberia, the next stop on his schedule.

Delays in communication, which increased the further eastward the flier progressed, left Moscow without word of his whereabouts.

The Moscow Weather Bureau said the aviator should encounter good weather and wind conditions as far as Krasnoyarsk, after which he probably would meet strong headwinds and cloudy weather on his way to Chita.

NOVOSIBIRSK, Siberia, June 7.—(AP.)—Jimmie Mattern was sighted here at 4:10 a. m. today Moscow time, 9:10 p. m. Tuesday, Pittsburgh time. He was flying high and fast toward Chita, Siberia, his destination in the fifth lap of his round-the-world flight.

This town is about 400 miles due east of Omsk, Siberia, where he hopped off at 1:10 a. m Moscow time (6:10 p. m. Tuesday, Pittsburgh time. His average speed was about 130 miles an hour.

DINUBA, Cal., June 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Nancy Yates Wilson, 36, awoke and found her four-months-old baby dead beside her. Hysterical, she told police she slapped the child in the night because it cried.

Mrs. Wilson was charged with manslaughter in Justice Court. A Coroner's jury found the child died from a cerebral hemorhage.

William S. Hedges To Manage KDKA

William S. Hedges, veteran radio executive, has been appointed general manager of Station KDKA, according to an announcement in New York today by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company.

Hedges, twice president of the National Association of Broadcasters and former manager of Station WMAQ, Chicago, is now chairman of the executive committee of N. A. B.

Noisy Parties Bring Police Raid on Home

Gertrude Rihn, 36, whose home at 5416 Center avenue was raided early today, was fined $100 as the keeper of a disorderly house. Edward Rihn, 18, and Charles and Della Painter were fined $5 as visitors.

The place was raided on complaint of C. J. Alexander, manager of the adjoining Arlington Apartments, who testified noisy parties disturbed his tenants.

Pupils Buried, Many Hurt As Storm Rages

BULLETIN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 7.—(AP.)—Two men were believed killed, and at least five persons were injured as the worst electrical storm of the year struck western New York this afternoon. A 52-mile wind drove unusually heavy rain and reports of damage came from many localities.

TORONTO, Ontario, June 7.—(AP.)—Ontario was lashed by a violent rain, hail and electrical storm today which damaged two school buildings, injuring numerous pupils.

In Toronto a fireman was killed and three others were seriously injured while fighting a fire at Our Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Church. Lightning started the fire. The firemen fell 75 feet from a ladder.

The storm blew in the rear end of Belle School, three miles west of Milton. Several children were buried beneath the wreckage of the frame building, part of the roof of which collapsed.

At Winon about 20 children were buried under bricks, laths and plaster when a chimney on a public school building crashed through the roof.

Windows in the Collegaite Institute at Guelph were shattered and five students were injured by flying glass.

New York Lifts Insurance Cash Ban

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Restrictions on the payment of cash surrender values and policy loans by life insurance companies in this state were removed yesterday except in cases where the funds are sought for speculation or hoarding.

George S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance, in announcing the revised regulations, said applications for payments must be made in writing and the reasons stated for which the money is sought.

Campus Killing Follows Fatal Auto Crash

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—(AP.)—A slaying and a suicide on the campus of Milwaukee Downer College, exclusive school for girls, today followed an automobile accident near Waukesha, in which one man was killed and two young women injured seriously. The tragedies followed a party at Waukesha Beach.

The dead:

Leonard Nelson, 29, a janitor, who police said shot himself.

Gustave Peterson, 27, also a janitor, said by authorities to have been shot by Nelson.

Alvin Nielson, 21, Irma, Wis., who died of injuries suffered in an accident near Waukesha.

The injured were Jeanette Roszak, 17, Milwaukee and Erna Nielson, 19, sister of Alvin. Both girls were passengers in Nelson's car.

Nelson, Miss Roszak, and the Nielsons were returning from a party at Waukesha Beach last night when the car went out of control, left the road and struck a telephone pole.

Nielson and Miss Roszak, who were in the rumble seat, were thrown into the pavement and suffered skull fractures. Neilson died at Waukesha Municipal Hospital. Miss Nielson suffered cuts and bruises.

Sheriff Arthur Moran directed the removal of the injured. Moran ordered Nelson to follow in his car, but he failed to appear.

Milwaukee police went to the campus. In the bathroom of Nelson's quarters they found the body of Peterson. While they were waiting for an ambulance they heard a shot and found Nelson. He died without regaining consciousness.

MRS. PINCHOT'S ATTACK PERILS SWEATSHOP QUIZ

ASSAILS FOUR PROBERS AS REFORM FOES.

Girls Tell Legislators Of Forced 'Petting,' Peeping Bosses

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—(AP.)—A legislative investigation into so-called sweatshop conditions in Philadelphia today was threatened by a break in the ranks of the commission, after Mrs. Pinchot, wife of the Governor and a member of the committee, said four members have not looked kindly toward social legislation.

Mrs. Pinchot made her remarks after witnesses declared girls in their teens fainted in factories because of poor ventilation, while others were subjected to indignities, forced to work for as little as 50 cents for 40 hours or put on piecework at pay which netted only eight cents for 3 hours and 15 minutes of steady work.

Employers, heard by the committee, asserted that girl employes earn all possible under present conditions and choose long hours in fear that someone else will get what little work there is.

Members of the firm of Aron Lieberman & Sons, whose establishments was assailed yesterday, were the first witnesses.

Max Lieberman said it was true that four girls usually employed by his firm earned as low as $5 a week, but said that it was as much as they could make on piece work during present conditions.

He denied girls worked 55 and 60 hours a week as was testified before the commission.

DENIES PETTING

Joseph Leiberman was called in connection with charges that he subjected $5 a week girl employes to indignities.

Describing himself as a 60-year-old grandfather, he denied ever entering their dressing room. Senator Owlett asked:

"Will you continue to employ the girls who came here and made these accusations?"

He replied:

"Absolutely."

Owlett then called three young girls to the front of the room. Their names were withheld by the committee. The chairman demanded, pointing to one of the three:

"Did you ever fondle or caress this girl?"

The aged employer replied:

"I did not."

The girl intervened:

"He cannot deny touching me. All of the girls say he touched them at some time."

ASSAILS LEGISLATORS

Mrs. Pinchot assailed four members of the commission as "foes of humanitarian legislation," naming Senators Mason G. Owlett, of Tioga County, chairman; Bertram G. Frazier, of Philadelphia; Representative Eugene J. Gorman, of Lehigh County, and A. W. Shriner, of Dauphin.

These four, with Senator Richard S. Quigley, who Mrs. Pinchot said was a loyal follower of former United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, constitute a majority of the committee of nine—three from the House of Representatives, three from the State Senate, and three named by Gov. Pinchot.

UTILITY PROBE DECISION NEAR

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 7.—(AP.)—Determination of a number of investigations, in progress since Gov. Pinchot took office in 1931, depends on whether the handicapped Senate Utilities Investigating Committee decides to quit or carry on without state funds.

Pinchot's veto of the McClure resolution continuing the work of the committee and appropriating $100,000 for it, left the group high and dry with a total of $50,000 in unpaid bills.

A decision as to its future course is expected to be reached by the committee probably next week.

Twin inquiries were launched by the Legislature in 1931, the Republican organization - controlled Senate conducting one and Pinchot and the House the other. Since the close of the 1931 regular session, Senate committees, prodded by Pinchot, have done most of the investigating of alleged excessive rates charged by public utilities and the connection of Public Service Commissioners with the utilities.

TEXT OF NEW VET REGULATIONS

Memorandum pertaining to amendatory regulations,

June 6, 1933.

Many changes were made today by the President in veterans' regulations concerning pensions of veterans of the World War and the Spanish American War.

Amendment No. 1 changes the basic rate for war time service-connected disabilities of veterans of the Spanish-American War and the World War from $6 to $80 to $9 to $90. Under this amendment the service-connected Spanish-American War veterans will receive payments substantially in excess of those which they were receiving prior to the passage of the economy act. As to World War veterans, the new rate is 10 per cent less than the rate in effect for permanent service connected disabilities prior to the economy act.

LOSS OF ARMS, LEGS

Amendment No. 2 provides for ratings for the loss of use of arms or legs on a comparable basis with anatomical losses of such members.

Amendment No. 3 provides a special rate of $150 per month in lieu of $100 per month previously provided by regulation for persons who have suffered the anatomical losses or the loss of both hands or both feet, or of one hand and one foot, or where the person is so helpless as to be in need of regular aid and attendance where such loss resulted from injury or disease incurred in war time service.

Amendment No. 4 provides a special rate of $175 per month in lieu of the rate of $150 per month previously authorized by regulation for persons who have suffered the anatomical loss or the loss of use of both hands and one foot, or both feet and one hand, resulting from injury or disease incurred in wartime service.

PEACE-TIME CLAIMS

Amendment No. 5 increases the rates payable for service-connected peace-time disabilities to 50 per cent of the rate payable for disabilities incurred in wartime service.

Amendment No. 6 authorizes the payment of wartime rates to peace time veterans or their dependents, injured or killed in military occupations or expeditions, such as Nicaragua, Haiti, China, etc.

Amendment No. 7 authorizes an increase in rate for those Spanish-American war veterans who served 90 days or more and who are over 62 years of age, from $6 to $15 per month.

Amendment No. 8 authorizes an increase in rate for non-service connected permanent and total disabilities for World War and Spanish-American war veterans from $20 to $30 per month. This will include all presumptive World War cases coming off the rolls who are permanently and totally disabled.

Amendment No. 9 9revises the rating schedule to provide a 10-step schedule in lieu of the five-step schedule previously authorized by regulations. It is also provided that on the review directed by Section 17 of Public No. 2, Seventy-third Congress, no decrease in the amount payable on March 21, 1933, exclusive of special statutory allowances, will be greater than 25 per cent. The adoption of this new table with thei ncrease in rates approved will limit reductions in cases of men suffering with wartime disabilities directly connected with the service to an average of approximately 18 per cent, with the above-referred to limitation that in no event shall reduction be greater than 25 per cent.

BURIAL EXPENSES

Amendment No. 10 pertains to burial and funeral expenses for deceased, honorably dicharged war veterans, so as to authorize the payment of the allowance of $75, including transportation, if the veteran's net assets at time of death are less than $1,000. In determining assets, it is provided that there shall not be included accrued benefits, such as compensation, pension, etc. The adoption of this amendment should eliminate any difficulties, in so far as burial expenses are concerned, in the cases of those veterans who die leaving their families in necessitous circumstances.

Amendment No. 11 pertains to children of deceased veterans and provides that pension may be paid to such children up to 18 years of age, instead of 16 years as previously provided in regulations, and further provides that if a child is in an approved school or college, sufficient pension may be paid during the continuance of such educational course up to the age of 21 years.

Amendment No. 12 excepts from the prohibition of payment of pensions to federal employes (1) the widows of deceased veterans; (2) those veterans whose salary or compensation for services as employes is $50 per month or less.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 7.—(AP.)—If sister's beau can't bribe little brother to stay out of the parlor, there's still Lewis B. Simon's "Haven for Lovers" beside the Cooper River Parkway.

Simon put up a sign on his property calculated to increase the pulse rate of any average swain. It reads:

"Lovers may park beyond this sign at own risk—police must keep out."

Simon says:

"There's no criminal offense in loving. And lovers ought not to be bothered by police, who should earn their money in some other way."

PEDIGREED PUPS FED BY CAT

lion and the lamb didn't lie down together, but what did transpire was almost as startling.

The pups thrived on the feline ministrations and the cat accepted them as a substitute for her own children, which drowned.

Army Kit Probe Defy Hurled by Bevier

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—Richard B. Bevier, New York contractor, accused by a Senate committee of overcharging the government for toilet articles intended for issue to reforestation camp workers, today flatly challenged the Army's Quartermasters Corps to come within 10 per cent of his prices as of May 15. He said:

"We will sell to the government the toilet kits specified by us in our contract at a price 10 per cent lower than the quartermaster general can buy those articles at May 15 prices.

"The quartermaster general has made certain statements indicating that he can buy the same standard articles for a total of 85 cents per kit. I ask the committee to call on him to do this, based on May 15 prices, and Bevier & Co. will stand any reasonable expense in connection with the matter."

Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, acting chairman, said there were not enough committee members present to approve this, but he personally favored the suggestion.

Vets' Compensation Rules Compared

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—Hhe following approximate figures made public by an authority on veterans affairs show the effect of the President's modification order in veterans' cuts, as compared with what was planned for veterans under the 1934 budget, and the cuts made under the economy act.

Service Connected Cases

Under the 1934 budgeet, 380,000 veterans were to draw $221,000,000. Under the economy act 225,000 veterans were to draw $65,000,000. This was a cut of approximately 40 per cent in numbers; 50 puer cent in cash. The President's modification order would give to the 225,000 veterans about $89,500,000.

The monthly average per veteran undert he 1934 budget estimate was $48; under the economy act $24; under the modification order $33.

Non-Service Connected Cases

Under the 1934 budget estimate, 501,000 veterans, with disabilities ranging from 25 per cent up, were to receive $101,000,000. Under the economy act, 48,500 totally disabled veterans were to get an average of $20 a month. The President's order increased this to $30 a month. The total received would thus be raised from approximately $10,000,000 to approximately $15,000,000.

Spanish War Veterans

Under the 1934 budget estimate, 197,000 Spanish War veterans were to receive $107,000,000. Under the economy act, 82,600 veterans were to receive $12,800,000. Spanish War widows, under the 1934 budget, numbered 43,000 to receive $17,000,000; under the economy act, 41,000 widows were to receive $7,700,000. The President's modification order changed this only by providing that the $6 rate for veterans 62 years and over should be raised to $15 a month.

HOUSE DEFIED BY ROOSEVELT OVER VETS

Accept Cuts or Vote More Taxes, His Ultimatum

ate amendment is kept, new taxes will have to be raised to meet the added cost of $170,000,000.

The modification of regulations announced yesterday, he said, will not require new taxes to meet the cost. This is estimated at about $50,000,000 by the White House.

Under the Senate provision, it is the understanding at the White House that about 160,000 cases would be added to the government rolls on the presumption that they were service-connected.

It is this presumption clause which particularly irks the administration. Under it any man who becomes sick six years after leaving the service is presumed to be ill as a result of that service.

FAVORS VETERANS

What the President wants to do is eliminate this persumption and establish the practice of "reasonable doubt." It is his determination also to resolve the doubt in favor of the veterans but he does not want the government's hands tied.

Democratic leaders said President Roosebelt's move in relaxing the regulations in service-connected cases of the World War and on Spanish1American War pensions eased the tension considerably among House members.

Speaker Rainey said, however, that it appeared his colleagues wanted to vote for something favorable to the former soldiers in order to be placed on record to that effect.

LEGION TO AID VET PROTEST

Allegheny Post, No. 41, of the American Legion, announced today its service and rehabilitation committee will assist veterans every evening until 9 p. m. to file protests and seek adjustments in connection with disability payments discontinued under the national ecenomy bill.

The announcement said local Congressmen who voted for the bill will be held to account for their action.

It was claimed more than 1,000 Pittsburgh veterans must seek aid from local charity if efforts for reconsideration of worthy cases fail.

Death Bar to Claim Broken by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill providing that no civil damage actions brought by the United States shall be abated by the death of the defendant, but shall be enforceable against the estate.

Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, author of the bill, said it was designed to protect the government in an action against Edward L. Doheny.

Publicity Gag Bill Passes in Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The Senate today adopted the conference report on the bill imposing heavy penalties against government employes who publish without authority secret diplomatic code information. The House has yet to act.

Beer for Oklahoma Voted by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The Senate today passed the House bill to permit Oklahoma to have 3.2 per cent beer if the state legalizes it. This completed Congressional action, and the measure now goes to the White House.

Pittsburghers Named On State's Wet Slate

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—(AP.)—A slate of 15 "wet" candidates to the Pennsylvania prohibition repeal convention was announced last night by Robert X. Cassatt, chairman of the Pennsylvania division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Cassatt said the list was prepared "by the wet organization in conference and with the assured support of both the Republican and Democratic state organizations."

The slate announced by Cassatt follows:

Mrs. H. L. Clark, Republican, president, Pennsylvania Chapter, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform; Robert K. Cassatt, Republican; Raymond Pitcairn, Republican, secretary, United Repeal Council; W. W. Montgomery, Jr., Republican, member of the Philadelphia bar; Mrs. Graham Dougherty, Republican, member national executive committee, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform; John A. Phillips, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; Col. Thomas E. Durban, Democrat, of Erie; W. J. Fitzgerald, Democrat, of Scranton, president of Pennsylvania Bar Association; John Hemphill, Democrat; Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democrat, of Pittsburgh, and Joseph S. Clark, Jr., Democrat, Pennsylvania commander of the Crusaders.

Drys, Wets Open Fight To Carry Southern States

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 7.—(AP.)—Battle lines for a struggle that might swing the national verdict on the prohibition question were drawn up in the South today.

Repealists and anti-repealists both have started organization to draw the bloc of states regarded as traditionally dry their way.

INDUSTRIAL AID BILL IN SENATE

prises. They did have other effects.

"Business expanded in size by ruthless and predatory practices, most important of all, business grew large in a way which prejudiced the rights of labor.

"During the present century we more than doubled our national wealth but we made no progress in distributing it more equitably. Even at the height of our vaunted prosperity several million families lived in poverty."

KEEPS COMPETITION

He asserted the voluntary trade agreement plan in the bill would make "competition constructive rather than ruinous, and permit co-operation whenever a wise policy so dictates." He added:

"The interests of the laboring man are adequately protected under the voluntary codes. No code will be approved unless it embodies the following: Recognition of the right of employes to organize and bargain collectively through employes of their own choosing; prohibition of the anti-union, or "yellow-dog" contract as a condition of employment; acceptance of the maximum hours of labor and minimum rates of pay and other standards of working conditions approved by the President."

Of the alternative provisions for federal compulsion of such industries as may refuse to co-operate voluntarily, Wagner said the plan might seem novel and shocking but that actually it is in line with past public policy towards industries recognized as public utilities. Under present conditions, he argued, all business is affected with a public interest.

MOST VITAL NEED

Wagner said the public works program furnished the one best way to spread purchasing power, now the "vital need."

Senate Republicans decided to press for a sales tax of 1½ per cent as a substitute for the proposed corporation levies to finance the $3,300,000,000 public works program.

The proposed sales tax, to be offered by Senator Reed, (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, would exempt food, clothing, medicine and fuel.

It is designed to replace the Harrison levies against the net worth of coporations and dividends, an increase of ½ a cent in the present 1-cent a gallon levy on gasoline, and a tax of 1 per cent for the privilege of filing consolidated returns.

LEOLA COURTEMANCHE

DENY BALM SUIT SETTLEMENT

WILKES BARRE, Pa., June 7.—(INS.)—Attorney Robert Doran, counsel for Theodore Stegmaier, respondent in a $250,000 breach of promise suit instituted by Leola Courtemanche, has vigorously denied that a settlement had been reached.

Doran said he will be in Federal Court at Scranton today if the case is heard as scheduled. He insisted it was not due yesterday.

It was understood at Scranton that a hearing on a rule in the case was to have taken place and failure of attorneys to appear was viewed as an indication that a settlement had been reached.

FIGHT FURTHER DEBT PAYMENT

LONDON, June 7.—(INS.)—Widespread opposition against payment by the British government of the foreign debt instalment due America June 15 was expressed in London newspapers today.

Lord Beaverbrook in a signed editorial came out flatly against further debt payments. He wrote in reference to the American gold suspension bill:

"The United States had a direct obligation to pay these bonds in gold. Yet here is the United States repudiating its covenant.

"The United States, while repudiating its own obligations is insistent in demanding performance by Great Britain of unjust covenants to pay money to the United States.

Delaware Gets Beer First Time Since 1907

WILMINGTON, Del., June 7.—(AP.)—Because of a large wet majority in voting, residents of all sections of Delaware for the first time since 1907 are permitted to have 3.2 per cent beer.

In local option elections in all parts of the state except Wilmington, complete unofficial returns show 19,984 votes cast by the wets and 6,595 by the drys.

FRENCH ENVOY, ROOSEVELT TALK DEBTS

Ambassador Seeks Basis for New Offer

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—Ambassador de Laboulaye, of France, conferred with President Roosevelt today on the forthcoming June 15 war debt payments.

The Ambassador told newspapermen he discussed debts with the President, but indicated it was in the nature of determining the attitude of this government rather than the making of a specific offer.

DEFAULT BAR

He also said the forthcoming economic conference and the Geneva disarmament parley were discussed.

France has failed to make its December 15 payment of $19,000,000, and the President is understood to be insisting upon that as a basis for any discuison about the $40,000,000 installment due next week.

STAND UNCHANGED

As the date for collecting the next war debt installments approaches, the administration is sticking to the principle that a debtor nation can approach its creditors and lay its case before them, but that such a move must be initiated by the debtor.

Various statements of an informal nature have been received from the debtor nations in the course of the last few months, but they have not laid before the Washington government any official proposal or request for reconsideration of the funding agreements.

Secretary Hull to Meet MacDonald on Payment

LONDON, June 7.—(INS.)—Arrangements were made today for a meeting between Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Secretary of State Cordell Hull shortly after the latter arrives here aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

Friday afternoon is being held open for informal discussions between the prime minister and the chief of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference.

Hope was expressed in official circles that Hull would agree to informal conversations on pending economic questions before the conference meets.

With the next payment on the British debt falling due on June 15, MacDonald is anxious to learn whether President Roosevelt has any particular intentions with regard to the debt problem after Congress adjourns.

GERMAN DEBT HOLIDAY FRIDAY

BERLIN, June 7.—(INS.)—Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reischbank, announced at a gathering of the foreign press today that he will declare a 100 per cent moratorium tomorrow on all forms of payments abroad, effective Friday morning.

A moratorium proclamation has been generally expected since Schacht told the foreign bankers' transfer conference that Germany would be unable to meet her private obligations because she lacked gold and foreign exchange. It was said at that time that his statement had the complete approval of all the creditor groups.

Bingham to Meet Hull at Plymouth

LONDON, June 7.—(AP.)—United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and Ray Atherton, counsellor of the embassy, left for Plymouth today to meet the American delegation to the world economic conference.

The American delegates, headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, will arrive tomorrow morning on the liner President Roosevelt.

Belgium to Withhold U. S. Debt Payment

BRUSSELS, June 7.—(INS.)—The Belgian government has definitely decided to withhold payment of her foreign debt instalment due to the United States on June 15, it was learned on reliable authority today.

Public announcement confirming the decision to default is due to be made on June 14.

Mussolini Peace Pact Ready for Signatures

BERLIN, June 7.—(INS.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler tonight gave his formal assent to the four-power peace pact sponsored by Premier Mussolini of Italy.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, June 7.—The four-power pact for control of European peace proposed by Premier Mussolini of Italy, has been brought to the stage where all interested nation can now attach their signatures, International News Service was informed on high authority today.

Modifications in the text have been made to appease French objections and negotiations by representatives of the four signatory powers have brought the project close to fruition.

The most reliable version of what the pact is supposed to contain sets forth the following articles:

1—Great Britain, Germany, Italy and France agree upon a policy of "effective collaboration."

2—The signatories agree to exchange views regarding application of the League Covenant, especially as it concerns continental peace.

3—If the Disarmament Conference fails, the signatories undertake to find some means of solving unsettled problems, particularly that involving some means of attaining arms equality for Germany.

4—The signatories agree to study in common means for solution of Europe's economic problems.

5—The pact will be binding for a nominal period of 10 years.

MALONE ASSAILS HERRON, DENIES HE'LL QUIT AS CANDIDATE

MAYOR HINTED USING RUSE TO ANGER FOE

Staying in Race Aids Coyne Group, Say Politicians

James F. Malone today bitterly denied charges by Mayor John S. Herron that Malone was in the Republican mayoralty primary race merely for "trading purposes," and would shortly withdraw.

Herron made his assertion before a meeting of the Brookline Boosters' Association last night.

Malone said:

"If Mr. Herron's statements concerning city government are as ridiculous as the statement he is reported to have made about me, the people of Pittsburgh can once more realize in what kind of hands the government at present accidentally happens to be."

HERRON RUSE

Political observers interpreted Herron's speech as an effort to rouse the anger of Malone and keep him in the race. The presence of Malone as a candidate is to the advantage of Herron if another candidate enters on a platform against the administration. It is accepted as a matter of course that at least one more candidate will enter, with the support of independent elements.

Herron will profit by any division of anti-administration sentiment.

In his speech last night Herron said:

"Mr. Malone realizes the dull thud which accompanied his announcement as a candidate, and I am afraid he is looking for an easy way to withdraw. I am positive he will not go through with his avowed intention of seeking the Republican nomination.

"The only part of his speech which concerned me when he spoke in Beechview last week was the plea to the public to have one opposing candidate. I trust that will happen, and that he is the candidate."

COSTS SLASHED

Herron added that costs of city government had been cut considerably since Malone retired as president of Council.

Herron's hope for a single opponent was not taken seriously today by politicians. It has been reported that friends of the Mayor were seeking to clutter up the field, and that Herron's digs at Malone were his contribution to the scheme to keep the primary confused through numbers.

Independents for some time have been hoping Malone would withdraw and throw his assistance behind a unified opponent to Herron. So far the Malone candidacy is reported not to have been received with great enthusiasm except within the administration circle.

DEATH TAKES R. W. FLENNIKEN

Robert W. Flenniken, 62, treasurer and director of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, today died of a heart attack shortly after eating luncheon in Hotel Schenley.

Flenniken had suffered from a heart ailment for five years. He was vice president and trustee of the Dollar Savings Bank of which his grandfather, James Herdman, had been president and his father, J. Walter Flenniken, treasurer at the time of his death in 1907.

Flenniken also was a director of the Commonwealth Trust Company and treasurer and director of the Hillman Supply Company, Hecla Coal and Coke Company, Tower Hill Connellsville Coal Company, Orenda Coal Company and Hillman Transportation Company.

He was married and had made his home in Hotel Schenley.

Money to Dominate Parley, Minister Says

PARIS, June 7.—(AP.)—Stabilization of currencies will dominate the World Economic Conference, Finance Minister Georges Bonnet told the Anglo-American Press at a luncheon today. He was expressing the ideas of the French government.

He asserted that once stabilization has been achieved on a gold basis it will be possible to consider debts and tariffs.

encircling flight record he seeks to better, zoomed across Siberia today confident of ultimate success.

Day was just breaking when the American pointed his plane for Chita, 1,700 miles east of Omsk, just three days, 12 hours and 50 minutes after leaving New York.

Before him on the fifth leg of his lone journey was favorable weather with very light headwinds, a clear sky and good visibility.

STILL CONFIDENT

Mattern voiced his confidence by asserting:

"I'll beat 'em yet!"

He referred to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the trail blazers, who passed over Omsk 3 days 2 hours and 9 minutes after their departure from New York in 1931.

By this computation the Texan was 10 hours 41 minutes behind his predecessors' mark, but Post and Gatty lost 14½ hours later at Blagovestchenck, when their plane became mired.

Mattern landed here just 54 minutes ahead of the Post and Gatty time, but in bringing his gaily-colored machine to earth, a wing strut broke, necessitating a delay for repairs.

GETS NEEDED SLEEP

He made good use of the time, spending a few hours in refreshing sleep, sorely lacking in his record-breaking hop to Jomfruland Island, a short leg to Oslo, Norway, and the two succeeding hops to Moscow and Omsk. He made the 1,450-mile Moscow-Omsk jaunt in 12 hours and 21 minutes, at an average of about 120 miles an hour.

The Texan landed here at 1:35 p. m., Moscow time, Tuesday (6:35 a. m. Tuesday, Pittsburgh time), and took off again for Chita at 1:10 a. m., Moscow time, today (6:10 p. m. Tuesday, Pittsburgh time).

PRAISES OFFICIALS

Before leaving here, the smiling, youthful American praised Soviet officials at Omsk for the excellent and willing help.

In a telephone conversation with an Associated Press representative in Moscow, he said:

"Everything's all right. That wing strut has been fixed here.

"They have been awfully good to me here. They had more food than I've ever seen in one place waiting for me when I pulled in. Just as soon as I stopped eating they put me to bed.

"I'll make Chita if all goes well. If the weather and other conditions are unfavorable I will land at Krasnoyarsk."

He encountered head winds almost all the way from Moscow, but, except for the broken strut, he and his plane functioned smoothly.

Mollison Flight Meets New Delay

LONDON, June 7.—(AP.)—James A. Mollison and his wife, Amy Johnson, who had hoped to leave Croydon today for a flight to New York, again postponed their attempt because of weather conditions.

HOW JIMMIE MATTERN, SOLO FLYING 'ROUND THE WORLD, SLEEPS AT HIS SHIP'S CONTROLS

The "homemade" robot pilot that Lieut. Mattern has concocted so that he can catnap in the air on his long solo flight around the world—a flight he hopes will break the existing record made by two fliers who took turns sleeping, Lieut. Mattern, with rubber bands, steadied the "stick," crossed his legs to keep the rudder steady, allowing a little in his calculations for tendency to drift. This is a Sun-Telegraph drawing by Artist Robert F. Reamy.

'JIMMY'S' WIFE NOT AFRAID

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 7.—(INS.)—James Mattern and his pretty blonde wife have had a perfect understanding about these long flights during their six years of married life. She is to have confidence that he will come through no matter how bad the situation may seem, and he has agreed to refrain from taking unnecessary chances.

Mrs. Mattern is at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. C. Douglas, waiting with utmost confidence for the completion of "Jimmy's" round-the-world flight. She said:

"He knows how I feel; that I don't expect him to send me cablegrams at every place he stops. And that I know he will take the best care of himself.

"I never worry about his diet. He doesn't plan on eating heavily while making these trips. His one weakness is a craving for 'hot dogs.' If he can locate some of those he will be all right no matter what part of the world he may be in."

FIRE DAMAGES BREWERY

The old Baurlein Brewery, at Ohio street and Evergreen avenue, Millvale, was damaged by fire today. It is now known as the Keystone Brewery.

The fire broke out on the third floor and caused damage to the building which was estimated at $5,000 by Fire Chief F. C. Mehrlinger, of Cherry City. Machinery also was damaged.

The plant was being renovated and was to have been reopened in a few weeks.

BALBO'S START SET SATURDAY

ROME, June 7.—(Universal.)—Gen. Italo Balbo's air fleet of 24 seaplanes will roar off on its trans-Atlantic mass formation flight to the Chicago Century of Progress exposition on Saturday or soon thereafter, it seemed certain today.

Italian and foreign newspapermen will inspect the air armada at the Orbetello seaplane base Friday. The airport gates will then be locked and admission denied everyone but the fliers.

Should weather conditions prevent the hop Saturday, it will be made immediately they have cleared.

Sudden Cut Made By Mattern In Rivals' Lead

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Just before Jimmy Mattern passed over Novosibirsk, Siberia, he was 11 hours and 14 minutes behind the Post-Gatty 'round-the-world timetable, established in 1931.

Just after he passed over the Siberian city, he cut the Post-Gatty lead to 1 hour and 44 minutes.

This strange result arises from the fact that Post and Gatty stopped at Novosibirsk and stayed there 9 hours and 30 minutes. Mattern kept right on going.

8 HURT IN MINE STRIKE MELEE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 7.—(INS.)—Five men were shot and three others injured in a melee between picketers and miners at the Peerless mine of the Peabody Coal Company here this morning, the Sheriff's office reported.

The mine operates under a contract with the United Mine Workers of America.

Police and deputy Sheriffs hastened to the scene and while the battle was at its height 25 National Guardsmen under Maj. C. S. Long arrived and succeeded in restoring order. Maj. Long's automobile was considerably battered up by bullets.

More than 600 men were involved in the pitched battle which occurred as working miners were going to the shaft.

Following the fight at the shaft, 100 men, whom police said were members of the Progressive Miners' Union, gathered at the United Mine Workers building in the downtown district here. Police were rushed to the scene and dispersed the crowd.

TROPIC ILLNESS PERILS STAR

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—(AP.)—Suffering a rare ailment contracted when she was in Africa with a motion picture company, Edwina Booth, film actress, is reported by her mother to be in a worse condition than she has been at any time in the last 18 months.

For one week Miss Booth was unconscious, the mother, Mrs. J. L. Woodruff, said, but she revived a few days ago. In an effort to bolster Miss Booth's health, she was taken to a Central California ranch, but was returned to Los Angeles when her condition became worse.

Physicians explained Miss Booth's illness is due to nine months' exposure to the African sun while she was filming a jungle picture. Intense rays of the sun, they said, attacked her nerve cells.

Lone Woman Flier Of Mexico Killed

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, June 7.—(Universal.)—Senorita Maria Marcos Cedillo, Mexico's only licensed woman aviator, was killed, with her mechanic, Jose Ramirez, in a crash here yesterday that terminated a flight over the city.

DAVIS TO ASK NEW DELAY

United States Senator James J. Davis will ask another postponement when his trial is called in New York City's Federal Court next Monday, his counsel, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, said today.

The Senator's plea will be that he is still recuperating from his recent operation and far from being in shape to stand the rigors of a three weeks' trial.

Margiotti said he would inform the court that the Senator, now in Washington, needs five or six more weeks to regain his strength. Davis took his seat in the Senate chamber yesterday for the first time in months.

This would be the fifth postponement for Davis, who was indicted in connection with the operation of lotteries in the Moose Order, of which he is the national head. The first trial was stopped when a juror approached Margiotti, who immediately informed the court.

In New York today the federal prosecutor moved to obtain a new superseding indictment against Davis which corrects a technical defect in the present indictment.

DOUBT CAPTURE OF TURPAC

County Detective Chief George Murren today was awaiting positive identification of a suspect held in Taylorsville, Ill., whom police there said was Edward Turpac, Western Penitentiary fugitive.

Murren wired additional information to police in the Illinois city, but said last night he was doubtful if the suspect was Turpac. Murren was informed in a wire that Turpac was under arrest and that a search was being made for John Maug, who escaped with Turpac.

Mattern's Nephew To Greet Airman

CALGARY, Alta, June 7.—(AP.)—Youthful Gordon Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ball, of Calgary, and nephew of Jimmie Mattern, round-the-world flier, is looking forward to one of the happiest days in his young life.

Confident his famous uncle will complete the round-the-world trip successfully, Gordon will journey to Edmonton with Roy Mattern, the flier's brother, to greet the birdman when he lands in the Alberta capital.

BATHTUB DEATH CONFESSION REPORTED

Rumors Flare After Attorney Visits Jailed Husband

Universal Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 7.—Confession rumors flared anew today in the Stanford bathtub murder mystery in which David A. Lamson, 30, handsome university graduate and executive, is accused of bludgeoning to death his pretty wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, 28, also a popular Stanford figure.

New rumors came after Louis O'Neal, wealthy and powerful attorney, entered Lamson's cell last night, accompanied by a stenographer. O'Neal is to be associated with the Lamson defense, it is said, but it was believed his attitude will be dictated by the results of Lamson's statement.

It was by no means a certainty that O'Neal received Lamson's confession. The lawyer conferred with Dr. Margaret Lamson, sister of the accused man, for two hours before he entered the jail, and it was felt that his first interview with the accused man would have an important bearing on his participation in the defense.

It was officially stated that the statement of O'Neal was taking through the stenographer was connected with a line of defense suggested to O'Neal by Dr. Lamson.

It was another day filled with surprises, in this most sensational case, and tonight the body of Allene Lamson was speeding swiftly towards "the soil from whence she sprung." Her brother, Frank C. Thorpe, who flew here to investigate Mrs. Lamson's death in behalf of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Thorpe, of Lamar, Mo., decided to hold funeral exercises and return East with his sister's body.

Dave Lamson, accused of murder, was not there.

The prisoner's sister advised against him going to Palo Alto for the service. His nervous condition is such that he is in danger of a breakdown, said the physician-sister.

CANOE UPSETS, BOY DROWNS

A 15-year-old Port Vue youth was drowned and his companion swam to safety when a canoe in which they were riding on the Youghiogheny River near their homes last night capsized.

Frank Zay, of 1625 Liberty way, a student at St. Stephen's School, was drowned, and Steve Barich, 16, of 1601 Liberty way, both of Port Vue, was saved. It was their first canoe ride, relatives said.

Police said that the boys apparently attempted to "ride" the waves from a passing barge. Zay's body was recovered early today.

Emil Mamulo, 12, of Parkview Plan, Sharpsburg, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Allegheny River at the foot of Ninth street, Sharpsburg, according to a Coroner's report. A companion, Carmen Domain, 25, of 14 Third street, Sharpsburg, dragged the lad from the river, but efforts to revive him failed.

Weather Conditions.

states this morning, while it's relatively low Gulf (New Orleans, 30.04), with generally fair weather over the eastern and southern states this morning, while its relatively low over the upper lakes, the western plains and the Canadian Northwest, with centers near North Platte, Neb., 29.62, and Swift Current, Sask., 29.84. Scattered showers, mostly light, have occurred in the upper lakes, the western plains, the Rocky Mountains, West Virginia, Maryland and the Carolina. It is warmer in the Ohio valley ands slightly cooler in the plain states. Temperatures were above 100 degrees yesterday in portions of Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas.

River Conditions.

The Allegheny River is now about stationary, and the Upper Ohio is stationary. Stage at Franklin is 4.1 feet; Parkers Landing, 4.0; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 12.4; Pittsburgh, 12.4; Dam No. 4, 9.9; No. 8, 9.6; No. 10, 10.0, and No. 12, 10.0. The dams are up. The rivers will change but little.

'First Lady' With Son After Cross-U. S. Flight

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—(INS.)—Shutting out for a brief time an admiring world that sought to pay her homage, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, basked today in the companionship of her son, Elliott, and a few intimate friends, at the end of the first trans-continental air trip ever taken by a First Lady of the Land.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived here last night in a tri-motored plane and went at once to a downtown hotel.

Mrs. Roosevelt's visit here, made for the express purpose of seeing her son, now a Pacific Coast airlines official, will last only two days. She will return as she came, via the air.

"Your trip sure has been a big boost for aviation," was the drawled greeting of Will Rogers, famous screen comedian, who met the First Lady along with a host of California dignitaries, including the Republican Governor of California, James R. Rolph, Jr.

The reception at the airport was as friendly as it was brief. When the formalities were over Mrs. Roosevelt turned to her son and said:

"Elliott, you go on and take your mother now."

Turning to Gov. Rolph, she remarked:

"And you, Governor, you go on home, too."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Attorney Pecora is liable to have to do like Roosevelt, go on the radio and tell his troubles. That old radio is the greatest club ever invented for a quick appeal. It's worth 50 vetoes. Pecora can make those Senators say "uncle" for him if he tells it to the people.

This is a great country. You never know where our heroes will come from. This Mattern was a trap drummer in a jazz orchestra. That, I think, is the greatest reformation in history.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

CLEMSON AGAIN HEADS POOR AID

Re-election of Daniel M. Clemson as president of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the poor was announced today by the association.

Mr. Clemson

The past year, during which Mr. Clemson served as president, was regarded as the most trying period through which the philanthropic organization has passed in nearly 60 years of existence. Despite conditions, the association pointed out, it has improved its main building at 422 Duquesne way and erected a new building at Webster avenue and Washington street.

During the closing fiscal year, the association reported it served 833,023 meals, provided lodging for 268,906 persons, provided 182,540 days of work and spent $382,280.69 for relief. It had a net surplus of $16,871 for family relief.

Woman, 67, Stricken Injured in Fall

Mrs. Mary Cullen, 67, of 3812 Acorn street, was rushed to the Homeopathic Hospital by police from Oakland Station after she fell down six steps at her home.

According to physicians, Mrs. Cullen suffered a paralytic strike and received a fracture of the skull in the fall.

BEER LICENSE SEEKERS FACE FEE LOSS

Of the 3,850 applicants for licenses to sell beer, more than 500 have yet to call for their permits, according to A. E. Anke, deputy county treasurer. He said today that the $10 application fee would be forfeited if the applicants fail to call at the office of the County Treasurer for the license.

This will mean a loss in revenue to cities, boroughs and townships of from $37.50 to $300 for each license not called for. The fee is not collected until the license is granted.

More than 250 licenses are being held up because applicants have failed to supply all the required information. Also, 100 club licenses are being delayed until the Treasurer's office is satisfied that the charter name, and officers' and directors' lists are not being fraudulently used.

County Treasurer Robert S. Cain in an answer filed to the mandamus action of John Jenkins, 57 Fullerton street, to force the County Treasurer to issue him a beer license, asks that the action be dismissed, since the postmaster is not an agent of his office.

Cain avers that Jenkins failed to accompany his application with the $10 fee required. He added that no instructions had been issued authorizing applications by mail.

Jenkins mailed his application on May 26. It arrived a day late and was returned to him.

SEEK TO SAVE JENNY DOLLY

PARIS, June 7.—(INS.)—Two groups of eminent French surgeons conferred yesterday on the operation declared necessary to save Jenny Dolly from serious injuries suffered in an automobile accident last March. The famous dancer is expected to go on the operating table shortly.

Her sister, Roszika, the other half of the "Dolly Sisters" dancing team, said:

"After the operation a plastic surgeon will try to restore Jenny's face. She will then go to a small villa in France to rest for one to two years."

It was Roszika who recently tearfully disclosed that her sister was failing to recover from grave internal injuries suffered in the accident near Bordeaux.

ORPHAN EXHIBIT ON SUNDAY

Physical education work at St. Paul's Orphan Asylum will be demonstrated at the pupils' twelfth annual exhibition Sunday at 3 o'clock.

First and second grade pupils will sing. Boys of the second grade will present a song game portraying "What I Want to Be." Girls of the four upper grades will present character dances and a Maypole dance. Several novelty stunts also are on the program.

The perforuance will be free to the public. Charles A. Geber is in charge.

JURY ADJOURNS TO DENTIST

WHEELING, W. Va., June 7.—Henry Shrader, a juror in an attack trial, got a toothache today while the jury was deliberating on the Joseph Doyle case. It was necessary for deputies to take the 12 jurors to the dentist office and as the law prohibits a door to be shut between the jurors 11 men watched while Dr. A. W. Walters pulled the aching molar.

Returning to court they ended one of the most dramatic trials in Ohio County history by finding Doyle, 34-year-old farmhand, guilty of attacking 5-year-old Anna Elizabeth Bucutz.

The jury made no recommendation of mercy and Judge John S. Ritz has the alternative of sentencing Doyle to death by hanging, or life imprisonment. The state demanded the death penalty.

Arguments will be made Saturday on a defense motion for a new trial.

Kidnaping Capital Crime in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 7.—(AP.)—Kidnaping for ransom became a capital crime in Florida today as Gov. Sholtz signed legislation to that effect. Conviction makes the death penalty mandatory unless the jury recommends mercy, in which case life imprisonment is provided.

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—(AP.)—The penalty for kidnaping in California was increased today from 10 years to life imprisonment under the terms of a bill signed by Gov. Rolph.

'Drive In' Movie Solves Parking Problem

CAMDEN, N. J., June 7.—(AP.)—The first "drive-in" motion picture theatre had its premiere performance on a six and a half acre plot in Camden's outskirts last night.

About 200 automobiles drove through the open air box office and took places in the eight inclined rows arranged in a semicircular arc about the 30 by 40 foot screen.

The rows are 49 feet each, and 400 automobiles can be accommodated. The theatre's promoters believe the auto-movie will eliminate one of motion picture houses' most serious disadvantages—the parking problem.

LOST CHILDREN FOUND ASLEEP

A kidnaping scare ended early today when Phyllis Stewart, 12, and her brother, Jackie, 9, of 1305 Sherman avenue, were found asleep in the home of Mrs. Peggy Davidson, 18 Jacksonia street.

They had been keeping Mrs. Davidson's son, Dayton, 11, company, while his mother was at a dance, it was testified in Morals Court today.

Mrs. Davidson and her dance companion, Joseph Mohr, 31, of 15 Lager street, were fined $10 or 10 days in jail.

Mrs. Davidson said when she returned from the dance early today and found the girl and her brother asleep she decided not to disturb them.

COURTESY PLEA BY KIDNAPERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7.—(INS.)—The McElroy kidnapers will use their "courteous treatment" of the city manager's daughter as a plea to escape the noose at their trial for abduction and extortion, International News Service learned today.

Casting about for the foundation for a defense for the two men who have signed confessions to the capital offense of kidnaping, Attorney Ralph T. Harding, defense counsel, has decided upon that route as one most likely to be effective.

Clarence Click, 27, and Walter McGee, 28, will be given a preliminary hearing on June 16. They have admitted kidnaping Miss Mary McElroy, 25, from her home here on May 27, and holding her 30 hours in a shack across the border in Kansas pending delivery of $30,000 ransom.

TYNAN, STEEL OFFICIAL, DIES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—(AP.)—Joseph J. Tynan, 61, who came to America from Ireland as a boy and rose to the post of vice president of the Bethlehem Steeel Corporation, died here yesterday. He had been ill several months with a heart ailment and complications.

Tynan left Ireland at the age of 17 and took work as a laborer in a Philadelphia shipyard. He became a power in shipbuilding circles and was made a vice president of the Bethlehem Corporation in charge of all shipbuilding operations on the Pacific Coast and launched vessels six at a time when German U-boats were taking toll of merchant shipping during the World War.

Charles M. Schwab once termed Tynan the "greatest shipbuilder in the world" after he turned out a 12,000-ton ship in 24 working days during the World War, and built the fleet of 10 submarines for the British in record time.

Will Made as Man Faced Operation Names Wife

Not knowing what his fate might be, H. M. Kisey, of Cochrane road, Mt. Lebanon, March 8, 1930, wrote the following will before being taken to a hospital:

"I, H. M. Kisey, am going to the hospital. If anything happens to me I give everything I own to Mary Schuller."

Miss Schuller later became Mrs. Kisey and Kisey's will as written by him with a lead pencil was probated today. It gives his $4,500 estate to Mrs. Kisey.

'SECRET PACT' STIRS CHINA

HONGKONG, June 7.—(AP.)—There was much interest here today in an unconfirmed report that members of the Canton government were hurriedly sending secret envoys to Tokio.

The recent truce between China and Japan was negotiated by the Nanking national government, and at the time the negotiations were going forward Canton leaders criticized the members of the Nanking government, declaring they were selling China out.

The Southern Expeditionary Army has now been definitely recalled to Kwangtung Province. The famous Nineteenth Route Army, which defended Shanghai against the Japanese early in 1932, will return to Fukien to suppress communists and bandits.

GUEST'S WIDOW WINS SUIT

Mrs. Mildred H. McNelly, of Wilkinsburg, was awarded a $10,000 verdict yesterday in Common Pleas Court, in her suit against the estate of Karl R. Ackerman, for the death of her husband, Arthur R. McNelly.

McNelly was injured when the Ackerman car collided with another in Bigelow boulevard, May 23, 1931, killing Ackerman. McNelly died two days later. The McNellys were invited guests in Ackerman's car, it was testified.

M'GOVERN RAPS 'DECREPIT' EMPLOYES

Following the declaration of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern that the county is paying numerous "decrepit and incapable" park and road employes, Highways Director Thomas O. Hasley today was to prepare a report with recommendations that the unsatisfactory workers be dismissed. Park Director A. M. Marion probably will be asked to make a similar report.

McGovern criticized the park and road forces after Director Hasley had submitted an overtime payroll. McGovern said he would refuse to approve any more overtime. He asserted:

"I am against any more overtime. There are lots of people out of work and I don't intend to see these laborers getting more than a fair salary by collecting overtime. The commissioners don't get overtime.

"Besides, there are a bunch of decrepit, and incapable men on the road and park jobs. I guess this board put some of them to work. The only time they are efficient is when it is time to quit."

Commissioner C. M. Barr then directed Hasley to make his report with recommendations.

A few minutes after his outburst, McGovern approved the hiring of 10 more park laborers and two steam shovel operators. These men will be put to work on the grading of a new athletic field in South Park.

B. & O. MAY RENT P. & L. E. LINK

A deal for the leasing of Pittsburgh and Lake Erie rails from McKeesport to New Castle Junction by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for through freight and passenger trains is reported pending.

Such an arrangement was carried on successfully under federal control during the World War and the necessary transfer facilities are said to be already in existence.

Minor features of a plan have already been agreed upon, according to Charles W. Galloway, vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio.

Railroad officials here were silent on the negotiations.

Under the arrangement, it is believed that the Baltimore and Ohio would cut 30 minutes off its schedule between McKeesport and New Castle Junction, and that four crack Chicago trains which formerly did not stop in Pittsburgh would stop at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie station.

PFARR REFEREE ON FIRE CHIEF

County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr will attend a meeting tonight in the Dravosburg School as arbiter in the dispute between the Borough Council and the volunteer fire department as to who is fire chief.

Meanwhile, citizens are clamoring to Burgess C. J. Carlson, claiming they are without adequate fire protection.

The dispute began after Fire Chief Charles Thomas turned in a false alarm at midnight two months ago. He explained to the Burgess he only wanted to turn out the firemen for a drill. He was fined on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The borough council subsequently ousted Thomas and named Assistant Chief John Sargent to the post. The firemen refused to accept the decision.

Driver Surrenders In Truck Ride Deaths

William Laszman, 32, of Russellton, truck driver from whose truck two men were jolted and killed at Haysville, Monday, today surrendered to the coroner. He was released on bond. He said he did not know of the accident until later.

William Boligga, 19, of Forbes street, and Adam Martuscek, 28, of Ligonier street, were killed and Thomas Dognog was injured in the accident.

Distinctive Spectator Costumes

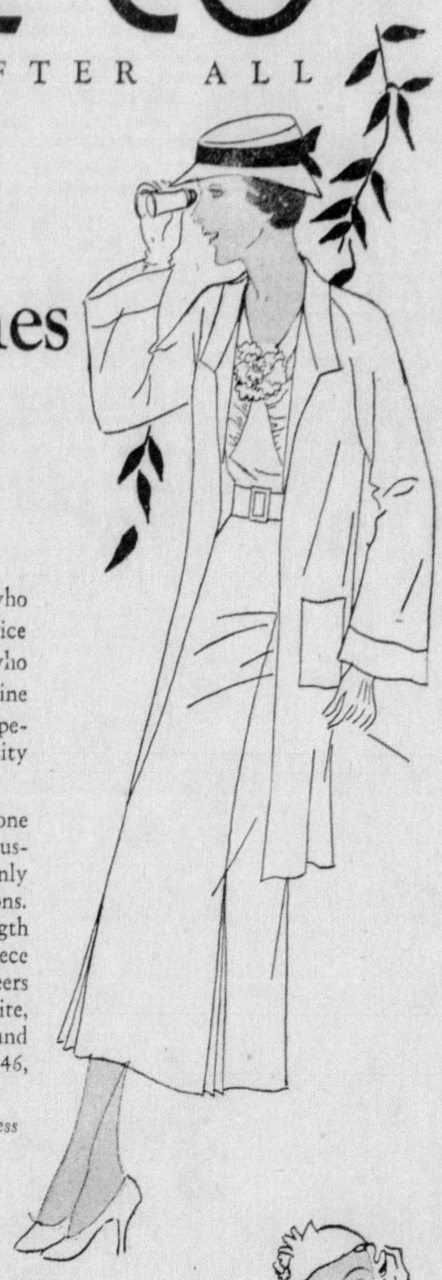
A Finer Dress Special

$21.75

This is an event for women who may have lowered the price range of their buying, but who retain their taste for good line and fine fabrics, and who specify a definite, smart simplicity in spectator sports clothes.

The costumes come from one of our better makers, accustomed to turning out only much higher priced fashions. Besides jacket and knee-length coat models, there are one-piece dresses, of fine opaque sheers and rich, dull crepes. In white, crystal blue, pastel blue and Patou pink ... Sizes 36 to 46, and some models up to 48.

... Horne's, Women's Finer Dress Section, Second Floor ...



Summer's White Gloves take all sorts of new turns to flatter your smartest ensembles! There's the new "Los Angeles," for instance—a fine pique-rib Bemberg, with a stiff, starched lace cuff edged with a fold of organdie ... and the "Atlantic City," another pique weave with "angelskin" palms, and flaring, corded cuffs lined with starched mesh to keep them stiff and unwilted. They're by Wear-Right—that clever glovemaker, and priced $3.00.

... Horne's, Main Floor ...

A New White Handbag makes its appearance—with grand recommendations for smartness, practicality, and economy. It's of Rexaloid—a firm, polished composition that may be washed off like a saucer—is unbreakable—and available in all-white, and two-color effects, in a variety of handsome styles. $1.95.

AID IN RACKET WAR ASKED BY CUMMINGS

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(Universal)—Attorney General Homer Cummings today had issued a plea for public support in the government's drive against racketeers.

He emphasized the campaign necessarily will be a long, arduous one, because of the firmly-intrenched position of the rackets.

He said:

"We are pursuing what we believe is a steady, well-developed plan. There is nothing spasmodic nor sensational about it.

"From the point of view of the Department of Justice, continuous pressure is needed to destroy racketeering.

"The country has become infested with racketeers and we have endured them all too long. We need the support of law-abiding citizens. We welcome all the support we can get against this evil."

The question of co-ordination between state and federal authorities, which has engaged the students of criminology for many years, is an important problem that must be met, it was pointed out. Cummings added:

"We hope to do something to help solve this question of co-ordination and to proceed successfully against the racketeers who have brought the laws into disrepute and made life precarious."

ARMY PROTESTS HAWAII ROWS

HONOLULU, T. H., June 7.—(INS.)—As the result of clashes between service men and civilians, Army and Navy officials have formally protested to Chief of Police Gabrielson and Prosecutor Kelley, it was revealed here today.

The latest flareup occurred after Lieuts. Walter Lee and Leroy Hudson assertedly had been attacked by four "beach boys," Melvin Paoa, Brede Karratti, John Kama and Arthur Carter.

Lee and Hudson, of the Army Air Corps, were allegedly beaten by the four youths as the result of an argument after the youths refused to remove an automobile from the officers' private driveway. The youths denied they had beaten the officers.

Kelley assigned a special deputy to investigate the case following the report complaint of Maj. Gen. Wells.

Priest Appointed Chaplain for Corps

The appointment of the Rev. Father Francis James Bailey, of Connellsville, as the second chaplain assigned to the Western Pennsylvania camps of the Civilian Conservation Corps was announced today by Col. H. L. Landers. Dr. Ira Freeman, of the Lorenz Avenue Baptist Church, Pittsburgh, was appointed last week. Each will serve for at least six months.

Father Bailey was commissioned recently in the rank of first lieutenant in the Reserve Corps.

SQUIRE, AIDES WAIVE HEARING

Alderman Sol S. Goldstein and his two constables, S. Jacob Mintz and Harry Cart, waived hearings on charges of obstructing process and assault and battery last night at the office of Alderman Jacob S. Michaels, Overbrook. They posted $1,000 bond each.

The charges were made by Constable P. J. O'Donnell, of Overbrook. The trio will be arraigned Monday night on disorderly conduct charges before Alderman Michaels.

Henry L. Dohen and his son, Herman, of Searbrook street, also will be arraigned for felonious assault with intent to kill.

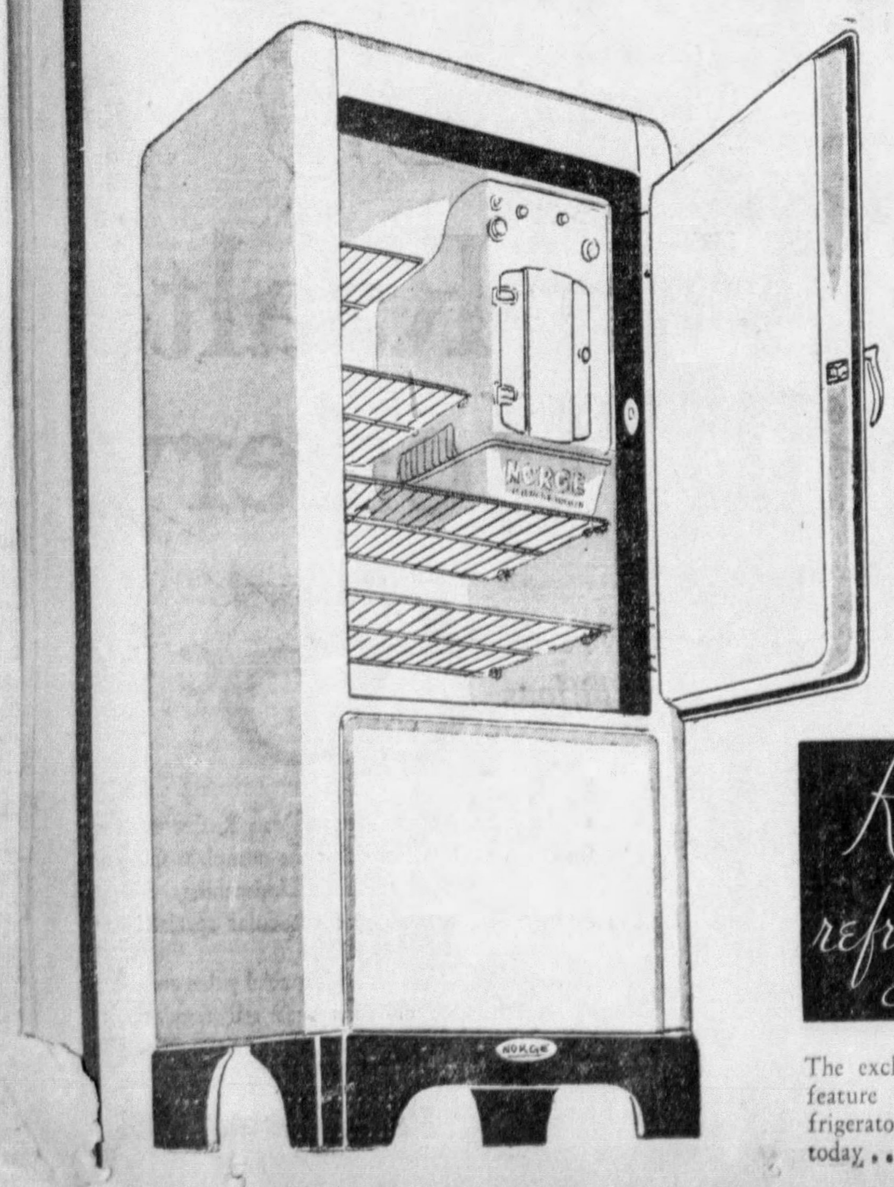
The New NORGE



Rates A-1 in Beauty, Efficiency and Economy

Norge has proved its supremacy in the electrical refrigeration field. It has the beauty, the compactness that the modern kitchen requires. Under conditions hotter than your kitchen will ever be, it was severely tested for efficiency. Results showed that of all the refrigerators tested, Norge alone froze solid ice cubes . . . and Norge temperature was lowered in the shortest time . . . and yet used far less electricity.

There's practically no upkeep expense to a Norge. Electricity is being used only a few hours a day. The powerful yet simple rollator mechanism (differing from other refrigerators as the new rotary sewing machines differ from the old-fashioned kinds) has only 3 moving parts, permanently sealed in oil. You are sure of a life-time of service.

The Model Illustrated with 6 cu. ft. capacity, or 12.9 sq. ft. shelf area, and with porcelain enamel stainless interior, may be had with Lacquer Exterior.

C. H. K. CURTIS DIES; FAMED PUBLISHER

At the funeral services Friday, the Men's Singing Club, of Portland, Me., an organization in his native city in which Curtis was greatly interested, will be present in a body.

Curtis was stricken in May of last year while cruising in the waters near New York in his yacht, Lyndonia. He was brought to Jefferson Hospital here aboard ship. Five days later his wife, who had taken a room at the hospital, died of a heart ailment with which she had suffered for years. She was his second wife and a second cousin, and her death was a great shock to the publisher.

UNIQUE CAREER

Curtis' death closed a unique chapter in American publishing history. Curtis himself dated the start of his career to the day when as a boy of 12 he purchased a stock of newspapers with a few pennies his mother gave him. From this obscure beginning, he became one of the country's greatest publishers, establishing a fortune which allowed him in the winter of his life to give tremendous sums for philanthropic movements.

He was born in Portland, Me., June 18, 1850, a son of Cyrus Libbey Curtis and Salome Ann Cummins Curtis. He was named Cyrus Hermann Kotzschmar Curtis, in honor of an old friend of his father, Hermann Kotzschmar, a musician of Portland.

In 1879 Curtis married Miss Louise Knapp, of Boston. She died in 1910, and six months later Curtis married Mrs. Kate S. Pillsbury, of Milwaukee, a second cousin.

STARTS WITH 3 CENTS

Curtis' first business venture was typical of his career. He had asked his mother for money to buy fireworks and she suggested he earn it. His capital was 3 cents. The boy purchased six newspapers. Curtis doubled his capital and bought 12 papers the following day, pyramiding his returns until he had built up a profitable route.

Curtis wanted to own a newspaper of his own so he and another boy started publication of "Young America," a weekly. His partner withdrew after the first issue, but Curtis published the paper alone. But in 1865, when he was a boy of 15, a fire destroyed the plant.

He moved to Boston and obtained a job as an errand boy for $3 a week. During his lunch hour he sold advertising space for a newspaper.

Saving a few dollars from his wages, Curtis amassed enough to publish the Peoples Ledger, a magazine. The Boston fire of 1872 wrecked his venture but Curtis continued publication until 1876. Then, a man of 26, he was attracted to Philadelphia by the Centennial Exposition.

He finally accumulated sufficient money to purchase, with Hamilton Mayo as a partner, the Tribune and Farmer, a weekly magazine in Philadelphia.

A year earlier he had married, and she helped him publish the magazine, editing a department for women. So successful was this department that Curtis used it as the foundation for the Ladies Home Journal, which he established with his wife as editor.

'JOURNAL' GROWS

The Ladies Home Journal grew so rapidly that Mrs. Curtis relinquished the editorship. Edward W. Bok was put in charge. Bok later married Curtis' daughter by the first marriage, Mary L. Curtis.

The success of the Ladies Home Journal impelled Curtis to publish a similar magazine for men. In 1897 he purchased the Saturday Evening Post, which had been founded by Benjamin Franklin. The magazine was placed under the editorship of George Horace Lorimer, and enjoyed a phenomenal success.

Curtis acquired the Country Gentleman, then published in Albany, in 1911, and moved it to Philadelphia.

He purchased the Public Ledger on January 1, 1913, with John Cribbel as a partner. An evening edition was added in September, 1914. He bought the Evening Telegraph and scrapped it. The Philadelphia Press and the North American were acquired and merged with the Curtis newspapers.

On January 1, 1924, Curtis entered the New York field with the purchase of the Evening Post. The Philadelphia Inquirer was added to the group later.

His fondness for music inspired Curtis to found the Curtis Institute of Music which he endowed. In 1931 he made a gift of $1,000,000 to the University of Pennsylvania, the largest contribution it received in its history. He contributed to nearby institutions and to schools in his native state of Maine. He contributed $1,500,000 to help build the city's beautiful Franklin Memorial.

BRIDGE MATCH OPENS MONDAY

Contract bridge players of Western Pennsylvania today were invited to participate in a tournament beginning Monday at the Schenley Bridge Club, with a Great Lakes cruise, visit to the Century of Progress Exposition and participation in a championship bridge cruise as the reward.

Twenty cities are participating in the preliminary tournaments. All bridge players, regardless of membership in the local club, can enter, it was announced by Mrs. Henry J. Bailey, president. Other purizes will be awarded.

Qualification games begin Monday at 8:30 p. m. and continue nightly through Friday. The final play will be Monday, June 19.

'RIDE MYSTERY' LAID TO RUM

A blood-stained automobile and a man's hat found on the Ohio River bank at Columbus avenue started a "murder mystery" investigation that wound up today with discovery of the supposed victim in jail on a drunkenness charge.

Police learned the car belonged to E. D. Trube, 33, of 22 East Prospect street, Ingram. The police docket disclosed Trube had been arrested a few hours earlier at Pennsylvania and Beaver avenues.

The man told police he had given three men a ride and was slugged. At a hearing before Magistrate Raymond E. Schneider in North Side Police Court, he admitted he had been drinking and and was not certain of the manner in which he was hurt. He was discharged.

"—my skin became clear"

—wouldn't you like to be able to say this, too? Then pause a moment and reason . . . skin affections usually result because of lowered resistance from below the skin surface. Then help the blood that purifies the skin, by increasing its red cells and restoring the vital oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in these cells so that more vitality comes to the tissues. This will increase the ability of the blood to devour infectious pimple germs.

That is just what S.S.S. does—proved by tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of thankfulness.

"Shall I use a good soap?"—certainly—"and cosmetics?"—naturally, but first observe Nature's law and lay the sound foundation from underneath the skin.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. Try a course of S.S.S. and note the constant improvement. © The S.S.S. Co.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralising gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralises burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.

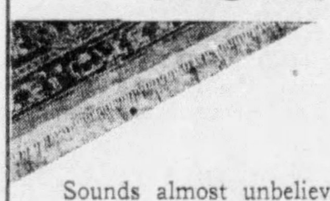
ROYAL WILTON RUGS



9x12 Foot Size $37.50

Sounds almost unbelievable, doesn't it? And it would be but for an unique merchandising "scoop" we made a few weeks ago. We were in the office of the largest Wilton Rug maker in America. Someone remarked that the company had a surplus of fine wool yarns regularly used only in their $125 rugs. We had an inspiration. The result of the conference was that the company agreed to weave this lot into $125 patterns from $125 rug yarns, at a price that would permit us to offer them for Founder's Day at $37.50.

Here they are—the finest Wiltons we ever expect to see at this price. Rose, Tan, Taupe, Red and Black back grounds—beautifully highlighted to bring out the contrasting top colors. No other department store in America has them! "No other store ever will—at that price," said the makers after they had counted up their loss!

VAN SWERINGEN REVEALS TAX 'LOOPHOLE'

covered his memory after two days of virtual amnesia. He frankly admitted organizing holding companies to legally avoid federal taxes. And he blamed Congress for leaving the loophole open.

This development came after committee drafted a resolution, asking specific power from the Senate to investigate all stock transactions, negotiated to escape and avoid payment of federal income taxes.

It would give the committee special authority to investigate the income tax returns of partners in J. P. Morgan & Co.

Three Morgan partners face questioning on their income taxes as soon as the Senate acts. They are Thomas S. Lamon, William Ewing and Harold Stanley.

Young Lamont negotiated a series of stock deals with his wife whilet he other two partners saved fedelar taxes by selling securities at a loss, the committee was told.

After the public hearing, Ferdinand Pecora, special committee counsel, declared Van Sweringen's testimony revealed a "striking weakness in the federal tax law." He predicted prompt enactment of remedial legislation.

'WEAKNESS IN LAW'

Pecora said:

"We have obtained for the first time an admission that in making these transfers of stock to a third company, resort is had to a medium in order to avoid payment of a tax on profit that would have otherwise accrued to one of the two companies involved basically in the transfer.

"It was all a perfectly legal transaction. But it showed a striking weakness in the law. It is simply a legal way to avoid payment of taxes."

Van Sweringen named the General Securities Corporation and Geneva Corporation as holding organizations formed to avoid corporation income taxes.

The General Securities Corporation was organized to transfer C. & O. railroad stock from the Van Sweringen Company to the Alleghany Corporation. All three were holding companies.

HOLDING COMPANIES

The Geneva Corporation was created to transfer the same stock later from the Chesapeake Corporation to the Alleghany Corporation. All three were holding companies. Van Sweringen said the securities corporation was created in May, 1927, "chiefly for the purpose of transferring the railroad stock." He was asked:

"Why weren't the securities transferred directly from the Vaness Company to the Chesapeake Corporation?"

He replied:

"The General Securities Corporation was organized as a medium of exchange of securities from the Vanes to the Chesapeake Corporation, so as to avail itself of the income tax exemption, provided by Congress in the reorganization of a corporation, where in fact no actual or realized profit was taken."

Van Sweringen said the same purpose was achieved in creating the Geneva Corporation.

ORIGINAL INVESTMENT

Van Sweringen revealed that the great Van Sweringen railroad empire, valued at hundreds of millions of dollars, was erected through an original investment of $1,000,000.

The two Van Sweringen brothers, he said, started in 1916 with $1,000,000.

He previously revealed that they bought one railroad after another, on borrowed capital and public investments until in 1926 they controlled the largest privately-owned rail system in the world.

Van Sweringen, who displayed an amazing lack of memory on his first two appearances as a witness, was asked by Pecora for the amount of his original investment.

Van Sweringen replied:

"I am pleased to inform you that the amount was one million dollars with which we started back in 1916."

The great Van Sweringen system, which included the C. & O., the Erie, the Pere Marquette and the Nickel Plate, was grabbed by J. P. Morgan & Co., finally through a giant holding corporation. Morgan got control of the system by financing the Alleghany Corporation, the holding concern.

St. Bernard Guild Sponsors Musicale

The Woman's Guild of St. Bernard's Church sponsored a musicale in the Dormont New Century Club yesterday. The proceeds went to the building fund.

Elite Horse Show Replaced by Gymkhana

A Gymkhana is to be given at the Allegheny Country Club, June 17, as a substitute for the elite three-day horse show.

A Gymkhana, the experts explain, is the name given by natives of India to varied sporting events including horsemanship, races, games and any events likely to add to enjoyment of spectators.

The word is pronounced, so they say, "jim-ka-na."

ARMY OFFICERS TO KEEP JOBS

CHESTER, Pa., June 7.—(AP.)—A declaration that the officer personnel of the United States Army will not be reduced at this time was made by Secretary of War George H. Dern at the commencement exercises of Pennsylvania Military College.

Celebrating the one hundred and twelfth anniversary of the institution, honorary degrees of doctor of laws were conferred on Secretary Dern and United States Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

The War Secretary spoke of the economy bill and declared the War Department "is trying to meet the situation without destroying the framework of national defense."

Senator Reed declared in favor of the use of tear gas in warfare. He said:

"Humanity has never had a better weapon in war than tear gas. Sentimentalists point to gas as a horrible way of carrying on war, but statistics prove that permanent injuries from gas during the late World War were less than 2 per cent, while permanent injuries from projectiles were more than 30 per cent."

PARADE STAGED BY VET, 100

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS.)—Bill Hood, Negro veteran of the Civil War, recently appeared on the streets on the occasion of his one hundredth birthday attired in a Confederate flag and badges he received at various Confederate reunions. His age and birthday have been verified.

After the manner of many Negroes of slave days, Hood took the name of his master, who was Gen. John B. Hood, of the Confederate army. The Negro was Hood's servant and bodyguard during the war.

Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the Allegheny County courts, will talk on "The House of Morgan Probe" tomorrow at a luncheon meeting of Wilkinsburg Kiwanis. It will be held at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

WOODIN SILENT ON NEW FIGHT FOR OUSTER

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, whose name appeared on the "favorite client" lists of J. P. Morgan & Co. refused to comment today on the new reports that he would resign from the Cabinet.

A published report that Woodin would be relieved and appointed Ambassador to Germany was described as a "fairy story" at the White House.

Renewed congressional demands for retirement of Secretary Woodin as a result of Morgan banking inquiry disclosures, were expected today to result in his withdrawal from the cabinet shortly after adjournment of Congress.

Even Democrats admitted privately the Treasury Secretary's resignation was inevitable. His name has already appeared on three of the "favored client" lists of the Morgans, and is to appear on another when it is made public. They felt he would wait until Congress shuts down before acting, but believed he would return to private business before fall.

Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, led the Republican demand in the Senate for Woodin's resignation. Referring to the Democratic cabinet member as a "tool of the house of Morgan," Robinson said the administration could not afford to allow him to remain in his present position. He declared:

"You have a Secretary of the Treasury who ought to be removed immediately. The American people have no confidence in him.

"He is beholden to the House of Morgan or else he is an ingrate. Time after time in recent years he has accepted gratuity after gratuity from the House of Morgan."

MORGAN FIGHTS FOR PARTNER

Small Sum Involved In Income Tax Battle

International News Service.
(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service. Unauthorized reproduction in whole or in part absolutely prohibited.)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The vast power of the great international banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. was exerted today to prevent a Senate inquiry into a quiet little series of stock transactions between Thomas S. Lamont, a junior partner, and his socially prominent wife, which enabled him to reduce his federal income tax in 1931.

The Morgan firm threatened a legal fight to the United States Supreme Court to prevent Senate publication of the transactions. In the face of this terrific opposition, International News Service learned of the deals.

The information, gathered by special investigators, revealed that young Lamont sold securities on December 30, 1931, taking a small loss.

PURCHASED BY WIFE

On that day and the next following day, his wife purchased all that he sold—some directly and some through a broker.

Mrs. Lamont paid for the securities with money borrowed from her husband, though she had an independent estate. She gave Lamont an unsecured note to guarantee repayment of the loan.

Four months later, young Lamont bought the stocks back from her by the simple expedient of tearing up the note. This occurred in the second week of April, 1932.

The deals saved the Lamonts about $1,900 in federal taxes.

These were the transactions which the great House of Morgan sought to shroud in secrecy. They were transactions which John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924 and now chief counsel to the House of Morgan, described as "perfectly legal."

Davis defended the transactions at a secret session of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and in conversations with individual Senators.

He declared the sales by Lamont to his wife were bona-fide and made in good faith. He insisted Mrs. Lamont was perfectly able to buy the securities, because she had an independent estate of her own, but followed her husband's advice in borrowing the money and giving her note.

AGREES TO RE-BUY

Davis explained Mrs. Lamont finally grew tired of owning the stocks, because their market value failed to increase. He said she also disliked having a note outstanding against her. Finally, he added, her husband agreed to repurchase them.

Information in the hands of Senate investigators revealed the stocks were: 1,500 shares of Continental Oil, 1,000 shares of Simms Petroleum, 1,000 shares of Shamrock Oil and Gas, 500 State Street Investment Company, 350 Investment Corporation of Philadelphia, 200 Durium Products, 300 Hall Electric Heating, and 237 P. R. Mallory Company.

Some of these securities were listed on the exchanges; some were sold "over the counter."

The Senate investigators learned that Lamont sold the so-called "unlisted" stocks directly to his wife. The listed stocks he sold through a broker and Mrs. Lamont purchased the same number of shares in the same securities on the same day or the one following.

MARKET PRICES

The investigators found that Lamont charged his wife the market price for the securities sold directly to her. The other securities he sold the broker at market prices and Mrs. Lamont repurchased them at market prices.

When the young Morgan partner took the securities back, he paid Mrs. Lamont for the unlisted stocks the same price she had paid him. For the listed securities, Lamont paid his wife the then current market prices. In all, there was a difference of about $100 between the December and April gross values.

The Morgan firm was reported ready to stipulate these facts in a statement to the committee, providing it would be kept secret. The banking organization objected to publication of the details and to any questioning of young Lamont or his wife about the transactions.

This offer was rejected by Ferdinand Pecora, special investigating counsel, and subsequently by the Senate committee.

Pony Goes Roaming On Neighbors' Lawns

There was a great to-do in Beechview today when a Shetland pony disappeared from the property of Police Lieut. Edward O'Rourke at 1420 Dagmar avenue. Two hours later the pony was found in a neighbor's yard. Mrs. O'Rourke's theory is that the pony, having consumed all the grass on the O'Rourke pastures, broke away to explore adjoining lawns.

2 Children Playing In Ice Box Smothered

GREENVILLE, Tex., June 7.—(AP.)—Playing in an ice box, Bettie Jean Lynch, 7, and her brother, Ted, 3, were smothered yesterday when the lid fell shut.

When their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch, returned from their work in the fields last night, they missed the children. A search revealed their bodies in the ice box.

Pennsylvania Tires

Don't wait for an emergency before buying, even though you can buy a Pennsylvania or even a tube from us out on the road, day or night, at store prices. It's better to buy a pair, or set, and get rid of every doubtful tire.

You must see them yourself to appreciate why so many of Pittsburgh's purchasing agents, "Trained Buyers," choose Pennsylvania.

MORGAN RAPS SOCIALISM

LONDON, June 7.—(Universal.)—Overspreading by governments and the trend toward Socialism are largely responsible for the world's troubles, J. P. Morgan told the correspondent of the London Daily Express in Washington yesterday.

"The whole world today is an example of the unrest caused by the Socialistic trend of government.

"England, France and the United States are examples of what legislators will do in order to give the people what they want.

"Modern parliamentarians seem to be responsible for the orgy of over-spending, giving to people benefits for which they have not worked and to which they are not entitled."

"As a matter of fact, we haven't got as much power as President Roosevelt."

COUZENS SAILS FOR LONDON

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS.)—More frequent examinations of private bankers were urged today by Senator James Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, who sailed on the Washington to attend the London Economic Conference.

The Senator said that the summer inquiry into the House of Morgan will be concluded within a week or so, and "important matters" will be deferred until fall. He said:

"It looks to me as if the best interests of the public would be served by more frequent examinations of the private bankers, if there are any left after the changes are made in the law which will prevent private bankers from accepting deposits."

French Award Made, Einstein Passed Over

PARIS, June 7.—(AP.)—The committee of the French Academy of Sciences, passing over the name of Dr. Albert Einstein, has voted to present Pieter Zeeman, Dutch scientist, for election to the academy.

Friends of Dr. Einstein expect that his name will be presented again soon for another seat. Prof. Zeeman, known for his work with spectral lines in a magnetic field and the propagation of light in moving media, will replace the late Sir Edwin Ray Lankester, British biologist.

PIQUES THAT BLOOM IN THE SUMMER ASSUME MANY FACES

THE PIQUES that bloom this summer have many imaginative "faces" . . . they've gone imaginative! That simple type of other years has been replaced by flocks of novelty weaves, fanciful and fresh. Some are finely striped, or checked, others are wide wale, diamond blocked, corded, waffled, or with tweedy surfaces. This development of a once comparatively staple fabric is a direct outcome of the Cotton Age we're passing through.

VARIOUS types of pique trim our smartest town clothes, make evening dresses and jackets, summer suits, golf or tenis dresses, beach clothes, hats, gloves, scarfs and even shoes. Face to face with everything in your closet, it is possible to visualize practically every coat or dress hanging there, in pique! And utterly capable of carying one around the clock from early morning to afternoon, with informal parties included at night.

BOTH mother and daughter are royal to pique. The matron on the left, dressed for marketing or porch visiting, wears a fine ribbed cotton morning dress of good design. Tiny scallops on blouse and skirt lend a decorative touch that saves it from severity and makes it suitable even for afternoon. Besides being fashionable, this material launders as easily as a fine handkerchief. It looks more like new with each crisp ironing.

DAUGHTER'S white sport dress keeps her cool and unruffled throughout the day, since it is sheer and lightweight. It is made of finely ribbed, dropped-stitch jersey pique. A full yoke and inverted pleat in the back of the blouse, shirirng over the bust, and a skirt with large roomy pleats, gives her freedom of movement for driving, golf, or whatever else her active life requires. The tie, buttons and wide patent leather belt are of navy polka dots. One of those day-in and day-out dresses. Something pique in every wardrobe is the order of this fashion day.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 7.—St. Cecilia's Roman Catholic Church at nearby Grindstone was damaged by a bolt of lightning during a storm. The edifice did not catch fire.

GRILLER BREAKS MITCHELL CALM

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, Defense Attorney Max D. Steuer and United States Attorney George ?. Medalie contributed to the blaze.

Mitchell touched off the conflagration himself under the irritation of a steady drumfire of cross-examination conducted by United States Attorney Medalie.

Medalie was grilling Mitchell regarding what he had said to his wife on the eve of his sale to her of 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock on December 20, 1929, on which he claimed a loss of $2,800,000 and paid no income tax.

As Medalie persistently kept after Mitchell as to what he and his wife said to each other the witness roared accusingly at the prosecutor:

"You had an opportunity to learn what Mrs. Mitchell had in her mind."

BANK DEPOSIT BILL SNARLED

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt called in Congressional banking leaders today in another effort to iron out differences on banking reform legislation.

Conferees of the Senate and House have been seeking vainly for a week to find an understanding on insurance of deposits in the Glass-Steagall bill.

An entirely new plan is now reported under consideration.

The administration has refused to approve the Senate proposal allowing immediate insurance of deposits up to $2,500.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, Representative Steagall (Dem.), of Alabama, Secretary Woodin and the Comptroller of the Currency were called to the White House to discuss the new proposition.

Meanwhile, conferees on the Glass-Steagall bill suspended sessions indefinitely after failing to agree on the insurance of deposits provision.

Poland May Quit League Over Treaty

WARSAW, June 7.—(AP.)—That Poland might resign from the League of Nations was intimated today in the official Gazette Polska in commenting on France's decision to initial Premier Mussolini's four-power peace pact. The newspaper said:

"Poland will no longer be interested in belonging to the League should the pact materialize because institutions democratic in principle will then cease to exist."

GREECE STIRRED BY ATTACK ON EX-PREMIER

ATHENS, Greece, June 7.—(AP.)—An attempt on the life of Eleutherios Venizelos, who has been Premier of Greece eight times since 1910, deeply stirred this republic today.

The 69-year-old veteran statesman narrowly escaped death at the hands of a party of gunmen who fired from an automobile at the motorcar in which M. and Mme. Venizelos were traveling from Amaroussis to Athens late last night.

The assailants' shots killed a personal guard accompanying the former Premier and struck Mme. Venizelos, who suffered four serious wounds in the lungs and stomach.

Her condition today was grave.

The gunmen, whose motive was not determined, escaped.

Mme. Venizelos, the second wife of the statesman, is the daughter of a wealthy Anglo-Greek resident of Schlizzi. They were married in London in 1921.

Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris expressed regret and horror at the attack and immediately issued orders for a thorough investigation and search for the gunman.

Police were standing by for any eventuality and the garrison was confined to barracks. Meetings and gatherings of all kinds were prohibited.

LONDON PARLEY THREATENS DOLLAR

(This is the fourth of a series of six articles by Samuel Crowther, noted author and writer on economic subjects, dealing with the forthcoming London Economic Conference. The fifth article will appear tomorrow.)

By SAMUEL CROWTHER

Among the duties which have been laid upon the London conference are that of finding a way to raise the prices of the great world commodities and finding an international money.

These would seem to be worthy tasks. For not only are prices too low, but also the profit or loss in any transaction depends less on business ability than on the value of money at the time of payment. Business has become a gamble.

The United States will have to decide whether its interest in foreign commerce is great enough to run the risk of having the value of the dollar fixed from time to time, not by its worth, but by some foreign body.

The power over money is the greatest of all powers. A dictator with the full control of money would not have to bother about gaining other powers—the country would have to dance to the money tune he played.

Changing the value of money changes every human relation. Parting with the power over money is parting with a great section of sovereignty.

U. S. Dollar Control

What has the Untied States to gain or to lose in giving up any part of the control of the dollar?

We have had that control only since the war. Before then the pound sterling was the international money, managed from London. Threadneedle street ruled Wall street.

The fund of real knowledge about money is small, and the mystery thrown about money affairs is largely to conceal the lack of knowledge.

International finance is supposed to be beyond the range of the average mind. That is not so. The complexities grow out of trying to find something that will look like money and still not represent anything that has to be earned.

The search now is for a money which will permit nations to spend more than they earn. That, of course, is a complex problem, which none of us has been able to solve in our personal affairs.

Nothing could be simpler than the elements of international exchange, if only we think of nations as single individuals and brush away all the details.

International trade is simply barter in which gold and silver happen to be the commodities used to settle the difference between the price of what is bought and what is sold. If a nation buys more abroad than it sells abroad, it is simply exceeding its income. It can issue I. O. U.'s for the difference or it can settle in a money commodity, such as gold or silver.

Bankrupt Nations

If a nation continues to buy more than it sells, a point will be reached where the difference cannot be paid in gold. For any nation that is overspending can no more get gold to pay its debts than a man, spending over a long period more than he earns, can get the money to pay his debts. Borrowing without ever paying can continue just so long and no longer.

Now most of the nations have borrowed and bought far in excess of their incomes, and of course, they cannot settle their debts in gold because they have no earnings to exchange for gold. Their problem is not one of money or gold but of earning more or spending less.

If the nations borrowed and bought only to the amount of what they were able to sell, they would not need gold, for the goods they bought would balance the goods they sold.

Nations, however, can do what an individual has not the power to do—change the value of the money in which they owe their debts and thus write down the value of the debts without coming flatly up against the ugly word "repudiation." Going off the gold standard or changing the gold value of a coin is simply a method of repudiating debt.

It is clear that, if nations do not buy or borrow to a greater extent than they sell, there will be no need for an international money. But, if nations continue to borrow and buy more than they sell, it is, equally clear that no money, international or otherwise, can be created to cure the trouble.

Rainbow Chase

We have all personally felt the need for a money which would let us forever spend more than we earned. That would be the ideal money. It is in the pot with the gold at the end of the rainbow.

Another plan growing in favor is to pay all international transactions in I. O. U.'s through the Bank of International Settlements, which is now more or less stranded at Basle.

This bank was set up under the Young plan and is a part of the intricate organization of the League of Nations to clear the payments on the German indemnities. Since no indemnities are being paid, it has nothing much to do. It is perfectly equipped, from a European standpoint, to handle foreign exchange because, although it is headed by a very able American, its board of directors of 19 members contains only two Americans.

It has been most scientifically worked out that this bank should be given the supervision of foreign exchange—the matching and juggling of the I. O. U.'s in some fashion so that they will be taken as worth something, whether or not they are worth anything.

Given the power, the bank could for some time—but not forever—bolster the value of bad checks and shave the value of good checks. The managers could make American checks worth less than their value and foreign checks worth more. They could do on a big scale with the dollar what the British exchange fund is trying to do in a smaller way with sterling. That might cause us some heavy losses, or again we might gain.

But since money is not an international problem but a purely domestic problem of a nation not spending more than it earns, why bother with makeshifts?

And why put the control of the American dollar out of our own hands? More especially, why put its control in the hands of a board of 19 men, only two of whom are Americans?

Why this new passion for narrowing the limits of our sovereignty?

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

BRANDON FLAYS POLICE COURT

A. D. Brandon, former Morals Court magistrate, told the Castle Shannon Chamber of Commerce last night that women and children are given hearings in Police Court in violation of the ordinance creating Morals Court.

He said that since he left the bench, he was "amazed" to find cases involving women and children being tried in Police Court. He added:

"Without the help and cooperation of welfare agencies, and where they come under the control of police magistrates who receive their appointments from political influences and often dominated by the ward chairman, these women and children are the victims of a vicious political system which cares nothing for their welfare, but only has in mind the strengthening of the Coyne organization.

"Such a high-handed method in defiance of the law is not only wrecking this great institution for social betterment, but it is a mockery on justice and playing politics with human misery. I demand in the interest of humanity that this cease immediately."

Alice Jans, Dancer, Weds Stunt Flier

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 7.—(AP.)—Alice Jans, featured film actress, formerly of Omaha, Neb., and Dean Spencer, 26, screen sound recorder and former stunt flier, disclosed yesterday they had been married recently at Ventura, Cal.

Girl, 17, Stricken On Street, Recovers

A 17-year-old girl, who said she was Freda Diley, 1044 Lessing street, had fully recovered from an attack which physicians reported had been induced by the heat yesterday. The young woman, who left Allegheny General Hospital last night, collapsed in Wood street late yesterday.

Squirrel Hill Picnic Held at Kennywood

Large community outings began today at Kennywood Park with the annual picnic of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade. Nearly 25,000 were expected. Squirrel Hill school children were guests of the board.

President Jacob Shulgold named Robert L. Cook as picnic chairman, and Miss Margaret A. Frew as vice chairman. Mrs. O. M. Sheppard, Miss Alice Henry and Mrs. Regina Sebert were in charge of the school committee.

Anti-Coyne-Herron Group Enrolls 100

More than 100 residents of the Tenth Ward were enrolled as members of the newly formed Citizens League of Allegheny County last night as speakers warned the Coyne-Herron administration would continue to control Pittsburgh politically unless voters generally were shaken out of their apathy.

The meeting, held in the Morningside School, was addressed by Attorney Edward O. Tabor.

Dunkard Conference Opens at Hershey

HERSHEY, Pa., June 7.—(AP.)—Plain-clothed officials, delegates and laymen of the Dunkard sect, sometimes called "Plain People," today opened the annual conference of the Church of the Brethren.

Members of the sect from many parts of the United States and several from other countries are present. Subjects awaiting action of the convention include prohibition, world peace, world debts, youth, dress and mission work.

Wife Divorces Man Who Slept with Dog

ERIE, June 7.—(AP.)—Charges that her husband, Gerald J. Finlan, of Spring Creek, Warren County, had insisted on sleeping with a dog won a divorce in court today for Blanche B. Finlan, of Union City.

She further testified that Finlan bought a car with her money, hiding the keys so she couldn't drive it, and was friendly with other women.

Fishing Vessel, Steamer Collide

BOSTON, June 7.—(INS.)—Slight damage and no assistance necessary was the report radioed to Coast Guard headquarters here today from the Gloucester fisherman Lucille which collided with the steamer Santa Cecilia off Pollock Rip Lightship today.

The Santa Cecilia stood by while the crew aboard the Lucille inspected the damage, and then proceeded on her way to New York.

CONCERNS HERE EXPANDING OUTPUT

Rising prices, increased employment, and advances in car loadings, coupled with new developments in such dissimilar fields as beer bottle caps and freight car construction today wrote an encouraging chapter in the history of Pittsburgh's conquest of the depression.

A price increase of seven and a half to 10 per cent for tires was announced today by the Pennsylvania Rubber Company at Jeannette, Pa., in line with similar increases by other tire manufacturers. Tube prices are up 14 per cent, according to the announcement.

The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company here today ordered its pottery plant at Kokomo, Ind., to get ready to resume operations, after being closed for 15 months. Approximately 400 men will be given employment by this move.

LINOLEUM GAINS

Employment at the linoleum plant of the Armstrong Cork Company at Lancaster, Pa., has been increased 20 per cent, it was learned at the general offices here. The increase in production, officials said, is the result of seasonal activity, "accelerated this year by the general improvement in business conditions."

Five hundred thousand pounds of aluminum foil will be manufactured at the New Kensington works of the Aluminum Company of America to line beer bottle caps, it was announced today.

The order was placed by the Crown Cork and Seal Company, of Baltimore, Md.

The American Railway Association has placed a contract with the Pressed Steel Car Company for five sample 50-ton all-steel box cars of a new design. The new cars were developed by engineers of the various car companies as a committee of the American Railway Car Institute working with a sub-committee of the American Railway Association.

Ninety more tank trucks have been ordered by the Gulf Refining Company in addition to 152 trucks purchased a week ago.

'SIGN OF RECOVERY'

The company statement ascribed the purchase to a "sign of business recovery," adding:

"This purchase is a logical move on the part of this organization to anticipate better business conditions."

Reflecting the widespread pick-up in most of the basis lines of industry in the Pittsburgh territory, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad today announced its car loadings for May were 18 per cent ahead of the same month last year.

This is the greatest advance over a corresponding month since the depression, official said.

Work was resumed yesterday at the Templeton plant of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company with a 20 per cent pay increase in effect.

Business has increased steadily since the first of the year for the Ruud Manufacturing Company, it was reported today. With 200 men recently added to the company's payroll, officials of the concern are hopeful of "really good business during July and August."

OBITUARY

John M. Beck.

John M. Beck, 69, retired gardener and pioneer resident of Kennedy township, died yesterday at his home in Herbst road.

He was born in Bridgeville and lived in Kennedy Township for 34 years. He was one of the oldest members of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

Requiem high mass will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at the church. He leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Mary Sontheimer, and Mrs. Gertrude Kunkle; five sons, Joseph C., John W., Edward N., Herman N. and Jerome Beck, and eight grandchildren.

Brown Funeral.

Funeral services for William A. Brown, of 234 Parkfield street, who died Sunday, will be held this afternoon at the Willison funeral home, 600 Cedar avenue.

He leaves his widow, two brothers, Richard and Walter Brown, of Crafton, and three sisters, Mrs. William Dalzell and Mrs. Annie Stevans, of Crafton, and Mrs. Laura Dible.

Hipp Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Kate Schillinger Hipp, for 57 years a resident of the North Side, will be held Friday morning in St. Mary's Church, Lockhart street.

She died yesterday.

BOY, IN COURT, PICKS MOTHER

Richard Bruce Leyda, 15, testified today that he preferred to live with his mother, that, in fact, he wouldn't live with his father, who, he said, humiliated him at times in the presence of others.

The boy's testimony was offered in the proceedings brought by the father, Edgar J. Leyda, Monongahela businessman, to gain possession of his son from his wife, Margaret C. Leyda, radio entertainer. Judge George V. Moore reserved decision.

Mrs. Leyda is suing for divorce.

Toll 10 in Japanese Air Station Blast

TOKIO, June 7.—(AP.)—Three explosions in the powder magazine at the Hamamatsu Air Corps Station tonight resulted in death or injury to more than 10 persons.

Several structures were destroyed. Expectations were that the casualties would prove to be much larger.

JAIL AGED MAN IN ATTACK

Peter A. Moore, 68, Neville Island shoemaker, was committed to jail today when he was unable to furnish bond in connection with charges of attacks upon two Neville Island children.

Moore was held for court today by Justice of the Peace S. E. Wise, of Neville Island, after pleading no defense to two charges. Bond was set at $2,000 on each. Both children and parents testified against him.

WOMAN KILLED AS AUTO SKIDS

Miss Portia Hart, 22, of 519½ Collins avenue, was killed and her sister, Mrs. Helen H. Glick, of the same address, was injured when their automobile skidded and struck an iron pole in Highland avenue, near St. Marie street, last night, according to a coroner's report.

The street was flooded with water resulting from tests conducted by the Bureau of Water, and the machine driven by Mrs. Glick, skidded as the wheels came out of the car tracks.

Miss Hart was dead upon her arrival at the Pittsburgh Hospital. Her neck was broken, physicians reported. Mrs. Glick suffered arm and leg injuries.

Jealous Youngster Objects To Mother's Remarriage

Has Gladys a right to marry again?

Or must she give up the man she loves and continue to struggle along alone, because Babe, age 12, simply hates the idea of a new dad?

Yes, I know. In this day and age we're supposed to Always Think of the Youngsters—and rightly, too.

What's your answer?

If Babe were yours, would you Give Up All for her—or wouldn't you?

And would it be really best for Babe if you did? Or does she need to learn about giving up, too?

Dear Elsie Robinson:

Will you please help me with a serious problem that I have. It means a great deal to me and I can't decide what is right.

I am a divorcee, thirty years old. I have a daughter who is twelve, and who lives with me. I have been working since my divorce, and now I want to marry a man I have known for some time—but my daughter does not, and will not even look at my intended husband. She threatens that if I do marry him she will go and stay with her father, and yet she knows that he is practically always drunk.

This man who wants me to marry him is a fine man, and he is willing to support Babe. He almost worships me, and he is very anxious that she should like him. Wouldn't you think she would appreciate him, and want to have a nice home with us?

ADVISED BY FRIEND

A very dear friend of mine has told me to picture what the child herself would be apt to do, in my place. She says wouldn't she marry? And why should I give up a man I care for, and work hard all alone, when I could be happily married? Haven't I, as well as my child, a right to live and be happy? Or have I?

I feel that I have done my duty as a mother toward her so far. She is a lovely, healthy girl. I know I would be happy, and I am sure that she would, too, if she would just get over this feeling she has. Perhaps you could help me and tell me how to explain things to her. I don't know what ails her.

But if I did marry, and she wouldn't live with us—well, as a mother, I could not allow her to go with her father. It would be dangerous. He drinks heavily, has an ugly temper and doesn't associate with the right kind of company for a growing girl. He never could be trusted to care for her. Please help me. Why is my child making such a fuss? And what shall I do?

GLADYS.

Why does the youngster have such a "hate" on the man you want to marry?

First and foremost, she's jealous, my dear. Ever since her own Dad went away, she been the center of your world. You've thought about her, worked for her—and now someone else is stepping in, taking your attention away from her. So naturally, she's staging a riot.

RIGHT TO MARRY

She's trying to prove to herself that she is still the most important thing in your life. Of course, she herself doesn't entirely realize this, and she would not admit it, even to herself. But it is none the less the truth.

Then what will you do? Shall you let her get away with it? No! It would be the worst thing on earth for her, if you did. For she needs to get away from centering herself on you. She needs to grow up herself and you need to live your own life just as any normal human does.

You have a right to marry again, and you have a right to expect her to respect your right. So, tell her that you're going to marry, and that she still has her place in your heart, and will have her place in her new Dad's heart if she'll give him a break and you a break, and realize that you, as well as she, have a right to be happy.

And don't worry about her threat to go to her father. If the court gave her to you, and he is as unfit as you say, she will have to stay with you. And, once the step is taken, she will like it if you're understanding and sympathetic.

The Friendship of Solitude Has Its Comforts, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Perhaps it was being an only child that has made me a little shy and self-contained. At any rate I never was able to grow chummy and confiding with any one.

Sometimes I have envied those delightful close friendships between pals. But then again I have not envied the bitterness that often comes when that friendship suddenly ceases.

It seems to me that after all it is better never to get so "thick" with anyone that it will be bitter when the twosome "thins."

Too often the moment they stop talking TO each other they start talking ABOUT each other.

Men are more loyal in enmities. They refuse to mention each other. And that is more final than the most malicious gossip!

Madge Sees a Possible Ally in Tony

If I could only continue my successful parrying until Dicky and Hugh should come back from whatever mysterious errand was theirs! Their autogyro had whirred away just as I was sure they were going to descend and deal with Nick, who, I feared, was developing into a greater menace to me than Charles Owen had been to Marion.

A sudden conjecture laid icy fingers upon that budding hope. Suppose that Hugh and Dicky had not realized the personal peril that was mine. Suppose they had marked the rescue of Marion, the return of Ronald and the capture of Owen, and had decided that everything was safe for a little and that they were justified in flying back and summoning Harry Underwood and the others to come to the scene of rescue! Cars, of course, were needed for the transportation of Marion, Ronald and the trussed and gagged figure of Charles Owen, and I greatly feared that Hugh and Dicky had gone to summon them.

I pressed my fingernails deep into the flesh of my palms with the effort to keep from hysterical shrieking at this prospect of being left to the mercy of Nick and Tony. I had no illusions concerning Tony. He would murder me with no qualms of conscience, but—a remembrance of something he had said gave me the glimmer of a new hope. He had been so violent in his opposition to Nick's helping me, so contemptuous of what he dubbed his associate's "falling for every skirt," that I wondered if he might not be induced to help me get away from Nick if I made it worth his while.

TO TRY PLAN

Involuntarily, I put my hand to my blouse, felt inside it the reassuring tiny parcel containing my "mad money," with which Dicky, quoting theatrical parlance, has taught me to provide myself when starting upon any journey. We had been but a few hours in Sackettsville when he had given me $100 in an envelope with the injunction to hide it in my gown and preserve it for an "extreme emergency." The words surely described my present plight, I told myself grimly, and I resolved to watch Tony's every word and movement, with the hope that I might be able to bargain with him for my release.

I knew, of course, that if keeping me mattered one whit to whichever gangster chief these two apparently owed allegiance, $100 would have no more weight than a nickel in Tony's estimation. Nor would he consider it, if his acceptance involved Nick's knowledge of his perfidy. But knowing that Nick's idle fancy alone was responsible, I was sure that if he could let me slip away without Nick's guessing that he was responsible, and he was assured that the hundred was all the money I had, he might be approachable. It was worth trying, at any rate.

FLATTERS GANGSTER

I was not so absorbed in either my fears or my plans, however, as to fail in keeping a wary eye upon Nick, walking so close to me that it took all my ingenuity to keep him from touching me. I knew that it was but the matter of a few minutes at the longest that I could thus hold him off, but in this desperate game I was playing, every second gained was what Dicky would call "so much velvet."

"I guess our bluff went," Nick said when we were well out of earshot of Ronald and Marion. "I don't hear any more shots."

Purposely I made my voice admiring.

"Oh! How clever of you!" I exclaimed. "Do you mean that you were only bluffing when you put that rope across the road and stopped their car, and when you commenced shooting at them?"

"That rope wasn't no bluff," he said quickly. "That would have stopped a locomotive, and I don't mean maybe."

He chuckled at his own extravagant boast, and I realized that he quite fancied himself as a humorist. If I could only keep his vanity fed, keep him talking and bragging, I might be able to blind him to the attempt I meant to make to bribe Tony.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Diabetes Not Cured by Insulin

A recent report of the Department of Health, New York City, shows an increase in the total number of deaths from diabetes during 1932. This report is similar to those relating to other parts of the country. A careful study of available statistics shows an increase rather than a decrease in the number of cases of diabetes.

Dr. Copeland

Many explanations have been offered for this increase. Undoubtedly it is founded on many factors. I believe that in many instances the fault lies in the common belief that diabetes is not a serious disease and that it can be easily cured with insulin.

May I warn all my readers against this misbelief. There is no medicine known to medical science that will cure diabetes. Insulin only controls the disease.

Another common pitfall is that many diabetics are careless about their eating. They assume that since they are taking insulin they can eat foods that would otherwise be prohibited from the diet. This is dangerous and too often leads to serious complications.

I cannot over-emphasize the importance of accepting diabetes as a serious menace to health and happiness. Only when the disorder is recognized as a serious one and the proper diet and precautions are taken, will the number of deaths due to diabetes decrease. Bear in mind that when diabetes is properly treated, the afflicted individual may continue with his daily work and live to a hearty and enjoyable old age.

To all sufferers from diabetes I would first advise that they carefully follow the instructions given to them by their physicians.

Avoid any tendency towards constipation. Daily bathing, frequent cleansing of the teeth and washing of the hands, and avoiding colds, infections and boils are imperative.

If you are tired and do not feel well call your physician. Do not delay. A good plan, while waiting for him, is to go to bed, keep warm, take an enema and drink plenty of water. This may prevent an attack of coma so dangerous to the diabetic.

Never miss a meal while you are taking insulin. This may lead to insulin "shock." Pallor, nervousness, hunger, sweats and trembling are early signs of insulin "shock."

Answers to Health Queries

B. H., Q.—What do you advise for warts?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Addressing the Doctor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Which is the best taste to say: "Good morning, Mr. Doctor," or "Good morning, Dr. Johns?"

And, as an answer to a question, is it better to say, "Yes, Mr. Doctor," or "Yes, Dr. Johns?"

In other words, is it ever all right to say, "Mr. Doctor?"

STRANGER.

It is never correct to say "Mr. Doctor." The best form to use when addressing a doctor is to use the title with the last name . . . Dr. Johns. As a matter of fact, this is the only good form. It is poor taste to address the doctor as "Doctor." For instance, "Good morning, Doctor." It's like saying, "Good morning, Mr." So use the title and the last name and you'll always be right, always polite and gracious in this form of address.

Rings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Does the bridegroom purchase both his wedding ring and the bride's wedding ring, or does the bride purchase his ring?

READER.

The groom purchases the bride's ring, and the bride purchases the ring that she gives to her groom.

If planning to go away soon, start saving the cardboards that come home in hubby's shirts from the laundry. These slipped into frocks and blouses form a splendid protection against wrinkles.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

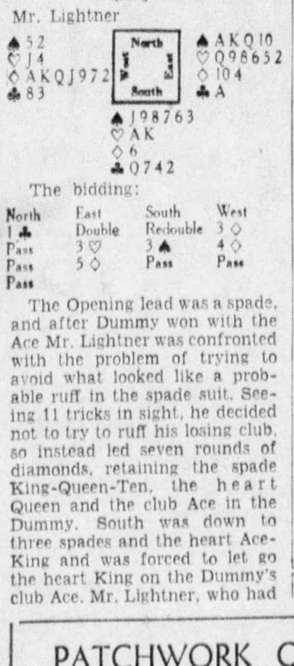
Team-of-Four Play

With two important tournaments—that of the American Whist League at Hanover, N. H., and that of the American Bridge League at Asbury Park, N. J.—scheduled for the summer, teams-of-four are being formed and practice matches are the order of the day. In one such practice match an epidemic of Slams was responsible for several swings, and there were a great many hands in which the correct method of play was difficult indeed to find.

The hand below was played at five diamonds by both teams, but Mr. Theodore A. Lightner managed to make six by means of a cleverly executed end-play.

North, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

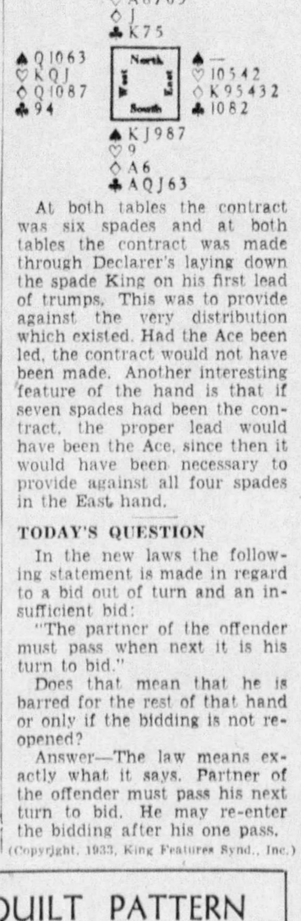


The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Double	Redouble	3 ◇
Pass	3 ♡	3 ♠	4 ◇
Pass	5 ◇	Pass	Pass
Pass

The Opening lead was a spade, and after Dummy won with the Ace Mr. Lightner was confronted with the problem of trying to avoid what looked like a probable ruff in the spade suit. Seeing 11 tricks in sight, he decided not to try to ruff his losing club, so instead led seven rounds of diamonds, retaining the spade King-Queen-Ten, the heart Queen and the club Ace in the Dummy. South was down to three spades and the heart Ace-King and was forced to let go the heart King on the Dummy's club Ace. Mr. Lightner, who had correctly read North's Opening club bid as a psychic, now led the heart Queen, and South was forced to win the trick with the Ace and lead up to Dummy's spade ten-ace.

Another hand, one of the most interesting that was played, illustrated the necessity of making safety plays whenever the position suggests their advisability.



At both tables the contract was six spades and at both tables the contract was made through Declarer's laying down the spade King on his first lead of trumps. This was to provide against the very distribution which existed. Had the Ace been led, the contract would not have been made. Another interesting feature of the hand is that if seven spades had been the contract, the proper lead would have been the Ace, since then it would have been necessary to provide against all four spades in the East hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

In the new laws the following statement is made in regard to a bid out of turn and an insufficient bid:

"The partner of the offender must pass when next it is his turn to bid."

Does that mean that he is barred for the rest of that hand or only if the bidding is not reopened?

Answer—The law means exactly what it says. Partner of the offender must pass his next turn to bid. He may re-enter the bidding after his one pass.

Household Hints

To remove stains on black cloth rub with a piece of raw potato.

If a little alum is added to the soapy water in which you wash your hair brushes, the bristles will stiffen and the life of the brush is lengthened.

Take the best parts from an old towel and make a rough pair of gloves. After washing the hair, massage with gloved hands. This will be found much quicker than drying in the ordinary way.

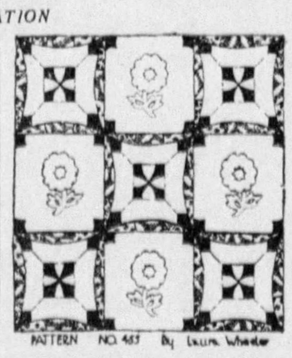
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN

CORONATION

Even though the women of the early nineteenth century scorned crowned heads, Coronation patterns were popular for quilts and so today they still are favorites. This graceful variation makes a charming pattern that is easy to do. Another attractive feature of this quilt is that scraps of material can be used to form the rounded patches, at the sides of the blocks. This feature makes it especially popular as a Friendship Quilt, for it offers the opportunity of using a variety of material harmoniously. The floral quilting motif fits in well with the airiness of the patchwork block.

The pattern comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, quilting motif, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for a pattern for this design to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.



When Very Tired

When very tired from a full day of cleaning and every muscle seems sore, put a cup of Epsom salts in the bath water and rest in the warm salt water for about 10 minutes before retiring. It will take away that ache and give you a restful night.

PAN-AMERICAN CONCERT -:- Six Soloists Appear With Marine Band -:- ON THE AIR

Jealous Wife 'Walk-Out' Discussed

Taking the spotlight on tonight's radio bill is a one-hour broadcast from the sixty-sixth Pan-American concert, featuring the United States Marine Band in a program of Latin-American music.

Inaugurating a series of three such concerts on the esplanade of the Pan-American Building, Washington, the presentation is listed on NBC-KDKA from 10 to 11 p. m. Six prominent soloists, headed by Ortiz Tirado, Mexico City surgeon and leading tenor of Mexico's National Opera Company, who now is appearing over NBC networks, also will be heard.

A second tid-bit for dialing music lovers—one of the day's premieres, incidentally—is a 30-minute program of Wagnerian excerpts by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra over the same facilities at 9:30 p. m. With Claire Dux as soloist, the broadcast emanates from the Auditorium Theater, Chicago, near the World's Fair grounds.

"Tales of the Titans," new series of short story dramatizations to include works of Robert Louis Stevenson, Edgar Allen Poe and O. Henry, opens on KDKA at 9 tonight with Bret Harte's "Tennessee's Partner."

Mischa Levitzki's weekly NBC recital series, originally scheduled for May only, has been extended to include each Wednesday during June. As a highspot tonight—on WCAE at 10:30—he offers his own composition, "Gavotte in Old Style."

* * *

Another knotty problem, this time having to do with the question "Is Wife Number Two justified in leaving her husband because he pledged his troth to her with the identical ring that once graced the finger of Wife Number One?" is aired pro and con by the Voice of Experience over WJAS at 8.

* * *

Ever since he has been on the air Irvin Cobb's fan mail has been full of stories and anecdotes from listeners who think that his supply might give out, and so-o-o, the Sage of Paducah tells some of them on WJAS at 9.

Singers Here Open Network Series

Combining the Pioneer Male Quartet and the Fireflies, popular feminine trio, a new series of NBC network programs will go on the air on a regular schedule tomorrow at 2:30 from the studios of KDKA.

The male unit is composed of Gene Baldridge and J. Dickson Fulton, tenors; Reed Kennedy, baritone, and Russell Mitchell, bass, with Aneurin Bodycombe as accompanist and director.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

This buzzin' around has gotta stop. The police and the peaceful citizens want relief from the swarms of bees that every now and then decide to visit a certain locality. William A. Fogle, of Oliphant street, offers the swarm in his front yard, but with no takers. Bees get hungry and nasty after remaining in one place a day or two.

The hero of Shadyside is Charles F. Nicholas, who skillfully coaxed a swarm of bees out of a tree on Howe street to the accompanying "Ohs" and "Ahs" of admiring neighbors.

It's easy when you know how, I'll explain. Go after them slowly and deliberately. Put your hive on a sheet on the ground immediately under the swarm. Jar the limb. The bees fall on the sheet. Hammer the top of the hive to attract their attention and they'll crawl into the hive. It's the vibration that attracts them, not the noise. The reason for the sheet is because it makes it easy for the buzzers to crawl. The expert also says that after you've been stung a hundred or so times you develop immunity.

On second thought let the bees alone.

The Heidelberg Fire Department has a unique record. Over a year without a call. Assistant Chief William Evans is proud of the carefulness of Heidelberg residents.

RADIO QUIZ 'STOLEN'

I like the optimism of Dr. Frank N. Freeman, of Chicago University, who expects to determine to some extent, the intelligence rating of the radio audience by broadcasting 36 questions by way of NBC-KDKA Friday night at 10 o'clock. But I think the worthy doctor, in his psychological researches, should have discovered that such experiments ought to be properly timed.

Some one might have wised him that at precisely that hour, Jack Benny would be broadcasting via NBC-WCAE, and Lou Holtz by way of CBS-WJAS. Considering what we already know of audience taste, it is likely that few listeners will surrender Benny or Holtz at that hour to have his mind analyzed.

Nevertheless, I'm willing to help the doc. To this end, I have mooched from him a few samples of the 36 questions, which he has divided into three groups. Read 'em and answer:

Write in the words which will make the following sentences correct:

(A) Timothy is a kind of—stone, hay, reptile, hat.

(B) Napoleon was most famous in medicine, war, theology, literature.

Write in the opposites of the words "smooth," "venturesome."

Write in the proper words to fill the blanks:

(A) Egg is to bird as seed is to .....

(B) Clock is to time as thermometer is to .....

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Odds and Ends

A STRANGE thing has come to pass in the Broadway field. Out of the depression and several seasons of theatrical mediocrity, a new show business has been born. I am referring to the cabarets.

Wherever you go, cafe ads slap you in the kisser. "No Cover Charge At Any Time." "All You Can Eat for a Dollar." If things go much longer in this direction, a man will be able to enter a cafe, slap a quarter on the table, eat a sirloin steak, drink a bottle of beer, dance all night to a fine orchestra—and the cafe will supply the girls!

Seriously, though, strange things are happening in the cabaret field. The rear tables—and sometimes the front ones—are occupied by the boys and girls who once patronized the balconies in the theaters. Everything today is a question of getting the most for the least money. And the cafes have been winning the argument.

I do not refer here to the small establishments on Broadway. Such places will spring up and fall away as long as Broadway has a single light left upon it. No, I talk now of institutions such as the Paradise, the Hollywood, and a spot like the Cotton Club, in Harlem.

These places cost fortunes to own and operate. The Cotton Club revue is as fine a piece of musical entertainment as you will ever see on any stage in any theater. The Hollywood goes in for such expensive and and crowd-enticing acts as Ted Lewis and his band. The Paradise, built last winter at a staggering cost and now the cafe showplace of New York, features the ever-popular Nils Granlund and more beautiful girls than Samuel Goldwyn ever gazed upon.

But what is the result? I am willing to wager that these three places took in more money last week than any five shows on Broadway put together.

Then, too, it might be well to remember that these cafes draw larger crowds than the average theatrical production on Broadway. The other night, for example, I went across the river to Ben Marden's Riviera and found some 1,400 people dining and dancing in the various rooms. It's been a long time since any legitimate house on Broadway saw 1,400 people at one time.

This Riviera, by the way, is a most remarkable establishment. A landmark across the Hudson for many years, it was taken over by Ben Marden some 12 months ago and completely rebuilt. I'd like to bet that the spot has cost Marden and his associates a quarter of a million dollars to date. And if you think that isn't a sizeable chunk to invest in property at the moment, just ask a few of the boys who still own lots in Miami.

But the result, I think, has justified the expenditure. If the Riviera today isn't one of the most beautiful night clubs in the world, then I know neither night clubs nor the world. It's going to take Marden a long time to get back his investment, and as a matter of fact, he may never get it back. But at least he has the satisfaction of knowing that, when it comes to night clubs, he owns the most magnificent of them all . . .

In most of these spots, the customer is charged a minimum fee of $2 per person for his table. Some of them are operating on the dollar rule—and there are a few that invite you in without asking you to spend any basic amount whatsoever. But in the end, by some manner or other, the checks average the same amount regardless of the policy.

In other words, it is possible today for the young man to take out his lady friend on the sum of $5. For that sum he can enter a beautiful cafe at 10 o'clock with his girl, dance until 3 or 4 in the morning to a famous orchestra, pour White Rock or ginger ale into his gin, see a complete musical production that costs a fortune, rub elbows with the stars, tip the waiter and the coatroom girl—and still have carfare home.

And for the same $5, what does he get in the theater? A couple of seats in the balcony—and then, at 11 o'clock, his girl asks him if they aren't going somewhere to dance. So what course does the young man choose before he goes out? Well, you know the answer as well as I. The theater gets it in the nose once again.

Just the same, I am amused when I think of the difference that 10 years has brought. Back in 1923 if a young man tried to get into the Texas Guinan club with $5 in his pocket, they wouldn't send for the head waiter. They'd call for a doctor . . .

THE other night, at a rather mediocre opening, some of us wandered into a restaurant across the way during the intermission and neglected to return for some time. Shortly after 11 o'clock Gene Buck glanced at his watch and called across to one of the authors of the production.

"Say, Tom," he cried, "have I still time to go back to the show?"

The author shrugged his shoulders.

"Why bother now?" he returned glumly. "Just wait 10 more minutes and you can see a rehearsal." . . .

* * *

SPEAKING of openings, I must confess to something of a disappointment when I witnessed the premiere of "Tattle Tales," the Frank Fay-Barbara Stanwyck revue, last week. The show, while by no means as bad as some of the critics would have you believe, is simply not entertainment in the 1933 manner. It was built for the sticks rather than Broadway, and it should never have come here.

ARMSTRONG LINKED TO COUNTY BRIBE CHARGES

POLITICS

Martin, Shannon, Talbot Loom for Governor

By MARK SHIELDS

Three gubernatorial trial balloons will be floating about Washington, Pa., tomorrow evening when the home folks give a dinner for Republican State Chairman Edward Martin.

Mr. Shields

Emphatically the committee in charge of the dinner says it has no political significance, being merely a welcome to Gen. Martin after his eight years service in Harrisburg as auditor general and state treasurer. But in the light of the state situation it is impossible to divorce political complexion from any dinner which has as guests Gen. Martin, Lieut. Gen. Edward C. Shannon and Speaker Grover Talbot.

Political figures from this end of the state will be there in droves, and that insures a discussion of Republican prospects. There can be no question but what county leaders and active figures in smaller political units are fearful of next year, and they want as the head of the Republican ticket some one who can challenge the undoubted Democratic rise.

That this rise is due to impatience with Republican leadership quite as much as through hope of complete happiness through a Democratic messiah, is beside the question. Indeed, it furnishes the Republicans with a more difficult problem, as no situation is more difficult to meet than complete dissatisfaction with a political reign.

Herbert Hoover found that out, and so did many Republicans in Pennsylvania who went down to defeat with him.

So you can bet the usual odds of eight to five that Republicans will be viewing and discussing Gen. Martin, Gen. Shannon and Speaker Talbot in terms of gubernatorial availability tomorrow night. It is hardly a secret that the three gentlemen named, and their friends, think most actively of them in that light.

Martin Party Leader; Talbot House Strong Man

Gen. Martin is the party leader, he endeavored to shape a policy for the Legislature. But Speaker Talbot was the strong man of the House, frequently at odds with the state chairman on phases of strategy, and it was due to his force that the House carried out Republican organization principles in passing or killing legislation.

That in some ways is an attribute to parade in seeking the governorship. In others it is a distinct handicap, the public being incensed at the manner in which the controlled House buried social legislation, resorting to parliamentary ruse when danger of an open vote threatened.

Gen. Shannon as presiding officer of the Senate had less imprint on legislation than did Talbot, being without a vote or the right to name committees. But the conferences in which he participated, along with the Governor and Republican and Democratic leaders, found the general firm in his opinions, and courageous enough not to run out on agreements.

He might have been the organization entry for the governorship in 1930 had not some elements vacillated until he had given a pledge to support Francis Shunk Brown. He stuck to that pledge, though it had not been given to the public.

Gen. Martin has personal charm, but some strong political leaders accuse him of lacking the necessary force, and fear he would be compelled to make a defensive campaign because he has been theoretical head of the party while it has been making an unsatisfactory record.

Talbot also would be on the defensive, but he has capacities for counter-attack.

At any rate, there will be three aspirants for the governorship at the dinner Thursday, and that means a political atmosphere, whatever the intention of the sponsors of the affair.

One Notable Omission From List—Kistler

Democratic National Chairman Farley, in his speech to the unterrified minority Saturday night in the William Penn, lauded Pennsylvania Democratic leaders. But there was one notable omission from the list. He mentioned Joseph F. Guffey, State Chairman Warren Van Dyke, David L. Lawrence, Mrs. Carroll Miller.

But he did not mention National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, who was not present. Ordinarily the national committeeman has a place in the party councils. Mr. Kistler has not. He was for Al Smith, and did his best to prevent Mr. Farley ousting John Collins as state chairman, to be replaced by Van Dyke.

It looks like there might be that "proscription" of prominent Democrats against which Mr. Farley's spoken words warned. There would be no surprise should Mr. Kistler resign, as he has previously said he would not retain the post if it was no more than an empty honor. And that's all it is to him.

Actually there is as much dissension in the Democratic ranks, among active party men, as among the Republicans. An instance occurred yesterday at the Hungry Club when John Henry, former Democratic registration commissioner ousted by Gov. Pinchot at the behest of Guffey and Lawrence, accused Lawrence of working in the interest of a Republican congressman whose seat is threatened through contest.

There will be more dissension when the parceling of federal patronage is complete. There are Democrats who claim the Roosevelt victory is being translated into something rather private for Messrs. Guffey and Lawrence.

DEGREES GIVEN 1,166 AT PITT CEREMONY

Bowman Calls Seniors 'Most Experienced;' Seven Honored

Honorary degrees were conferred on seven leaders in art, science and commerce as 1,166 graduates described as "older in experience than any other senior senior class" today received diplomas from the University of Pittsburgh in commencement exercises at Pitt Stadium.

Arthur V. Davis, chairman of the board of the Aluminum Company of America, received an honorary doctor of science degree. Degrees of doctor of laws were given to Benjamin Thaw, senior trustee of the university; Dr. Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania and a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Dr. Franklin H. Martin, nationally known surgeon and author of several medical publications; Josiah K. Lilly, Indianapolis manufacturer who has collected the most complete library of first editions of Stephen Collins Foster music, and Dr. Frederick M. Clapp, head of Pitt's department of fine arts. Harvey B. Gaul, music critic and composer, was awarded a degree of doctor of music.

Five thousand persons witnessed the ceremony. A reunion of classes of 1869 and 1883, members occupying a special box, was a feature of the program. These members, with those receiving honorary degrees, were guests at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

BOWMAN SPEAKS

Reminding the graduates that "you are your own good fortune," Chancellor John G. Bowman in delivering the commencement address said:

"You feel a considerable protest over the fact that tomorrow there is not work. You feel this more because a few years ago, most of the seniors had from one to five opportunities. You are asking what shall I do? For most of you there is no answer. No seniors in the last 50 years, I think, have had to face so hard a world.

"And I think, too, that no seniors through the same years have shown so much in their faces the marks of care and of worry as you do. You are older in experience than any senior class I have known."

HONORS AWARDED

Rabbi Herman Hailperin was among 19 receiving degrees of Doctor of Philosophy. Sixteen honors were given to students of the school of business administration among the awards and scholarships announced. The proficiency in scholarly award of the Alpha Kappa Pai for downtown students was awarded to Joseph P. Leonard. William B. Billock received its junior class award. The American Bankers' Association Foundation scholarships were given to Robert Bain and Dwayne W. Mueller.

KNEW OF CASE, CONTRACTOR CHARGES

Failed to Take Action On Accusations, Probe Hears

An attorney representing J. W. Butler, contractor, who charged two county engineers accepted bribes, said today Butler told him former County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong ignored the charges.

Butler's accusations were made to the present Board of County Commissioners against E. A. Griffith, maintenance engineer in the Department of Highways, Bridges and Tunnels, and W. C. Lyle, former county road engineer. He charged they accepted bribes totaling $2,550.

The charge has been ordered referred to District Attorney Andrew T. Park and County Controller Robert Woodside.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Attorney Jerry Simpson, representing Butler, said the latter told him he brought the matter to the attention of the old Board of Commissioners shortly after the alleged acceptance of the bribes occurred, but the late Chairman Armstrong took no action.

Butler was the contractor on the Simpson-Howell, Mowry-Gillhall and Cochrans Mill roads. He still claims from the county $25,748 for extra work on the last two jobs.

He was forced to pay the engineers money, Butler declares, to get them to make the estimates on which payments were based as the work proceeded.

Under a demand from Griffith, Butler declared he gave him $550 in cash to buy an automobile. The money, Griffith's letter said, was paid in the presence of H. W. Waldbaum, manager of the Standard Auto Company of McKeesport, a son-in-law of Butlers.

TELLS OF DEMANDS

Four days later Griffith approved two estimates representing total payments of $18,474, Butler states.

Butler's letter said further demands were made upon him for cash. It asserted:

"On November 1, 1929, Engineer W. C. Lyle in the presence of Engineer E. A. Griffith in their office demanded that I bring in $2,000 in cash and give $1,000 to him and Griffith or I would wait a long time for another estimate—the county owed me over $25,000 and they said they would make the estimates that amount if I came across."

Butler then described how he got the cash at the bank and went to Griffith's office, Lyle being absent at the time. He said he placed the money in Griffith's desk drawer while Griffith sat at the desk.

SAYS HE SAW DEAL

Waldbaum, in a statement to auditors, said he witnessed the purchase of the automobile and furnished the necessary funds at Butler's request to Griffith to make the purchase. He also said he looked through a door in Griffith's office in the old City Hall and saw Butler put the money in the desk drawer.

W. McClurg Donley, consulting engineer, in a claim filed for Butler for extra compensation, declared he was convinced that an organized combination was formed to "chastise, break and embarrass" Butler financially.

Griffith, who heard the complaint against him read before County Commissioners, later denied Butler's allegations. He said:

"I am absolutely innocent. I have been here 25 years and everyone knows my record. As for Butler, I know him of old. I have seen him change stakes on a job and things like that."

Methodists in Rift Over Spring Meeting

Pastors Complain of Gardens Neglected For Conference

Sweltering Methodist Episcopal ministers of the Pittsburgh Conference today argued heatedly on a proposition to return the annual sessions to the fall season when there is not so much heat. Bishop Adna W. Leonard ruled a vote should be taken Friday. He also ruled the laymen, who meet with the conference on that day, would be privileged to express an opinion, but not vote. Conference sessions are being held in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. J. S. Payton, of the Asbury Church led the opposition to the change and said to return to the fall meeting would give the conference the appearance of having St. Vitus dance. He said the matter had been threshed out by a committee and recommended with only one dissenting vote when the meetings were advanced from October to June. He said the only reason for the change now is the thermometer and the damage would outweigh the benefits.

PLEA FOR GARDENS

The Rev. D. R. McKnight, Washington district superintendent, arguing for the change, said many rural ministers lose on their garden crops by the June meeting and their gardens, during the depression, mean almost as much as their salaries.

The Rev. Dr. C. W. Tinsley, of Cresson, Pa., in a sermon commemorating his fiftieth year in the ministry, last night assailed what he claims "the weakness and inability of the church to deal with the economic crisis." The church, he declared, does not reflect the attitude of Jesus Christ toward wealth. He said:

"An annual unearned income of $100,000 is a sure symptom of social disease. But if the preacher of a wealthy congregation dares say so he is counted as a 'Red' and his pastorate is in jeopardy.

"It is so much safer to condemn other things than to tell the truth to rich barbarians. What wonder people refer to some churches as only rich men's clubs!"

Dr. Tinsley formerly was pastor of churches in West View and Knoxville.

FEW PULPIT CHANGES

Bishop Leonard, presiding, announced that the changes in pastorates this year would be few. He said he was desirous of relieving the ministers of paying from $50 to $100 for moving, because of the financial stringency. The list of appointments will be handed down Friday night.

Following celebration of the Lord's Supper, a memorial service was held for members of the conference and their wives or widows who died in the last year.

For the first time business sessions of the conference will be held at night, cutting the time of the conference in half to save expenses.

Noted Witness Dodges Pecora And Flees West

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Just happened to remember that the Literary Digest hasn't had a vote on anything in a long time.

We stopped off here on our way to the Chicago fair by roller skate, bicycle and dog sled. It's tough work. But you don't have to worry about your gasoline.

This town is the home of the dollar camera, is close enough to Niagara Falls to get the benefit of water power and turns out all the movie film. So, everybody is interested in Mr. Roosevelt's plans and Mickey Mouse.

Here's a warning for the boys working their way West. There's a fellow in a big, red roadster who leans out and bites off hitch-hikers' thumbs.

He snapped at us outside of Troy. We've got to talk to the Rochester Advertising Club today with the thumb neatly bandaged in cigaret papers and chewing gum.

We have left word with Pecora that when he wants us we will be there. If he knows where that is.

DUQUESNE LAND DEAL PROBED

Chief County Investigator Leo A. Riordan today was to begin a further probe into why a former Board of County Commissioners purchased 47 pieces of property at the Duquesne end of the Thompson Run Bridge when only 22 were needed for construction purchases, and then donated the remaining 25 lots to the city of Duquesne.

Saying he believed someone had received some money on the deal, outside the $41,200 purchase price, Chairman C. C. McGovern directed Riordan to make a further check and report. While Riordan is completing his investigation, the county solicitor's office will move to have the property turned back to the county.

Taxpayers League Threatens Strike

Threats of a taxpayers' strike next year unless the city, county and school board "reduce the burdens on the taxpayers' shoulders" were renewed by speakers for the Allegheny Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League last night before the Mt. Lebanon Civic League.

Attorney Harry Shapera urged residents of the community to scan their assessments for next year and to "protest assessments out of proportion to property values."

Even City Key Vanishes As Magicians Meet

By IRVING J. NEWMAN
Staff Correspondent.

BEAVER FALLS, June 7.—The magicians with their tricks and livestock have taken possession here today, with the opening of the three-day convention of the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

At an informal welcome last night, the key to the city was presented by Mayor C. W. Calvin to President W. W. Durbin, of Kenton, O. The key promptly disappeared, but Durbin denied responsibility.

The remainder of the planned program was broken up by the quacking of a dozen ducks which had escaped before time for their act. They were rounded up with a resultant shower of feathers by T. H. Heuber, of Pittsburgh.

The expected organized furore over the recent published exposures of magical secrets by a cigaret company was cut short with the announcement by Harry Cecil, of Detroit, that a communication from the cigaret manufacturer indicated this type of advertising would be discontinued this month following urgent requests by magicians and magic fans.

The steady trek started last night, and already the citizens of Beaver Falls have had their first taste of street-corner magic. Today the town is full of it. It started officially at noon when Magician Elmer Eckam, of Rochester, N. Y., escaped from a straightjacket while suspended by the feet from the roof of the General Brodhead Hotel. Other entertainers then continued with the open-air show, a novelty to those unfamiliar with the magician's love of display.

Bomb Reward Proposal Up to Legal Experts

The resolution which offers $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons guilty of bombing is in the hands of the City Law Department for approval today.

The resolution, presented in Council by Councilman P. J. McArdle, was discussed in Finance Committee yesterday afternoon, but did not receive the approval of the committee.

Councilman W. Y. English, committee chairman, pointed out that because the resolution's preamble sets forth specific cases of bombing, the city might involve itself in legal liability if the resolution passed.

Councilman McArdle moved that the law department give an opinion on the city's liability. Council also passed a motion that the Department of Public Safety verify the bombings mentioned in McArdle's resolution.

DUQUESNE GIVES 255 DEGREES TONIGHT

Degrees will be conferred on 255 students at the fifty-fifth annual commencement exercises of Duquesne University in Memorial Hall tonight.

Attorney Martin Conboy, of New York, will address the graduating class. He will have conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

The Rev. Dr. James A. Wallace Reeves, president of Seton Hill College, who preached the baccalaureate sermon, also will address the class and receive the honorary law degree.

The Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of the university, will address the class after the conferring of the degrees.

The Rev. Michael J. Brannigan, vice president and dean of the college of arts, will be marshal of the academic procession. It will form inside the hall and proceed through the corridors to the main entrance. The exercises are open to the public and do not require cards of admission.

Trial Hearing Set In Scottsboro Case

ATHENS, Ala., June 7.—(AP.)—Judge James E. Horton has set the hearing on a motion for a new trial for Heywood Patterson, one of nine Negro defendants in the Scottsboro case, for June 22 in Limestone Circuit Court here.

Patterson was convicted and his punishment fixed at death on April 9 for an alleged attack on Mrs. Victoria Price, of Huntsville, aboard a freight train two years ago.

HAGMAIER ASKS GARBAGE JOB IN COUNTY

Louis W. Hagmaier, of Aspinwall, who sponsored a bill making the County Commissioners responsible for supervision and inspection of garbage plants and wagons, has made a bid for the job of administering the law here. The bill was presented at the last session of the Legislature by Representative Louis Rectenwald, who was recently dismissed from the county payroll.

However, Hagmaier today explained he originally introduced the bill in 1931 when he was a member of the Legislature and was state representative for the Pennsylvania State Boroughs Association. He said there was no attempt made to embarrass the County Commissioners and that the bill had been indorsed by the State Department of Health.

Chairman C. C. McGovern was named as a committee to confer with Hagmaier.

The garbage bill provides that the Commissioners license and inspect disposal plants and vehicles in the municipalities of the county.

Hagmaier said it would take about six months to put the new law into effect. He asked for desk space, an automobile and approximately $200 a month.

VOTE PROBERS GET USE OF COURTROOM

One of the larger courtrooms of the United States Court will be used in holding the federal grand jury inquiring into last fall's election in the Thirtieth and Thirty-second Congressional Districts. The probe begins Tuesday.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham said the regular grand jury room is inadequate because of the number of witnesses to be called.

Judge Nelson McVicar today signed an order directing subpenas be issued requiring County Controller Robert G. Woodside and District Attorney Andrew T. Park to produce records in connection with the November election.

Woodside was directed to produce pay sheets and vouchers for the pay of officers and members of the following election boards: Second Ward, Second District; Third Ward, First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth and Twelfth districts; Fourth Ward, First, Third, Eighth, Tenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Nineteenth districts; Twenty-third Ward, Second, Fifth, Seventh Eighth, Ninth and Tenth districts; Twenty-fourth Ward, First District; Sharpsburg, First and Second districts; Carnegie, First Ward, First District; Scott Township, First and Second wards; Stowe Township, Third and Fourth wards.

Park was directed to produce ballot boxes and their contents for the First District, First Ward of Carnegie; First and Third wards of Scott Township, and Third and Fourth wards, Stowe Township.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

Husky Tosses Foster

For a wrestling scene in "The Man Who Dared" Preston Foster's opponent was George Du Count, 230-pound Russian.

"I guess Du Count thought he was wrestling for the championship of the world," Foster says, "or that I didn't like Russians, or had done something else terrible wrong. I have done a lot of amateur wrestling and I've done a lot of manuel labor and think—or thought—I could take care of myself. All I can say is that I'm glad that part of the picture's over."

"The Man Who Dared" was suggested by incidents in the life of Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago. Foster plays the title role, with Zita Johann and Irene Biller in the chief feminine parts.

Kiepura Signs For Films

Success of Kiepura, handsome Polish tenor, in Universal's "Be Mine Tonight," has earned a long term contract with Universal. Carl Laemmle, at Universal City, has just received a cable stating that Kiepura has accepted a seven year contract to sing in Universal pictures. He will arrive soon in Hollywood, coming from Berlin by way of the Panama Canal.

Kiepura will not be making his first visit to this country. During the final season of the Chicago Civic Opera in 1931 he was an artist with that organization, singing at eight performances in five weeks with the company. Still in his twenties, he is known as the "Peck's Bad Boy" of opera. Everywhere he has appeared, including LaScala in Milan and the Staats Opera in Vienna, he has left a record of eccentric behavior. He is a rollicking, fun-loving nature, given full play without thought of consequences.

Baxter Given Role of Carton

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—For months Hollywood actors have been fighting for the role of Sidney Carton in "A Tale of Two Cities." Well, it's all settled now. Warner Baxter gets the job.

This was the decision of the Fox bosses, along with the fact that the picture will be made at the Westwood studios, giving employment to thousands of Hollywood extras, rather than in England, as rumor had indicated.

Selection of Baxter for the Dickens hero gives him one of the acting plums of the year. It was as Sidney Carton, back in 1917, that William Farnum made his big film hit.

The new production will be one of the most elaborate on the Fox schedule. Studio officials are planning to surround Baxter with a cast on a par with that of "State Fair." Not since "Cavalcade" has there been a film calling for so many extras.

Mr. Baxter

According to present plans, the cameras will begin grinding in September. No director is set as yet, but who better than Frank Lloyd?

Since signing that three-year contract with Paramount, W. C. Fields has bought himself a long, shiny motor. The other day a friend of the comedian was marveling at its size.

"Yes," said Fields whimsically, "I've already discovered two stowaways and any minute I expect to catch some guy riding the rods."

Those boos that Parisians gave Maurice Chevalier for speaking English in a recent film are having their effect. Paramount has decided to make a French version of the star's new vehicle, "The Way to Love." As Sylvia Sidney doesn't speak the language well enough to repeat her role, Jacqueline Francelle is on her way here from Paris. They're even importing a French lyric writer.

Film Crew in Malay Has No Picnic

Tales of insects as big as a man's hand; black ants, that steal and carry away your lunch, and red ants, that drop by thousands from trees, and stick their pinchers in one's body, were brought back to Hollywood from the Malayan jungles by Miss Marion Burns, Kane Richmond and Harry Woods, the principals of the cast of "Man Eater," produced in the jungles of the Malayan Peninsula. They returned to Hollywood after almost seven months in the jungles.

Burns and Allen Find Mediums Alike

For the comedian dependent on spoken humor there is no difference between screen, stage, and radio, George Burns of Burns and Allen avers. All of the hard work comes beforehand in originating "gags." Burns and Gracie Allen went to Hollywood to work in "International House" and "College Humor."

Once the comedy is written, Burns said, the three mediums are equally easy, the only difference being that in vaudeville the "gags" can be repeated time after time, while on the screen and air each is used only once by the originators. "And once each time by the imitators," Burns said.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There will be a dress rehearsal of a signboard at 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. It will take place atop the marquee and across the front of the Stanley Theater, where a "living" signboard will be one of the features of the premiere of "Gold Diggers of 1933," Thursday night, as previously announced in this department. There'll be girls in the huge letters of the sign, the first of the kind ever exhibited here. Violins illumined by electrified neon will be played as part of the novel display, for which Seventh street, between Liberty and Penn, will be darkened.

In the first edition yesterday it was announced in this part of the Sun-Telegraph that William Powell would be the Warner star Friday in "Private Detective 62." In the following editions the caption of Powell's picture stated it would be shown later. Well later means Friday, after all, the Warner office having changed its mind twice on the subject.

"Perils of Pauline," without which no movie program was complete in the good old days, is to be made again. It is likely that only the title will be used in the modern version of the serial that helped to lift Pearl White to such a degree of affluence that she was able to say farewell to the screen years ago and take up her residence in Paris. Of course, there'll be a new "Pauline," but she has not yet been selected. The original picture, in which Miss White had a thrilling escape from some form of horrible death, at the beginning of each weekly chapter, only to find herself in a worse predicament at the "to-be-continued-next-week" time, even inspired a popular song, "Poor Pauline." When "Pauline" had run its course, Miss White starred in other serials, including "The Exploits of Elaine." She first appeared in western thrillers as a daring rider.

More and more established writers are being directly appealed to by Hollywood producers to submit original work for consideration as screen material. This is the result of a great decrease in the output of books and productions of the stage.

Jack Oakie, it is said, never goes to an opening or a preview of a picture in which he is featured . . . Frank Moran, Pittsburgh heavyweight boxer, playing a fight promoter in "Gambling Ship," is having his sixteenth movie role in six months . . . Richard Arlen aspires to be a director as well as actor, alternating between the two professions . . . Henry Garat used to make faces when the camerman asked him to pose for portraits, being cured when one was put in a street showcase . . . Chic Sale's coming picture, based on a railway story, will be called "Dangerous Crossings" . . . Walter Connolly will work through the summer in pictures and return to the stage in the fall.

Next Monday Francine Larrimore will be seen in New York at the head of the cast of a new play, "Shooting Star," said to be based on the life of the late Jeanne Eagels. Authorship is credited to Noel Pierce and Bernard Schoenfield.

A JUNE BRIDE AFTER ALL

AWAY with the old idea that you have to buy costly "complexion soaps" to keep your skin lovely! Tens of thousands of women have discovered that no other soap ever kept their complexions so fresh and radiant as Lifebuoy.

Its bland, creamy lather penetrates pores, gets out every speck of grimed-in dirt, leaves the skin exquisite. Pores are free to breathe; dullness gives place to glowing health.

Notice Lifebuoy's pleasant, hygienic scent that vanishes as you rinse. It tells you Lifebuoy lather purifies, banishes "B.O." (body odor), brings complexion beauty.

Dickens Fellowship Picnic For City's 'Tiny Tims' To Be Held Friday

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Children who are out patients at the Presbyterian, Allegheny General and Childrens' hospitals will be guests at the Dickens Fellowship's Tiny Tim picnic on Friday in Highland Park. Other guests will be from Chalfant House, Woods Run and Rankin settlements, the Christian Center and, of course, the Industrial Home for Crippled Children.

The young folks from the Industrial Home have been Tiny Tim guests for so many years that they feel the picnic almost belongs to them. Indeed, they are to put on a surprise program of entertainment this year.

Young Otto Austin, who is going in for amateur magic, will give part of the program, too, and then there will be games appropriately planned by Mrs. D. G. Fowler and Miss Lois Clifford for the girls and by J. G. Howard and L. C. Edgar for the boys. Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. F. W. Fairman are looking after supper arrangements.

As usual, the members will remain for their own picnic supper after the young guests have been taken home.

BUCS UNLIKELY TO GET NEW PITCHER

THE FAILURE OF Leon Chagnon to come through yesterday in his first start of the season, on top of the fact that all of the regular Pirate pitchers have fallen down so repeatedly that the records show them to have gone the distance only three times in the last 17 games, is likely to bring suggestions that something be done immediately to bolster the staff. The Buccaneer officials, with a greater yearning in that direction than anybody else, probably would welcome any information as to just how it might be brought about.

Leon Chagnon

Eight days remain for trades or purchases involving major league players, as the lid will not go down until midnight of June 15, but, though there is ample time for a dicker, any attempt by the Pirate management to obtain an experienced pitcher of the right caliber is unlikely to amount to more than wasted effort. For 15 other clubs in the majors also are looking for pitchers, not seeking to get rid of any, and even if another National League club had an over-supply it would hardly consent to strengthen a recognized pennant contender. Evidently, the Bucs will have to wait for the present staff to return to form and fight it out with what they've got.

PITTSBURGH HAS SEEN other Wagner Days in the past on the field, and during the off season it was long the custom to honor the Flying Dutchman annually on his birthday, but with the approach of the special event of that nature scheduled for Friday indications are strengthened that it will surpass any tribute ever paid to the one-time king of ball players.

In addition to the old-time diamond warriors who gladly consented to take part in the parade and put on a game as a feature of the big show, fans in all parts of the district have shown an eagerness to take a hand in welcoming Honus back to baseball after an absence of 15 seasons. Signs point to a bumper turnout and one of the biggest days with which any baseball figure ever was honored. Wagner's long absence from the game did not make the fans forget the brilliant career that established him as the greatest player of all time, nor become unmindful of the fact that he did more to advertise Pittsburgh and add to its fame than any other sports figure that ever represented the city.

THE FINE PITCHING of Owen Carroll for the Dodgers this season has not surprised Sidney Weil. The Red owner says he always knew Carroll to have the makings of a great pitcher in spite of his early failures, and regrets having let him get away.

Weil explains that the Reds simply had to get a real first baseman and more hitting power, and that he had to include Carroll in the deal for Jim Bottomley because the Cards would not give up Bottomley on any other terms. He says he tried to buy Carroll back later, but the Cards jacked up the price and he couldn't afford it.

DURING A DISCUSSION of pitchers who are good all-around ball players in addition to being stars in a mere hurling sense, George Gibson was asked for his opinion as to the best ball player among the National League slabmen. "That's a tough question to answer," replied the Pirate manager, "because something beyond pitching must be considered. Our league has more than one good ball player among the pitchers. Dizzy Dean, of the Cardinals, is one of them. He is a good pitcher, a good fielder, can hit, and is fast on the bases. Lonnie Warneke, of the Cubs, belongs on the list, and so does Burleigh Grimes, of the same club. Red Lucas, of the Reds, is another good man, when all-around ability is considered."

Harry Heilmann

THAT THE OLD boys hate to give up baseball even if they don't go to the minors after passing out of the big show, was shown again this week in the semi-pro debut of Harry Heilmann, four-time batting champion of the American League, whose final period of major league service was with the Cincinnati Reds.

Since he made his successful start before a big crowd, Harry has signed to finish the season with the Tool Shop Club in Class AAA of the Detroit Baseball Federation. The veteran probably will divide his playing between first base and right field, but he was signed chiefly for his hitting, as the club needed a punch.

HEILMANN is the second member of a famous hard-hitting Tiger outfield to perform among the Detroit semi-pros. One of his old slugging mates, Bobby Veach, played for the Regal Finance club in the same league in 1931 and 1932. That club did not enter this season and Veach hung up his glove.

Heilmann holds the distinction of having been the last .400 hitter in the American League. He made a mark of .403 in 1923, and no other batsman has reached .400 since in the junior circuit. The National League has had a .400 champion three times in the meanwhile. Rogers Hornsby batted .424 in 1924 and .403 in 1925, and Bill Terry wound up with .401 in 1930.

THE MOVEMENT TO bring New York University back into college rowing, recalls to veterans that that school once had a crew whose career was cut short through the superior coaching of a rival by Ned Hanlan, greatest sculler of all time and well-known to local rowing fans in the days of professional racing on the old Hulton course. It was in the spring of 1902, and N. Y. U.'s crew rowed only one race, being defeated by Hanlan's Columbia oarsmen by half a length over a course of a mile and a half. New York led by two lengths at the mile, but the crew had rowed itself out to gain the advantage, and Columbia's rowers, coached by Hanlan to conserve their strength, overtook and passed the Violet near the finish. New York then abandoned rowing and never has taken it up again since.

THE UNITED STATES tennis team has an even chance of winning the Davis Cup from the French this year, in the opinion of Bernon S. Prentice, chairman of the American cup committee. He rates Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and George Lott an experienced and hard-fighting group of men, and figures that if they play their best tennis the famous trophy should be regained.

"However, before the challenge round is gained, our players will be called on to do their best in the interzone final," Prentice adds. "No matter who their opponents may be, the Americans face a difficult task there. But I firmly believe they are capable of winning both there and in the challenge round. At least, they have an even chance."

CRITICIZED FOR DECLINING the offer of Bill Tilden to coach the American team abroad, Prentice gives a novel reason for the refusal. He says Big Bill for six months has been predicting an American defeat, and they could not have so pessimistic a person around.

Tilden's friends have a different idea as to why the proposal was rejected. They say that if Bill were permitted to coach the Davis Cuppers, and they should win, much of the credit naturally would go to Tilden, the pro, and that would be too hard a jolt for the powers guarding the amateur purity of the net sport. The amateur body is decidedly cool in its attitude toward the pros, who take checks instead of expense accounts.

Eddie Farrell

EDDIE FARRELL, famous track coach, lifts his voice in support of the movement against permitting schoolboy athletes to compete in one-mile and two-mile runs unless they have passed the age of 18. Farrell admits that there are exceptional cases where the risk is not great, and that a boy who has been properly trained might take part in a two-mile race with safety, even though he is under 18. But he is against the idea as a general thing, contending that lads under 18 are too young to be subjected to such exertion and might easily strain themselves. Farrell expresses the opinion that a half-mile race, or one of 1,000 yards at most, is long enough for most schoolboys, and he adds cross-country running to the list of events in which he thinks youngsters should not be permitted to take part.

BAER ARRIVES ON SCENE OF FRAY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 7.—One of the biggest sports crowds of the "tight money" era is expected to turn out tomorrow night to see Promoter Jack Dempsey's ring spectacle—the 15-round battle between Max Schmeling, of Germany, and Max Baer, of California.

The fight has "caught on." Out-of-town fans are flocking here; hotels are crowding up with visitors; the advance sale has perked up considerably and the "ballyhoo," led by the personable Mr. Dempsey himself, has gone over with a bang.

BIG 'GATE' SEEN

They say the "gate" will hit $250,000. Dempsey thinks maybe 300 grand. The advance sale today had reached the $150,000 mark, which is far ahead of the early sale of the Schmeling-Sharkey brawl of a year ago in Long Island City, when the German lost the title through a questionable decision. It may be the crowd will total from 60,000 to 70,000 persons.

Betting is moderately brisk, with Schmeling a 3-to-1 favorite. The bankrolls are being unlimbered, although no heavy wagers have been laid—yet. The Broadwayites seem to like Schmeling, the out-of-towners Baer.

NO RADIO BROADCAST

The principals, Schmeling and Baer, trained to a fine edge, have completed their six weeks' conditioning grind and will spend the next 24 hours resting for the fray. Neither will do anything more vigorous than light calisthenics and perhaps a little hiking. Baer arrived here today by automobile.

The fight will get under way at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time, and will not be broadcast by radio.

A swarm of workmen invaded the Yankee Stadium today to convert it into an arena by setting up the ring and placing the ringside seat sections.

BAER QUITS CAMP

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 7.—(AP.)—Max Baer, accompanied by his manager, Ancil Hoffman; his father, Jacob Baer, and his trainer, left at 8 a. m. (E. S. T.), today by automobile for New York City, where he will meet Max Schmeling in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Baer will remain in seclusion at a private residence until time

Goosby's Pilot Sees Dundee Bout As Just a Short, Short Story

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

An ambitious young short story writing student goes to war tomorrow night in the Arena on the North Side. He is Frankie Goosby, local Negro middleweight boxer, who has a better record than the amazing Ted Yarosz in that he never has been beaten in more than 80 bouts.

Behind the scenes will be Cherokee Tom Cox, his sagacious Negro handler, a former boxer of the halcyon days of Jack Johnson, Jim Flynn, et al. Although Vince Dundee, Goosby's opponent, is recognized as the uncrowned middleweight champion, there is no fear in the hearts of Tom and Frankie. Nor any doubt in their minds.

Cox is a developer of champions. He brought along Young Jack Thompson and Baby Joe Gans. The former won the welterweight championship and the latter just missed. Thompson defeated Joe Dundee, brother of Vince, and Gans fought Vince, and really beat him, according to Cox, although Vince received the decision. For several years now, Cox has been priming Goosby for the heights.

HANDS IN GOOD SHAPE

A well-wisher said to Cox last night:

"Better tell Frankie to get that gun off his shoulder. He generally forgets he has a right hand and it is his best punch."

Cox smiled and replied:

"Don't you worry about Frankie. This is the first time in a long while that he hasn't been bothered by bad hands. He has been saving his right against Joe Rugguzzoni and Cowboy Phelps and those other fellows. But he's right now. He'll outbox and outpunch Dundee. This will be a short, short story. You know, Frankie's been studying up on writing short stories. He wants to be an author. He'll write his masterpiece with gloves when he fights Dundee. We've been waiting for a long, long time to get into this spot, and now our worries are over."

The financial arrangements for this match make you believe the confidence of Cox and Goosby is genuine. They told Lew Raymond, the matchmaker, to get them an outstanding opponent, saying:

"Get us Ted Yarosz, or Dundee, or Lou Brouillard or anybody who means something and we'll fight him for training expenses."

FIGHTING FOR OPPORTUNITY

It is costing the club a guarantee of $1,250 for Dundee. Goosby is getting $75 for training expenses with a privilege of 50 per cent of the net after all obligations are met. The "nut" on the show is $2,170, a big gate in these times. If the shows draws $3,000, a record for the Arena, Goosby will get $415 in addition to his $75. If it hits $2,170 or less he gets nothing but his bare expenses, and there won't be any happy ending to his story unless he wins.

Dundee arrived in town today, accompanied by his manager, Max Waxman, who piloted Brother Joe Dundee to the world welterweight title over Pete Latzo and also had him knock out Mickey Walker wnen the latter was a welterweight. Both Dundee and Waxman will be heard during the weekly radio broadcast of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

HEYDLER HELPS WAGNER FUND

John L. Heydler, chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter, Baseball Writers' Association of America, today announced receipt of a personal check for $100 from John A. Heydler, president of the National League, to be added to the "Honus Wagner Day" fund.

The famous coach of the Pirates will be honored at Forbes Field Friday afternoon and at the Elks' lodge, Seventh street and Duquesne way, in the evening.

One of the largest parades ever held for an athlete will precede the ceremony at Forbes Field. A dozen bands, drum and bugle corps, various civic organizations and the Pittsburgh Umpires' Association will be included in the procession. Ben Marshall, assistant superintendent of police, announced today 18 mounted policemen will serve as escorts throughout the line of march to the park.

One of the features of the Forbes Field doings will be an Old-timers' game. Among the latest former stars to signify their intention of playing are Ed Morris and Frank Killen, both former pitchers of the Pittsburgh club.

Bobby Jones to Cover National Open Tourney

Bobby Jones, the erstwhile Emperor of Golf, will report the National Open golf tournament at Glenview, Ill., for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PITT ATHLETES GIVEN THEIR DEGREES

By JESS CARVER

Fourteen lads who helped make athletic history at Pitt, including two all-America footballers, received their degrees at the annual university commencement exercises today and for 19 other Panther athletes the day will mark the close of their varsity careers.

Heading the list of those getting degrees are Warren Heller, great all-America halfback of the 1932 Panther eleven, and Jess Quatse, who was an all-America tackle in 1931. Quatse becomes Dr. Quatse after today, having completed his dental course. Heller will graduate from the school of physical education and teaching.

Others to get degrees today include:

Those completing their varsity careers, but who have further academic work to finish, classified by sports, follow:

Football—Rocco Cutri, Francis Seigel, Joe Tormey, Ted Dailey, Paul Reider, Paul Cuba, George Shindehutte and Art Sekay.
Basketball—Don Smith and Rocci Cutri.
Boxing—Harry Conti and Francis Seigel.
Golf—Art Sekay.
Swimming—Raymond Cogswell.
Cross Country—George Kerr and John Clise.

Miss Ann Farrell has set Friday, June 16, as the date for her wedding with Paul Reider, who captained the Pitt footballers last fall. The ceremony will take place in the Holy Rosary Church, Kelly street and Lang avenue.

New York University will award two Pittsburgh district athletes, Joe LaMark, of Coraopolis, and Ernie Vavra, of Universal, degrees at the university's annual commencement tonight. Both will receive degrees of bachelor of commercial science in business administration.

CHAGNON LOSES IN STARTING ROLE, 5-3

CHICAGO, June 7. — George Gibson and his Pittsburgh Pirates may be going through the most significant part of their entire summer's schedule in the 10-day period which started just before Memorial Day. Two full games away from the league-leading Giants today, the Buccaneers were quite amazed to discover they had been beaten nine times in their last 12 engagements. But perhaps the whole development is a blessing in disguise.

The question now has simmered down to this:

"Can the Pirates 'take it?'"

In other words, are the Buccos the sort of a team that can meet adversity face to face and come off with a premium?

TRIPLE BREAKDOWN

The temporary breakdown of the Pirates was due to three principal causes, a bad letup in the pitching department, an unexpected slump on the part of Outfielder Fred Lindstrom, and some very loose fielding by Shortstop Floyd Vaughan.

The Buccos had to taste of a salty defeat at Wrigley Field yesterday. They were out in front with a two-run lead as late as the eighth, but Leon Chagnon, who was quite brilliant up to the eighth, weakened, and the Bears clawed their way to a 5-to-3 success.

CUBS STAGE RALLY

Chagnon was making his first start of the season and he drew Charley Root as an opponent. Fred Lindstrom was back in the game and in his first trip to the plate he connected for a double and then rode over with Gus Suhr when Gus hit a homer into the stands. The Cubs bunched three hits to make a run in the third when Chagnon showed some rare pitching.

There was no scoring from the third to the seventh when Lindstrom singled with two out to score Arky Vaughan.

One was out in the home half of the eighth before Stephenson and Demaree singled. A force play made it two away, but Hartnett and Koenig came through with hits to force a deadlock. P. Waner's throw to the plate allowed runners to reach third and second. Swetonic replaced Chagnon, but Steve was nicked by Hendrick for a double that produced the winning runs.

NET PLAYOFFS ON TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Playoffs of important Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League contests, washed out by opening day rains on May 27, grace the mid-week racquet bill this evening. Dr. Dave O'Loughlin's champion P. A. A. array entertains Bob Lampus and his Shannopin crew and in the other session, Rockwood invades Edgewood. Both frays are booked to run over till tomorrow.

Meanwhile Chairman George Henderson, of the special pre-West Penn tourney get-together at Stanton Heights next Sunday reports gratification at early evidence of interest in the event. The event is not an invitation affair and all net devotees of the district are welcome to attend. Entries are to be filed in care of the Stanton Heights Golf Club not later than Friday.

Invitations for the forty-fifth annual Western Pennsylvania championships were in the mail yesterday, according to Tournament Chairman Frank S. Smith. Though names have not yet been turned in for hostilities in any great profusion, it is pretty certain that B. F. Arkle, Wheeling star, will return to defend the David I. McCahill Cup.

Howard Moore and Lawrence Blair, College avenue pair, trimmed Watson and Carl, of Westinghouse, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, in a P. T. A. Inter-club Loop Division II playoff joust last evening. The skirmish completed the postponed College Avenue Seconds-Westinghouse Seconds fracas, started last Sunday, the latter outfit winning 7-2. Another engagement beheld the Duke Alumni squad nose out Capt. Frank Casey's Varsity contenders, 6-4, as sport feature of the Hill old-timers' celebration on the Bluff.

Haddock Referee Of A. M. A. Meet

W. S. Haddock will e the referee of the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior track and field championship meet at the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon, while John T. Taylor will act as starter.

Councilman Harry Little will be one of the judges at the finish, and, in all, there will be 40 officials to make certain the event goes off without a hitch.

JOCKEY THROWN, HURT

SKEET EVENTS SET

The first skeet shooting events of the season will be staged by the Homestead Park Rod and Gun Club Friday and Saturday on its new range. The events are open to all amateurs.

STORMY BASEBALL INVADES NATIONAL LOOP

CARDS DEFEAT REDS IN WILD CONTEST

Associated Press.

The stormy scenes of this year's "aggressive" baseball, hitherto monopolized by the New York Yankees and Washington Senators, have reached the National League as an accompaniment to the St. Louis Cardinals' drive toward the top.

Some stiff resistance by the Cincinnati Reds, plus the "riding" of one player by a former teammate, led the Cards into an embroglio yesterday that approached the best of the Senator-Yankee scraps.

The actual fighting was confined to a brief flurry between Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, of the Cards, and Paul Derringer, of the Reds, during batting practice, but before the game was over disputed decisions led to the ejection of two men, two pop bottles were tossed from the stands, one hitting Burgess Whitehead, Card sub, on the shoulder, and private police provided an escort from the park for the umpires.

CARDS HIT HARD

The Cards won the game, 6-2, pounding out 16 hits while Bill Hallahan and Sylvester Johnson limited the Reds to four, and remained only five points behind the League-leading New York Giants.

Derringer, traded by the Cards this spring, explained that Dean had been "riding the life" out of him and that the fight started when Dizzy said he meant every word he had said about Derringer. The big Cincinnati pitcher then uncorked a right-hand swing that may or may not have landed on Dean's eye, depending upon who tells the story.

Except for the ejection of George Watkins, of St. Louis, over a protested decision in the fifth, things were quiet until the ninth when Jewel Ens, Cincinnati's acting manager, was chased for another protest. Then the bottle throwing and noisy objections to the officiating began.

The Giants held their slim lead by battering the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-2. The Pittsburgh Pirates dropped their sixth decision in seven games when Leon Chagnon gave the Chicago Cubs four runs in the eighth and a 5-3 victory. The Phillies and Boston had an open date.

BABE HITS NO. 11

The Philadelphia Athletics climbed back into the first division with an 8-4 triumph over Washington.

Herb Pennock gave 11 hits, but pitched a shutout and Babe Ruth took the major league home run lead with his eleventh as the Yankees strengthened their hold on first place with a double victory over the Boston Redsox, 4-0 and 8-4.

Chicago's White Sox hammered out another decision over the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, and Cleveland fell into fifth place when the Indians surrendered to Schoolboy Rowe and Detroit, 5-2.

Believe It Or Not — By Ripley

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE QUEEN OF 321 HUSBANDS — Taitou, "the light of Ethiopia", embarked on her extraordinary marital career in 1863, when she was only 12 years old, by marrying her employer, a barefoot regimental water carrier. Early adopting the motto of promotion through marriage, she tripped to the altar, with ever-increasing frequency, rising in social importance with each succeeding venture. In the one year (1882) preceding her meeting with the Emperor, she married in quick succession two generals, a governor and the Emperor's brother-in-law. After having passed in marriage almost every rank in the civil and military hierarchy of her country, she finally crowned her life's work by marrying her sovereign, the Emperor Menelik, who was her three-hundred-twenty-first husband, and with whom she was subsequently associated in power for 20 years. Her formula for success was to marry "a little chief, then a bigger one and one still bigger." She wielded great power in the affairs of the country and was deposed in 910 by the Shoan Rases (council of chieftains).

Whitaker at Union Printers.

This week finds all of the big mushball tournaments swinging into action. Tomorrow night Honus Wagner personally will launch the tri-state mushball championship with a meeting at 709 Liberty avenue, called for 8 o'clock. The tourney will take in teams in Butler, Tarentum, McKeesport, Steubenville and other centers.

The Western Pennsylvania mushball championship already is under way. Fayette and Washington counties are very much in the limelight in the event. The tournament director states that only 10 days will be given the teams to get their first round games out of the way.

One game is slated in the City League this evening, the J. L. Thomas nine, of Bloomfield, clashing with Dormont.

The Pittsburgh Crawfords will open their first series with the Cuban Giants this evening at Greenlee Field. The game will be called at 6:30 o'clock.

Freeman Seeks K. O. Over Alabama

Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion of the world, will be gunning for a knockout victory when he meets the Alabama Kid, Negro middleweight, of Dover, O., in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night. He wants to beat the Kid decisively so he can force his demand for a return bout with Ted Yarosz, who recently defeated him only after a close and hard-fought engagement in the same ring.

Church to Stage Amateur Battles

Six amateur bouts will be staged this evening in the St. Mary of the Mount auditorium. Other entertainment also is scheduled. The card:

KENNEDY VICTOR

NEWARK, N. J., June 7.—(AP.)—Stanley Poreda, of Jersey City, leading New Jersey heavyweight, was knocked out last night in the last round of the 10-round feature bout at Dreamland Park by Les Kennedy, Pacific Coast fighter. Kennedy weighed 193½, and Poreda, 207.

REUNION

Heartless miles—they separate families; throw up barriers between proven friends. You have loved ones, no doubt, across the state . . . in distant cities . . . beyond the seas. Span the miles—reach them by telephone! Hear their laughter. Share the news. The joy of reunion is yours for the asking. And for added satisfaction, the cost of out-of-town telephone service is remarkably low.

For the lowest cost, telephone after 8:30 P.M. Standard Time. Rates on Station to Station calls are then reduced about 40%. At night for 35 cents you can telephone anywhere within 100 miles!

New R-D-R process insures FRESHNESS in Gulf

Be sure the gas you buy is fresh. Get Gulf Gas—it's always fresh. Gulf's high-speed delivery system rushes fresh Gulf Gas to the pumps. And that gas stays fresh longer, due to Gulf's exclusive R-D-R process—a process that actually delays deterioration.

No matter whether you buy Gulf gas at a refinery or at a distant cross-road . . . that R-D-R process insures you're getting FRESH gas—gas that gives you more power—more mileage! Try a tankful today! It costs no more!

"WHEN A RUBBER BAND GETS OLD," says the Chemical Engineer, "it loses its liveliness. Something's gone out of it. The same thing happens to gas. As gas gets old the highly volatile 'light ends' evaporate. The gas gets sluggish, weak." . . . . So it pays to use only FRESH Gulf gas.

GULF

5 important facts about fresh Gulf gas

On the basis of months of experiments made independently by a famous Chemical Laboratory, Gulf offers these findings to motorists:

Fresh Gas starts faster than stale gas.

23 MILES TO EMPLOYMENT

Fresh Gas gives you more mileage.

LOCAL GOLFERS ON EDGE FOR OPEN—ELDRED

PARKS, INJURED IN ACCIDENT, OUT OF PLAY

By VINCENT ELDRED

Highland Country Club Pro and Pennsylvania State Open Champion. (Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

CHICAGO, June 7.—With the 1933 National Open championship tournament due to get under way over the North Shore Golf Club links at Glenview, near here, tomorrow, the Pittsburgh district entrants planned to complete their training for the event with a practice round or two today.

I played with Emil Loeffler, Pete O'Hara and Knox Young yesterday morning, and Perry Del Vecchio joined the crowd in the afternoon. All of us, especially Perry, and Young, were hitting the ball well, Perry had a 71, one under par, low score for the Pittsburgh contingent. The boys seemed to be content with testing their shots, and all of the rounds were experimental.

RUNYAN FAVORIE

Young and I played against Johnny Rodgers, of Denver, former Pittsburgh pro, and Craig Wood. We won, 1 up. Knox is playing well, and I feel that he will score well when the tourney opens.

I had quite a talk with Gene Sarazen yesterday morning. Gene thinks that 286 will win the title. You have to play the many narrow fairways and the bent-grass greens are slow, my guess is that of 291 will win.

Most of the stars assembled for the event rate the course easy. The heat is a handicap right now, and takes plenty out of one, and if the wind blows from the lake, scores are going to mount. The greens are not trapped as tight as those at Fresh Meadow, and Sarazen claims that Fresh Meadow calls for better shots. I personally believe that this layout is made for Sarazen's game.

YOUNG-ELDRED WIN

Many of the wise birds are picking Paul Runyan to win, but I feel that Sarazen and Tommy Armour will be close. Bookmakers have lots of money that Mac Smith will beat Sarazen. Mac shot a 69 yesterday, the low warm-up score.

A number of observers have been talking of Charley Manning's game. The Shannopin boy is hitting terrific shots from the tee.

I just learned of the automobile accident which sent Sam Parks to the hospital in Columbus, Wis., ruining his chances of competing in the tournament. The course is suited for Parks' style of golf and I feel certain that he would have finished among the low scorers. According to reports I received, Parks' car skidded and plunged over a 15-foot embankment. A companion, whose identity was not learned, escaped injury.

N. Y. WARMS UP TO BATTLE

'WILL WIN'—SCHMELING

LAKE SWANNANOA, N. J., June 7.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling doesn't know just what kind of a fight he is going to make against Max Baer in New York tomorow night except that it will be "a winning one."

He said today before leaving for New York:

"I don't know how I'm going to fight Baer. I'll figure him out after the first two minutes of fighting. They said he's going to make a rushing fight of it. Well, that's all right with me. I'll win no matter what kind of a fight it is."

Schmeling ended his training yesterday with an easy workout. He boxed two rounds with Tommy De Stefano and two more with Lou Barba. He never extended himself at any time. He weighed 190 pounds after his rubdown.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—I am getting ready to eat my harsh words about the experts.

Nick Altrock

Last spring they said the A. L. race would be amongst the Yanks, our Washington club and the A's. So when the Clevelands and Chicagos invaded the first division like the Japs overran Manchuria I chewed a bale of hay and gave the scribes a horse laugh.

Well, right now the league is having an economic readjustment or something and the crystal gazers of the fourth estate are as right as One-Eye Connolly's good optic. I don't say Cleveland and Chicago have been sifted out of the running, but they are closer to the ash barrel than they were.

The experteers also picked the Red Sox for the cellar. But you don't need second sight for that one. In fact, you could dope that out blind. But for the present the boys have called things right. So I take my hat off to them—and that's the first time I've been bareheaded in their honor since 1906.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

Quite apart from the question of pure mechanical skill, there is in golf another factor of great importance in winning matches and making scores. This factor is the ability of the player to hang his shots one upon the other so that they will make the longest chain. Naturally, a succession of bad shots will not do as much as a like number of good ones, but it is a fact that two players of equal mechanical skill will succeed in proportion as they conceive and play out the hole or the course in its entirety; and the player who forgets the relation of each shot to the succeeding one is likely to lose his chance to complete a creditable picture.

Nowhere can it be of greater value than on the tee to bring forward the conception of a hole to be played as a result to be accomplished by a succession of related efforts. The average golfer, and by this I mean the average person playing golf, regardless of his skill, is beset by a desire to "kill" the ball off every tee. "Slugging," pressing, or something akin to it is generally recognized as a common fault, because so many of us want length at any cost. For some reason, we refuse to weigh the advantage to be gained by a few extra yards against the punishment which may be visited upon us by errors occasioned by the extraordinary effort.

Bobby Jones

ANALYZE SITUATION

The good pros and better amateurs hit the ball hard, of course. They could not drive so far if they did not. And sometimes they swing as hard as they can. Yet, even though these men are able to approach closer to their limit than a less capable player would be, there comes a point when the danger of error outweighs the possibilities of slugging, even granting that the shot will be well hit.

The mental side of golf has been stressed in its relation to taut muscles and hurried backswings. But the mental side has further possibilities in this angle of intelligent planning. When a player steps upon a tee—any tee and every tee—he should ask himself a few questions. First, "How many shots of normal length ought I need to reach this green?" Second, "What sort of shot, or of what length, ought the last one be?" Then, "Can I save a shot, or make the last one appreciably easier, by slugging?"

In almost every case, if a fair analysis is made, the answer to the last question will be a negative, without regard to whether the answer to the first was two, three, four or five. The difference between a well-hit drive from a comfortable swing and one that is hit really hard and well is rarely as great as expected and more often the ball that is "killed" is shorter, even if straight, because it is mishit.

CHOICE OF IRONS

I never have found that I could appraise the difference in the results which I might expect from iron clubs only one number apart. In other words, I am in possession of no exclusive evidence that I can get closer to the hole, on the average, with a 6 than with a 5, or with a 3 than with a 2. Thus I am unwilling to risk very much in the way of accuracy off the tee in order to step down one number for the second shot.

It is only on those comparatively rare occasions when the possibility looms of being able to save a whole stroke by really socking a tee shot that the prospect appears attractive. This happens for me on those border line holes when a few extra yards on both drive and second shot might fetch the green in two. If the hole can be reached easily in two or not possibly in that number, why take the chance?

I believe that any player can be benefited by working out his plan before he strikes off the tee. Let him play his shots one at a time insofar as concerns his concentration upon the execution of the stroke, but by all means let him remember that what he wants goes beyond the drive. He wants to play the HOLE correctly.

TRINITY FACES EDGEWOOD FOR SCHOOL TITLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

The baseball championship of the W. P. I. A. L. will be up for settlement at Forbes Field this evening when Trinity High, of Washington, clashes with Edgewood High. The game will get under way at 6 o'clock.

A fathers' and sons' tennis tournament will be staged at Arnold School next Monday in conjunction with the annual baseball game and track carnival between the alumni and varsity teams.

In yesterday's City League engagement, Schenley lost to Westinghouse and Latimer defeated Gladstone in the first game of the playoff series for the junior high school championship, 16 to 10.

Woodill, Westinghouse's track and field and baseball star, turned in a no-hit performance as the Silver Lakers beat the Bellefielders, 3 to 2, in seven innings. Poor support cost Woodill a shutout.

Latimer slugged out six runs in the seventh inning to beat Gladstone.

Turtle Creek Union High School's golf team, which lost to Kiski in the match for the Interscholastic Golf Conference crown, defeated Peabody, the city section champions, 15 to 3, yesterday to clinch the runner-up honors in the Conference for the season.

Rogers School will defend the grade school eighth-grade track and field championship at Schenley High field tomorrow.

Fight Results

At Newark—Les Kennedy knocked out Stanley Poreda, 10 rounds; Freddie Polo knocked out Bucky Lawless, 10 rounds; Lou Halper and Jimmy Phillips drew, 4 rounds; Six Seconds Powell knocked out Tony Lambert, 4 rounds.

At Leiperville, Pa.—Billy Ketchel defeated Vincent Forgione, 10 rounds; Vince Venore knocked out Sammy Walker, 2 rounds; Billy Collins and Wally Novak drew, 6 rounds; Lew Searles and Sol Burdo drew, 6 rounds; Dominick Varrone defeated Eddie Devine, 4 rounds.

BOWLERS TO MEET

An important meeting of the lawn bowling enthusiasts of the district is scheduled for 8 o'clock this evening on the Schenley Park bowling green. George Munro will be in charge and he invites all persons interested in the sport to attend.

SHARON RACE CARDED

SHARON, Pa., June 7.—More than 20 drivers are expected in the field for the three 10-mile dashes and the 50-mile feature automobile race to be held at Sharon Speedway Sunday.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Dave Roberts, of the Hill, is sighing for the good old days in local sandlot baseball when they didn't have so many makeshift teams in mediocre leagues, but, instead, boasted a wealth of strong independent teams with followings, such as the J. J. Elmores, J. F. Malones, J. J. Deans and Finklehors, all of which he managed; Mike Kelly's P. J. Sullivans, the Pittsburgh Collegians, Homestead Grays, Grayber All-Stars, Bradley Eagles, Beltzhoover, McKinleys, Bellevue, Harmarville Consumers, Ed Harvey's Beaver Falls Elks, New Kensington Aluminum, Allegheny Steel, Jack Friel's Natrona Club, the Westinghouse Munitions, managed by Charley Kolb; Homewood-Brushton, North Braddock Firemen, W. L. Reineckers, W. L. Turners, Tri-Boro All-Stars, Paddy Carr's Amoridge team, featuring Steve Swetonic's brothers, and others of that ilk, and the old independent circuit, which included such strong teams for the locals to meet as the Massillon Agathons, Franklin, Oil City, Meadville, Brookville, Youngstown McElroys and Jamestown.

Roberts, who started out managing teams 23 years ago, says the trouble with sandlot baseball is that it has lost its old appeal because of the new order of things and thinks it can be brought back only by the application of the oldtime methods of management . . . Incidentally, he tells a humorous story of how the first team he managed got its name . . . It was known as the Ordeale Club . . . Dave and a couple of his kid pals were casting about for a name when they walked down Fifth avenue one day and saw a movie advertising poster of a picture called "A Woman's Ordeal." . . . They tacked a final "e" on Ordeal and they were all set.

In a storage yard in Columbus, O., the other day they discovered a discarded tablet, minus its cement foundation, which had been erected at the old mile track there to the memory of the late Ed (Pop) Geers, veteran harness racing driver, who was killed in an accident at the Wheeling (W. Va.) track in 1924 . . . When the Columbus track was sold it was stipulated that the tablet should remain in its place . . . However, it was removed and lost . . . Now it is to be replaced in its original location through the efforts of friends of the veteran reinsman . . . The tablet was provided by public subscription, but, alas, how short is the memory of man!

Max Baer believes he has found himself after his erratic early career and should bowl along under his present momentum to a decisive victory over Max Schmeling in their bout in New York tomorrow night . . . He has won seven of his last 11 fights by knockouts and hasn't been beaten for two years . . . But in meeting Schmeling he will be facing one of the most consistent winning boxers among the big fellows, a man ripe in experience and superlative skill, endurance and resiliency to a punch.

Familiar old names creep into the football news of the day with Glenn Killinger, Penn State All-America back of a dozen years ago, signing to coach at Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Howard Berry, All-America fullback at Penn in 1915, '16 and '17, named to a similar post at Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa.—HARRY KECK.

ANNUAL GROGAN CUP BATTLE UNDER WAY

By TOM BIRKS

The first half of the annual battle for the Grogan Cup, between golfers from the Shannopin and Highland country clubs, topped today's local links program. The Grogan trophy contenders were meeting over the Shannopin course, on Ben Avon Heights.

The second half of the match will be played at Highland later in the season.

At the St. Clair Country Club the Pitt Alumni Association was holding its annual golf and bridge tourney. Jock Sutherland and a number of Pitt notables were scheduled to compete.

Under the able guidance of Jimmy Devlin, Nemacilon was observing Stag Day.

Tomorrow the women's team matches in both sections will be resumed. Section I swings into action at Allegheny Country Club and Section II at Youghiogheny.

In the women's one-day tourney at Longue Vue yesterday Mrs. L. K. Friedman, of Westmoreland, and Miss Mary Kuhn, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, tied for low gross with 94s.

AUDIT NOTICE

All parties interested are hereby notified that an audit list will be made up of all the foregoing accounts and said list will be called on Monday, the 18th day of September, A. D. 1933, at 9:30 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and continue thereafter each day (Saturday and Sundays excepted) until the list shall have been disposed of.

JOSEPH N. MACKRELL,

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 2nd, 1933. Register and Ex-Officio Clerk of Orphans' Court.

PROFIT-TAKING FAILS TO STEM STOCK RISE

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Stocks shifted about uncertainly today, absorbing large volumes of profit-taking fairly well, but failing, on the whole to add very much to their recent gains.

More shares apparently paid little attention to the inflationary implications of a further sharp advance in foreign exchanges, some of which reached new highs for the past year or more. Commodities were a bit irregular. Wheat and cotton showed some improvement, but corn was easier. Bar silver stepped forward briskly for a gain of ½ cent at 35¾ cents an ounce. Copper was steady and bonds maintained a steady to firm trend.

Some of the low priced shares came in for some heavy trading, with gains of fractions to around a point, while several of the recent favorites were inclined to lag. A huge amount of Radio common was turned over at an advance of about a point.

Carriers generally were a trifle unsettled by the Rock Island's petition in the Federal Court as a preliminary action to readjustment of its capital structure. Rock Island common lost about 1½ and the preferred shares were off around ½ point.

Announcement of the Treasury's new financing for June 15 was about in line with banking expectations. The offering of $500,000,000 of five-year 2⅞ per cent notes and $400,000,000 in nine-month ¾ per cent certificates carried rates that were considered somewhat of a compromise between the highs and lows of recent issues. What finaancial cycles principally would like to know is just when the Treasury will begin the long-talked of refunding of the Liberty Fourth 4¼s, of which more than $6,000,000,000 are now outstanding.

Some ultra-cautious market observers, in hanging out mild warning signal of a decimcal reaction in stocks, point to the unusually swift pace at which the market has been traveling in the past month. On the first of this month shares listed on the stock exchange had a market value of $32,473,061,395 compared with a value of $26,815,110,054 on May 1, or an advance of 21.1 per cent. The average price of a share is now about $25.10 compared with $20.73 on the first of last month and $15.41 on April 1.

WHEAT PRICES RISE AGAIN

CHICAGO, June 7.—Wheat prices averaged higher early today. Bulls contended that no change in weather conditions could improve winter wheat prospects. Opening unchanged to ⅜ higher, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started at ¼ decline to ⅛ advance, and subsequently sagged all around.

Wheat later rose to about a cent a bushel over yesterday's finish. Some selling of wheat resulted from transient weakness of corn prices, but commission house demand for wheat broadened quickly on dips in values. Corn and oats rallied with wheat, despite speculative pressure on corn.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to hog market declines.

CONTROL BILL FOGS STEEL

NEW YORK, June 7.—Iron Age says:

Pending industrial control legislation at Washington overshadows all other considerations in the iron and steel market. Uncertainty as to the exact form in which the act will be passed and the manner in which its provisions will be enforced has made future operating cost an unknown quantity.

Sensing that higher prices are a certainty, many consumers, among them some of the largest in the country, have attempted to cover their steel requirements through the third quarter. But they have encountered a general reluctance to sell; in fact, certain mills have fixed July 1 as the deadline for orders at present prices.

Current indices of production and demand are still pointing upward. Ingot output has risen 41 per cent to 44 per cent of capacity, continuing the advance which was so pronounced throughout May. At Pittsburgh the operating rate rose from 28 to 32 per cent.

Scrap, which is always a sensitive barometer, again shows signs of increasing strength, with advances reported at Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit.

Forbes Sees Higher Price Levels Ahead

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHERE ARE stock prices likely to be six months, 12 months, 18 months hence?

UNLESS Washington prevents, the whole country should be on a better, higher basis.

B. C. Forbes

THE VAST majority of securities are still at subnormal levels, although this simple fact has been beclouded by the spectacular rebound during the last three months.

Now, very few people fear that conditions will relapse or collapse to their previous dreadful depths. The general belief is that the revival does not represent only one more false start. Rather is it the expectation that we have left the 1929-33 depression behind and have started to climb back toward rational prosperity.

AN EXTRAORDINARY number of stocks which pay substantial dividends during good times are today either ex-dividend or are disbursing extremely little to investors. Expansion in production and improvement in prices are already sufficient to bring within sight more generous treatment for many stockholders.

Despite the sharp rise already enjoyed from the worst of the panic quotations, most standard stocks are still selling at figures which would yield very big returns were normal dividend payments restored.

What, therefore, may logically be looked for when and if the daily news begins to feature announcements of resumed dividends, dividend increases, the payment of arrears on cumulative stocks, such as U. S. Steel preferred?

Business would not have to become so very much better than it is already, at a season when quiet is customary, in order to justify not a few directorates in taking more liberal dividend action. If all goes well, dividend declarations should cheer stockholders and sentiment before the year ends.

MEANWHILE, continuance of the advance in second-grade bonds would be natural. Scores, even hundreds—one could say the majority—of such securities sank to bankruptcy prices—yes, to quotations which would have been absurdly low even had receiverships occurred.

Instead of receiverships, the financial world now contemplates recovery.

Consequently, if things go right, a very large number of bonds which sold at one-third or less of their face value should more than double in price, while many issues which went below 50 should work their way back to between 75 and par.

SIMILARLY, nearly every agricultural product and raw material is still worth far less than might be called normal or average prices. The products of our farms, even after their spirited recovery, are still relatively low. And what of steel, copper, rubber, oil, sugar and the like?

Moreover, most finished products were hammered down to abnormally low prices in the free-for-all to attract orders. Here, also, there is room for and likelihood of substantial price recoveries, especially as inventories were allowed to dwindle unprecedentedly.

OF COURSE, an uninterrupted rise in stocks or bonds or commodities or materials should not be counted upon. Such a movement would neither be natural nor healthy. Spectacular spurts commonly are followed by sharp reactions.

But, taking the longer view, and without figuring on wild, artificial inflation, it is more sensible to look for better business and better prices, rather than poorer business and poorer prices, six months, 12 months, 18 months hence.

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XIX.

We waited for an hour. At last a motor arrived at the door, bringing the rest of the bridal party, and the bride stepped in from the torrent outside, not too much the worse for wear. At a signal from the missioner's wife 30 resonant, high-pitched voices took up, in their native dialect, an ancient hymn. South Pacific voices have a curious timbre, penetrating and cutting silence keenly, blending superbly into harmonies.

There was never a stranger wedding march than that chorus provided, with its obligato of flickering hurricane lamps and beating of tropical rain. Hank, sweltering near the candles, his white mess-jacket soaked with perspiration, and his unaccustomed collar a limp rag, registered more comic relief than tender passion as his bride stepped down the palm-strewn path to meet him.

The missionary felt impressive, although he reached just short of Hank's shoulder. He began, "Dearly beloved" . . . and we all heaved a sigh of relief, for the heat and kanaka odor were fast becoming intolerable. The service went smoothly until the missioner asked Daphne if she took this man to be her lawful wife, to which strange question she gave no answer. No one prompted him, and there was an embarrassed silence. Then he asked the proper question, and all was well. The knot was tied. We were ready to make as quick an exit as possible, when without warning the little missionary launched forth on an exhortation to the wedded pair. He resorted to some ancient passages of the Bible that none of us had ever heard of. He would probably never get another chance like this to hold the floor among white men, so he made the best of it.

CELEBRATION BEGINS

The tropical storm was over. Back at the bungalow all was set for the wedding feast. The wedding had done more than unite two moon-struck lovers, it had brought the entire white population of Kaewieng out of their listless haunts, creating a conviviality that lasted as long as I was there to observe it, and doubtless much longer.

Champagne corks were popping; the gramaphone was grinding out hits from American musical comedies; tipsiness was beginning to show itself among the men.

At length, footsore, I sank down in a big wicker chair, next to an old man who was watching the goings-on with much interest. He leaned over to me—he was a little the worse for a mixture of beer and champagne—and volunteered, "I'm Cap'n Corlie, ma'am." I forgot my fatigue, for here was a redoubtable South Pacific worthy. He looked his weather-beaten seventy-two. I heard how he had got wind, on his remote island plantation, that Daphne was to be married, and he being a one-time associate of her old man had decided to come into Kaewieng to the wedding. Corlie hadn't been off his island for ten years. Schooners or the battered little Durour took him his supplies.

Cap'n Corlie, once a blackbirder and pearl trader, had retired from the white man's world to Melanesia. He hadn't owned a coat or a pair of shoes for these many years. But he had come over in his pinnace and put himself in the hands of the bloods af Kaewieng, who were to turn him out properly for the event. They had loaned him what could not be otherwise supplied. A celluloid collar encased his rebelling old neck, fronted by a red bow-tie on an elastic. With duck-trousers, a yellow store-coat, and a coarse white shirt completed the main part of his attire; but on his poor, resisting feet were patent leather "court shoes" (dancing pumps) and white cotton socks. And he was immensely proud of himself!

I wanted to yarn with Corlie, for he was a rare find in Kaewieng, but the time wasn't right; he was upset by the unwonted gaiety, and foggy with liquor. He would try to talk, eager to recall the old days; and then the poor old brain would cloud, and some one would hand him another glass.

But alas for Cap'n Corlie; Not feeling very well, he wandered off the veranda, and apparently lost himself among the shrubbery and the maze of concrete piles on which the bungalow was built. After tacking around underneath the house for a bit, he anchored on the ground beneath the railing, sitting miserably with his head in his bony hands.

LEAVES FRIENDS

A week later, the Montoro, the alternate island steamer out of Sydney, pulled into Kaewieng's harbor. With real regret I said goodbye to Nance. She was having a bad time because of fever; Dan was getting thoroughly fed up with South Pacific existence, and yet was becoming rapidly unfitted for any other life. I can see the frail girl—girl still, though aging pitifully in the grip of the tropics—I can see her leaning over the figure of Dan down with malaria, bathing his head gently, while he shook with ague. She was happy because he was helpless and in need of her, and because he was grateful for her ministrations.

The Montoro was full, for she was stopping at Salamaua Beach, and, as ever, men were being lured there from many parts of the world by the potent lure of Gold. It was good to get among these restless adventurers again. They were jolly and noisy, and they feared nothing, believed in nothing. They came from all strata of society; among them were college graduates and younger sons of distinguished British families. But most of them were roamers whom life could never hold in one place for long; failures, perhaps, economically, whose loves, nevertheless, knew no walls. Ninety per cent of them would find failure—they realized that—but a few might strike it rich. Each had hoped to be one of the few.

TIRED OF BEAUTY

We left Kaewieng at sunset. Despite its great wealth of physical beauty, I left it without regret. I had felt caught in a net of a terribly monotonous loveliness there, which, instead of bringing harmony and strengh of soul and mind, brought a devastating lonliness and mental listlessness. For once in my life I was sick of beauty. I had begun to find the rotten core of the seemingly delectable fruit. What I wanted was to find the New Guinea that was unspoiled by the touch of the white race.

When I took the Montoro I didn't know just where I was going; to be going anywhere at all was enough for me at the moment. I could get off where I liked. Marx of Rabaul had given me a letter to his friend Charlie Meister, who had a plantation at Manus, in the Admiralty Islands, but I rather thought I should go on to Madang, on the coast of the mainland of New Guinea.

The Admiralty Islands lie a few degrees south of the equator, a scattered, jungle-grown group dominated by the large island of Manus. There, at Seeadlerhafen, lie three tiny trading stations, concentration stations for copra. They are Lorengau, Mokareng, and Lumbrum. From the ship no clearing in the dense jungle is noticeable at all, for the island steamer must anchor well out in the lagoon because of reefs.

We steamed slowly into the harbor of Seeadlerhafen, the afternoon after leaving Kaewieng. In these islands apparently all attempts at civilization had ended. As the Montoro came to anchor, the water swarmed with spidery outrigger canoes, larger than those around Rabaul or Kaewieng. Most of the outriggers were propelled by marys in bushy grass skirts hung low on their hips, while the brown men stood motionless as statues. One canoe, perhaps a lulual's, contained a skeleton platform whereon squatted an old villain in the midst of papaws, cocoanuts, and greenskinned oranges, while a splendidly proportioned mary bent her strength and paddled against the sea.

I leaned on the ship's rail considering the situation. Should I remain there and cast my lot for perhaps many weeks—if the monsoons broke early and prevented the island steamer from making the usual six-weekly call—among a dozen resident white people? Once there, with the Montoro gone, I should be cut off from even the world of Melanesia for as long as fate and ill weather might see fit to hold me. Suddenly Manus looked very desolate to me, and I felt myself in the grip of a great loneliness.

REACTION OF GAIETY

Then the sudden passionate wistfulness was gone, and the reaction was gaiety, but I decided not to be left off at Lorengau. I didn't know that weeks later it would look like a bit of paradise to my storm-racked, fever-racked self.

The white sail of a ketch advanced from the shore—Kramer's schooner. I recalled Kramer as a silent man with huge protruding ears and exceptionally bad teeth who occasionally joined the Germans at Ah Chee's in Rabaul. Through a technicality he had recently regained possession of his plantation at Lorengau, the technicality being something to the effect that he had established his nationality as Polish instead of German, inasmuch as his birthplace was now part of Poland.

Then a very strange craft put out from shore and headed toward us, this time from a distance up the coast. It was a huge outrigger with a grass hut amidships, manned by six wild, paint-bedecked kanakas. Charley Booth, at my elbow, said, "That'll be Freddy Meister's canoe."

THE EDISON CELL (Science)

The Edison cell is a nickel-iron alkaline cell (left). The positive plate consists of nickel-plated perforated steel tubes in rows and containing nickel hydroxide and flakes of pure nickel (right). The negative plate is a nickel-plated steel frame holding pockets filled with powdered iron oxide. Between the plates are rubber separators. The electrolyte is 21% potassium hydroxide (KOH) with a small percentage of lithium hydrate [Li (OH) 3]. The reaction during discharge (from left to right) and during the charge (from right to left): $2Ni(OH)_3 + Fe = 2Ni(OH)_2 + Fe(OH)_2$. The Edison cell is more durable and lighter than the lead cell, but has a lower cell voltage (1.2 volt) and is not suitable for sudden heavy loads. Automobile starter batteries are, therefore, made up from lead cells. (Nilson and Hornung: Radio Telegraphy).

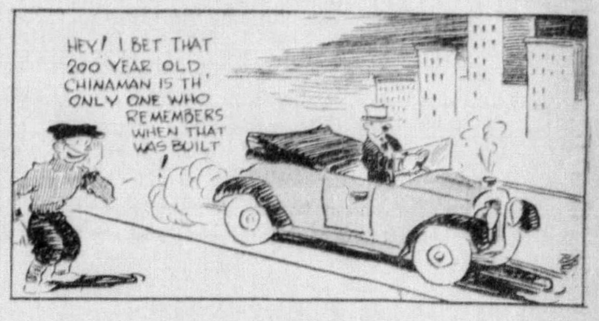
China claims a recent patriarch who lived to be 200 years of age as the lumberyard calendar flaps.

Now, that's plenty of aging in the wood, on the prairie or just around the corner.

Not that a century is much among us established mummies. After that white thatch is on your mansard roof the years whizz by like faces in train windows.

Zip and another dozen months, rattle off the reel and the fish is further away. That's one line you don't wind back again. We don't hope to ever go into our third set of hundreds like the ancient and venerable Chinaman did.

The argument against believing that one man can live 200 semesters is that there is not much precedent for it. Elephants, parrots and alligators are reputed to regard a century as a mere stepping stone to something important. But we know of no nearby neighbors who have come within pegging distance of that wheezy old mark.



We might get there by skipping a couple of bank holidays and by not checking up on our rent receipts. We don't know how they keep score in China, but we think the official tabulator must have given the honorable mandarin credit for a couple of fielder's choices.

Remember that 150-year-old Turkish trophy who got cracked by a New York taxicab that wasn't many years his junior? A check-up on him indicated that he counted on his fingers without taking off his woolen mittens. He wasn't nearly as old as he claimed even though his map was accordion pleated and had enough wrinkles to absorb a plate of tomato consomme.

Yet, the Hongkong authorities verify the 200-year-old philosopher's claim. So far as we are concerned you can take him back and bring us a younger bird.

He is older than our Republic by about 43 quick years. He must have been born somewhere along George Washington's time and that's plenty of parole.

We don't think he ever did it alone. He must have had help.

A Bounty on Bombers

Councilman McArdle's Proposal to Offer A Reward for the Arrest of the Criminals Is Justified.

Citing nine bomb outrages perpetrated in Pittsburgh this year, Councilman P. J. McArdle proposes that the city offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the criminals.

The proposal is amply justified. The Police Bureau has made a miserable showing in dealing with these felonies. House after house has been blown up without an arrest. It is time that some new plan was adopted to bring the felons to book.

Encouraged by their seeming immunity from punishment, the bombers have steadily become bolder. This weapon, at first confined to the Black Hand and similar societies of foreigners for blackmailing purposes, has been adopted by racketeers, and now not even city officials are safe.

Unless the perpetrators of the recent outrages are speedily caught and convicted, there is no telling to what lengths this campaign of bombing will go.

McArdle's plan will encourage private detectives, and may induce accomplices of the criminals to betray them. It is worth trying.

Democrats' Opportunity

If They Are to Make the Most of It, Their Leader Must Denounce Senator James J. Coyne

Allegheny County went Democratic in the last presidential election. The momentum of that movement has not spent itself, and the Democrats have an opportunity to make a creditable showing in the approaching primary.

If they are to make the most of the opportunity they must disabuse voters' minds of the suspicion that the Democratic leader, County Chairman David L. Lawrence, is a lieutenant or ally of Senator James J. Coyne, head of the Republican machine which has given Pittsburgh and Allegheny County such bad government in recent years.

The Coyne machine supported Lawrence when he ran for County Commissioner, and John M. Henry, counsel for Mrs. Anne E. Felix, asserts that Lawrence deprecated her fight to unseat the Republican Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, a Coyne henchman, who she charges was elected fraudulently.

There has been much comment, too, on the fact that in a recent speech in which he declared the Democrats must carry on independently, and in which he denounced the Vares and Mellons, Chairman Lawrence did not mention Coyne, the local Republican boss.

The Democrats will not have made the most of their opportunity until their local leader denounces Coyne, specifically and by name.

Commencement at Pitt

The Graduates and the Community Benefit from Higher Education, Regardless of Its Money Value.

The University of Pittsburgh is holding commencement exercises today. More than a thousand students are graduating.

In view of the complaint that the learned professions are overcrowded, it seems probable that some of the graduates will fail to attain the high positions and high salaries that they may have thought due them because of their higher education.

The ambitious and capable will find encouragement in the fact that no matter how crowded a profession or business may be there is always room at the top for superior men and women.

Regardless, however, of the money value of a college education, it is well worth while, both from the standpoint of the graduate and of the community.

The college graduate, as a rule, will live a fuller, richer life than the person of inferior education, because the former will have insight into and appreciation of things that are a closed book to those without such an education.

And as for the benefit to the community, Dr. D. A. Spencer, of the First Baptist Church, put the matter well in an address to the Pittsburgh Union Ministerial Association Monday when he remarked that the chief contributions to religion, industry, art and education in this age come from college graduates.

Underground Water

The Department of Internal Affairs Offers Advice As to Where to Drill a Well.

The Department of Internal Affairs at Harrisburg announces publication of the first of a series of reports on the underground water supplies of Pennsylvania. It covers Allegheny, Washington, Westmoreland, Greene, Fayette and Butler counties.

To the residents of Pittsburgh and the cities and boroughs which derive their water supply from the rivers this is only of academic interest. But to thousands of persons in this district who depend on wells for their water supply the report will be of practical value.

During the last three years this region suffered from drought. Wells and springs gave out, and people were put to much inconvenience. Some of the wealthy residents of Sewickley Heights and Coraopolis Heights had to go to hotels for a bath.

To these persons the advice offered by the Department of Internal Affairs as to where to drill wells, with best assurance of an abundant water supply, will be very interesting.

Asleep at the Wheel

Vacation time is at hand, and long motor tours are in order.

Do not drive too long without rest.

The Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety calls attention to the danger in connection with the analysis of a report on automobile accidents in Pennsylvania during the first four months of the year.

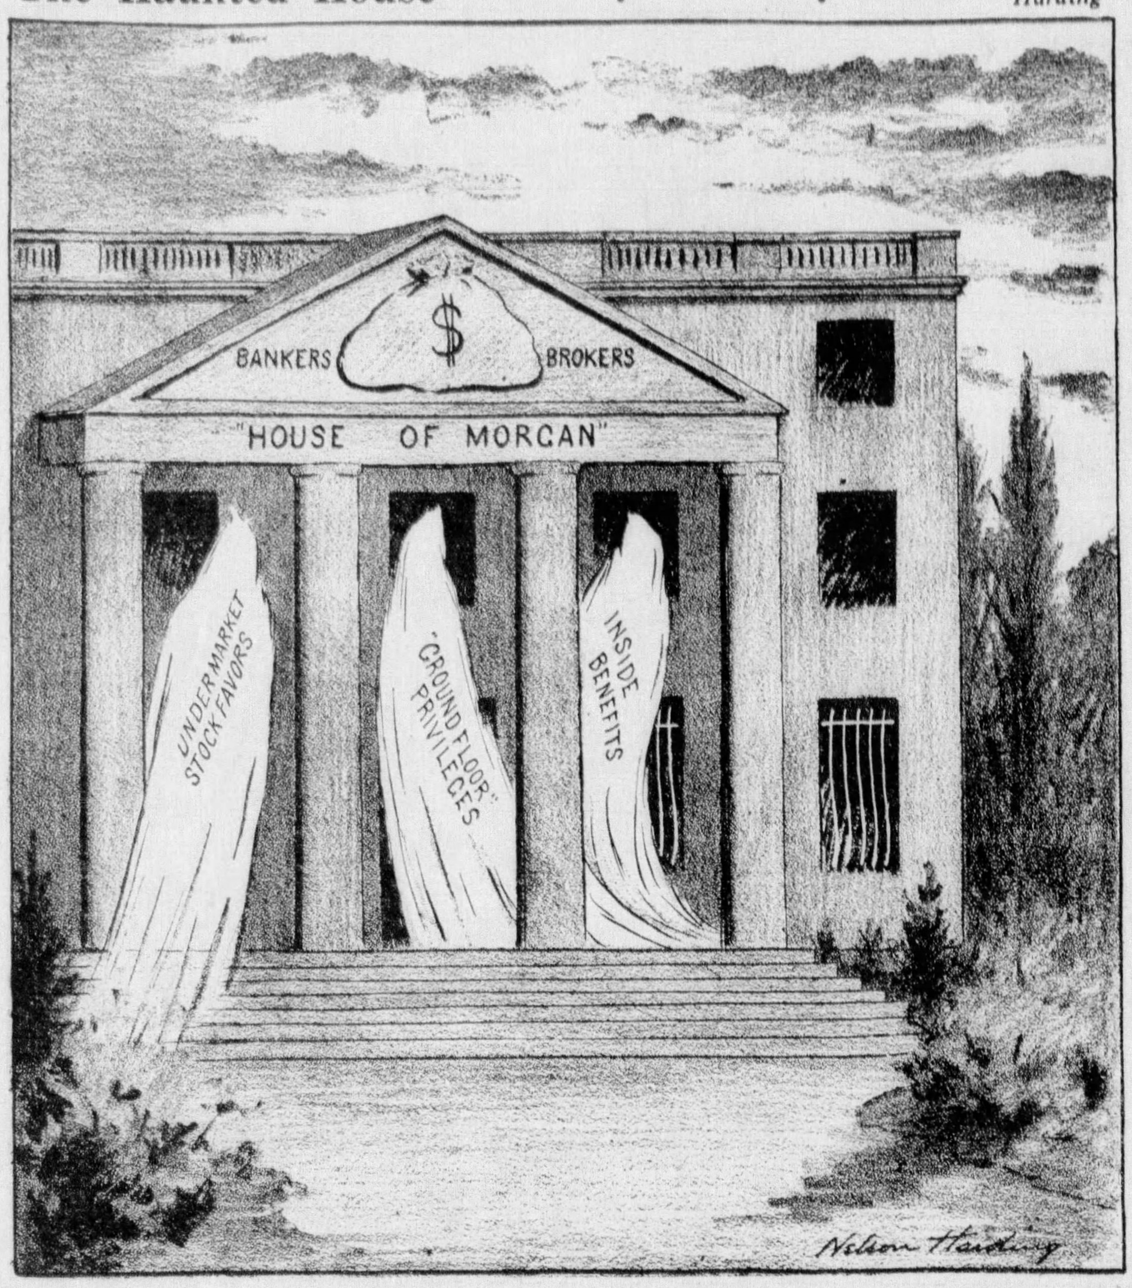
The Haunted House

By Nelson Harding



In that private banking structure,
In that mighty money stronghold,
Ghosts, uneasy and unquiet,
Restlessly flit through the doorway.

Ghosts disturbed, they walk, unwilling,
From the shadows in the twilight,
Startling, puzzling the beholder
As they haunt the "House of Morgan."

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

All-American Woman

"First Ladies of the Land" are no novelty to me. I was born in the shadow of the White House and got my first close-up of a President's wife along with my first basket of colored Easter eggs, on the Executive Mansion lawns. It was all-in-a-day, to ME! Washingtonians are all blase, that way.

So, when I say that I rejoice in the spirit, personality and charm of the lady who pours the President's coffee and reminds him to take his tonic, it is a personal tribute to Eleanor Roosevelt, not just a bouquet to the "First Lady."

* * *

Because she is setting the women of this country an example of kindliness, simplicity, courage and graciousness which they will not soon forget.

Because she is proving to the whole world that a woman can be both a real wife-and-mother and a real individuality, at the same time. And that presence of MIND in a woman does not always mean absence of charm.

Because she has been able to hold onto her husband with one hand and to hang onto her personality with the other. And because, after 20-odd years of life with a man who has become the most outstanding figure in the world, she has managed to hang onto something of her individuality besides her toothbrush.

Because the cultured intonations of her voice, as it comes over the radio, are natural and pleasing, and not too Park-avenue. And because, in her speeches, she never strikes attitudes or deals in platitudes.

Because she hates to bother about clothes and refuses to waste more than two working-brain-cells on shopping for glad rags. Because the most vital problem of her life is NOT the ever-changing length of skirts and haircuts.

* * *

Because her independence is not the sort which expresses itself in mannish clothes, poses for publicity or a play to the gallery, but the kind which consists in doing what interests her, what she likes to do, and what she happens to think of doing, regardless of whether it has ever been done before or not.

* * *

Because, although I spend a part of every year in Washington, she is the only wife of a President of the United States, whose first name I can remember. THAT'S personality!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 7.—Rialto first nights are shorn of the spectacular figures that used to make them so exciting. The critics, of course, are interesting if you care for studied indifference. But the rest of the audience has little sparkle. Not even Daddy Browning and his huge lapel orchid grace Row A.

The waddling, be-diamonded Jim Brady with a Dolly sister dangling on either arm is gone. So is the kindly little corset manufacturer, Col. Mayer. Seldom, too, is Otto Kahn with his swirl of white-lined Inverness and ivory-knobbed stick seen. Or the marrying Peggy what's-her-name!

Others the old-timers miss — Rennold Wolfe and his mother, Alan Dale, Mesdames Francis and Bobay of the dressmaking salons, the high-spending Locke Freres, Stuffy Davis and his sweater and, of course, Jimmy Walker strutting down the aisle in the middle of the second act like a cock-o'-the-walk.

Newer first nighters run to an all-alike gloss — Jules Glaenzer, Bertram Taylor, Billy Seeman and Herbert Bayard Swope. A bored crew who take theatricals as casually as eating. There is no longer that dash of gallantry and tingle of sly sin that frescoed opening nights of yonder days.

The radio has been a blow to receipts from telephone time-askers. Calling Meridian 7-1212 and securing the correct hour was once a hefty source of revenue. But today, with the constant broadcasting of the precise time this avalanche of nickels has shrunk to a dribble.

Valentine Williams, who next to Edgar Wallace likely has the largest mystery following in England, seems definitely to have cast his career in America. He has joined the fiction writers along Central Park South. Quiet, reserved and never without his pipe, he is far removed from his Fleet street days of reporting exciting adventures ranging from battle fields of France to the Tomb of Tut. Yet he runs true to form. All mystery story writers I have known — Arthur Somers Roche, William McHarg, etc. etc.—have a genteel reticence.

A new high in happiness was attained today by a receipt of a special delivery parcel post containing a set of Jack Powell's own drum sticks, especially autographed, which will go under glass along with wax doves in the parlor. Powell, world's most accomplished tympanist, is one of life's heroes to this chronicler. I would rather master his saltarello sense of rhythm than turn out a best seller. And a "Design for Living."

Someone tells me the oldest apartment house in New York—if not demolished recently—is the Rutherford-Stuyvesant on East Eighteenth street. Edwin Booth lived there as did Lafcadio Hearn and Opie Read. A few blocks northward, too, the Caledonia still stands. It was the home of O. Henry and I believe at various times Harris Merton Lyon, Samuel Blythe, Willa Cather and Bill Nye stopped there. If New York could be as sentimental about its artists as, say Paris, the block would be called Place O. Henry. But Tammany chieftains who decide such things would probably look upon it as a free ad for an advertised candy. Or something.

They were talking—as everybody is—about the grand new Madame Minister Ruth Bryan Owen, first of her sex to become envoy to a foreign country. Sighed Irvin Cobb: "The only things women have left men are chewing tobacco and sideburns and both are going out."

All of a sudden the talented Rita Wieman joined the distigue ladies with a powdered splotch of gray in jet-black hair. The white crest, flung high, followed a long illness from which she has fully recovered.

"You like cheese and ginger snaps for breakfast," writes E. S. "How about my menu this morning—sweet pickles, warmed over bean soup and an ice cream cone."

You colic me!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You want freedom.

All your life you have felt that something was holding you back.

You didn't know what that "something" was. When you were young, you thought it was your parents. When you went into the world, you decided it was poverty, or social injustice, or perhaps illness, or lack of education.

But always you have felt that something outside you was holding you back. And you've longed to be free.

You're still longing to be free, aren't you? In spite of the fact that many of those earlier handicaps have ended, you still feel bound—still "want out."

And you find the same longing in everyone you meet. Beneath their gay laughter or their solemn silence, they, too, are tortured by the same restlessness and resentment. Even though they may be enjoying all those things which seem to you to be most desirable in life—health, wealth, success, power—they, too, want to be free.

But once in a while you chance on people who seem to be really free, and it's always a surprise. For, amazingly, their material condition often seems much worse than yours. Seldom are they wealthy. Sometimes they are extremely poor, often very sick, with countless troubles which surely should worry them. Yet they seem to have discovered some secret release.

You wonder what it is. How can lives so afflicted be free? Where can you find freedom such as theirs? And once again you scan your horizon, hoping to find the secret of freedom there in some lucky, outward circumstance.

YOU'LL NEVER FIND IT THERE—

FOR THE SECRET OF FREEDOM DOESN'T LIKE OUTSIDE YOU.

YOU CAN'T FIND IT IN MONEY, OR IN FAME, OR IN PLEASURE, OR IN POWER. NONE OF THESE THINGS CAN EVER SET YOU FREE FROM THAT NAGGING SENSE OF BONDAGE.

THERE IS ONLY ONE FREEDOM THAT CAN RELEASE YOUR LIFE—

AND THAT FREEDOM LIES WITHIN YOURSELF.

IT IS FREEDOM FROM SELF—FROM THE DARK, AND THE WEAK, AND THE FOOLISH THINGS WITHIN YOURSELF.

Your own nature.

But aren't there other awful handicaps which hold us all back? Poverty, illness, the wrong environment, the wrong birth, man's cruelty to man—don't these things hold us all back?

They do. And I know of no way by which any one man can lick these things. Release from them must come, if it ever does come, through the growth of evolution of the human race. And if you're looking for a panacea which will promptly put you on Easy Street, physically and financially, stop reading this article right now, for there "ain't no such animal"—and anyone who promises to give it to you is either a fool or just another pop-eyed liar.

So you might as well make up your mind before you even start that you'll have to do without a great many pleasant things in life, and endure a great many unpleasant things. Yet in spite of this, you can have the pleasantest thing in life—the only thing that really counts. YOU CAN HAVE FREEDOM.

FOR FREEDOM CONSISTS NOT IN GETTING THE LIFE YOU WANT, BUT IN BEING ABLE TO BEAR AND USE AND ENJOY THE LIFE YOU GET.

Freedom means release, not from a cramped pocketbook and a crippled leg, but from a cramped brain and a crippled heart.

Freedom means victory, not over the other fellow, or from adverse Fate, but over yourself—over your own fear and hate, ignorance and impulsiveness, silliness and greed.

There is only one freedom, and that is it.

There is only one shackle on your life—AND YOU ARE IT!

Break the shackles of yourself, and nothing in heaven or hell can cramp your style!

Isn't It So?

He that fears leaves must not go into the woods.

Being big depends almost entirely on the size of the people around you.

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

FIFTY THOUSAND people, more or less, will pay half a million dollars, more or less, for the thrill of seeing a young giant from California attempt to batter into unconsciousness a young giant from Germany. Thousands will shriek admiration for blond Baer and other thousands for black-browed Schmeling.

But the greatest storm of cheering that will rise to the astonished stars will be for neither. It will be for a curiously modest and still young man named William Harrison Dempsey, whose fighting days are over. Jack Dempsey, who divides with Bobby Jones and Babe Ruth the honor of being the most magnetic and appealing figure in the world of sport.

WHAT that crowd would really like to see would be Dempsey himself in fighting togs; Dempsey as he was just 10 years ago, the night he battered down Firpo, Wild Bull of the Pampas, in less than two rounds of the most terrific battling in the history of the prize ring.

Eighty-five thousand people paid a million and a quarter dollars that wild night to get the thrill of their lives.

Dempsey, lithe yellow panther, leaps straight at the huge Firpo as the bell clangs to start round one. He throws all caution to the winds. Within 10 seconds he hammers the giant Argentinian to the canvas. But Firpo, gorilla of a man, is up, then down, then up, then down, then up—all so fast that the eye can scarcely follow the action. And all at once the great, clumsy bear of a Firpo lands fair and square on Dempsey's jaw, and Jack is hurt. Every terrific punch that follows drives him nearer and nearer to the edge of the ring, and the ninth blow topples him clear out of the ring and into the lap of a sporting writer.

The crowd goes completely insane, reverting to the mentality of its hairy ancestors. The president of a motion picture company, who has bet $47,000 on Dempsey, gibbers and babbles as the tears roll down his cheeks. And then the reporters boost Dempsey back into the ring and, still dazed, he takes 13 straight, hammering blows from Firpo before he is able to lift his arms. The bell rings, ending the round.

THAT was Dempsey in the moment of his greatest triumph, but not in his greatest moment. This writer prefers the picture of him in the moment of his bitterest defeat, when Gene Tunney took his title away from him as the rain poured upon 140,000 people in the sesqui-centennial stadium in Philadelphia.

As the referee raised the right glove of the new champion, the left side of Dempsey's face, against which Tunney's fists had stabbed round after round, was a purple pulp. His left eye was nearly closed, lost in the swollen flesh. Nose and mouth seemed twisted, inhumanly awry. His body tottered upon shaking knees. But when the bell clanged for the last time there stood the old champion, still driving forward, still coming in, tired left arm thrust out, his one good eye still blazing defiance. He was almost out on his feet, but his fighting spirit was flaming to the last.

THAT is what the crowd yearns for and is willing to pay for—the old fighting spirit; that something which triumphs over the flesh and comes straight from the gods. This side of the Golden Gate, and this material earth where we are all prisoners of the flesh, the greatest thing a man can have is the fighting spirit. To be beaten is no disgrace. Frequently, as in Jack Dempsey's case, it is not even important. The disgraceful thing is to quit WITHOUT a fight.

The greatest men who ever lived had that fighting spirit, men who never knew when they were beaten. Washington was that breed of man, and so was Grant, and Theodore Roosevelt, and the Roosevelt who rules in the White House today. And Dempsey, although he has walked in humbler paths, and although his fighting has been of the primitive kind that is hardly changed from the dim ages when a man's brawn was his only defense, is that kind of man.

TEN MILLION years of evolution and 10,000 years of education and culture and religion have not eliminated that old, deep-seated admiration for a first-class fighting man, whether he battles with his brains or his fists. That is why gentle, gray-haired ladies go to prize fights and why timid, elderly gentlemen spending their lives in offices glory in the violent deeds of western story and western picture heroes and brass commandments and smoking guns.

That is why all the leagues of nations and Washington conferences and Locarno treaties and Kellogg pacts dwindle into pathetic futility; why war and the glamor of war remain and will remain for hundreds of years to come, remain probably until the last trumpet is sounded.

DESIRE TO 'BOSS'

By Winifred Black

Yes, I think Ida is growing old—she's getting to be "bossy."

And really you know—I went for a drive with Ida yesterday. Nice little drive along a smooth road, leading into the very heart of spring.

Green grass, wild flowers, trees all dressed in green, and there was one hillside—well you never would believe it if you didn't see it.

Little yellow and brown Johnny jump ups and gay little baby blue eyes and pale pink striped spring beauties—all nodding together in the wind like a set of pretty little dancers in the finest pageant in the world.

The river was still a little while—as if it couldn't quite get used to the smiling valleys after it had come so lately from the snow and the frost of the mountains where it was born.

There was a little chill in the air, but the sun was bright and warm, and we thought—the four of us, old friends—that we would snatch up a bite of luncheon—two or three sandwiches and a pickle or so, and maybe three or four stuffed eggs and a good big bottle of perfectly good coffee—and have a picnic.

Ida was late.

We stopped at her hotel for her, and she wasn't in her room, and she wasn't in the lobby, and all at once she came meandering around a pillar where she had been annoying the man at the news counter because he didn't have exactly the paper she wanted at the very moment she wanted it.

On the way to the valleys and the pleasant hills, and the singing river Ida thought it was a little cool and we shut the windows.

Then she thought it was stuffy and we ought to open the windows.

We intended to go to the east for our picnic, but Ida said no, the west would be better so west we went.

We wanted to stop at a nice little cozy break in the hills, but Ida said no, we must go farther on—so farther on we went.

When we stopped for the picnic, Ida told us where to set our little folding table, and what to do about seats, and where to put the pickles and the olives, and she told Mary to pour the coffee, and she asked Anne to pass the sandwiches, and she told us when to put our coats on and when to take them off.

Poor Ida, she's sweet, and she's good, and she's really very intelligent, she would divide her last dollar with a friend, and she wouldn't hurt any one's feelings for the world, but dear me, how I do hate to be "bossed" don't you?

I wonder why?
